

Mobile command center aids sheriff's department in off site investigations

By Cheryl Peterson

Working outside in the elements of northern Michigan to coordinate law enforcement personnel during investigations at crime scenes is now a thing of the past for the Alcona County Sheriff's Department.

Thanks to a Homeland Security grant and a local volunteer group that planned and provided the labor, the sheriff's department now has a mobile command center.

According to Alcona County Sheriff Douglas Atchison, the command center will be used "when we are going to be on scene for an extended period of time - anything from a fatal accident where there is a lengthy investigation with accident recreation to preliminary scene investigations involving arson, homicide or a barricaded gunman. It will be utilized by our agency as well as any others we might be working with - state police, DNRE, fire departments, the forest service - depending on the situation."

The 16 foot by six foot trailer is fully equipped for lengthy outings, according to Alcona County Sheriff's Deputy Nathanael Leeseberg. It has lights, heat, air conditioning, battery power and a generator, refrigerator, radio communications, cell phone booster and an area for storage of supplies and equipment. The center can seat three individuals and has enough space for seven or so individuals.

"It's literally an office away from our office - we can do anything here that we can do at the office," Leeseberg said. "The Alcona County Amateur Radio Group did everything from the schematics to putting it all together. They did a phenomenal job. The attention to detail is incredible." Leeseberg worked as a liaison between the radio group and the sheriff's department.

Atchison explained that up to the completion of the mobile command center, many of the off-site investigations and coordinated responses were "conducted on the trunk of a patrol car" and sensitive interviews were sometimes held in the backseat of a car.

"The radio group went above and beyond (on this project)," Atchison said. "Members literally put in

A demolition crew brings down two buildings in downtown Lincoln. The Alcona Auto Parts building and the Miller Hardware building were torn down after being vacant for more than 10 years and condemned by the county. According to Village of Lincoln President Phil Jordan, the hardware store was built in the 1920s and the parts building was built in the 1950s. The Lincoln Downtown Development Authority (DDA) received a $128,000 grant from the Michigan Economic Development Commission for the demolition, asbestos removal, site clearing and seeding. As stipulated in the grant, the space will be "green" for a year, then may be sold. The DDA provided $40,000 in matching funds for the project. The contractor is Beirlin out of Midland, Mich. "They have done a fabulous job clearing those sites; very professional," Jordan said. "The project should be wrapped up by Friday, Nov. 5."

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,
I would like to know if you or any of your readers could tell me what happened to all the benches that lined Main Street. They all had plaques that indicated who donated them or if they were in memory of a loved one. I don't understand how they could just be taken away.

Is that legal? I guess they were not beautiful enough to go with our treeless, red wavy lined sidewalks in beautiful downtown Harrisville. I would also like to know who had the nightmare that dreamed up this ridiculous idea of beautiful.

Lillian J. Burke
Harrisville

To the Editor,
Okay, I'll admit I was one of the first folks to write a letter about my disgust with the cutting of trees along Main Street, and I see the outrage continues; that is a good thing.

trees and now they are going to use more of your tax dollars and plant trees on private property?

I'm not sure, but I think it's a felony to divert public funds to private use and planting trees on private property is doing just that. After planting, the trees become the property of the land owner to do with as they see fit. Your tax dollars at work again.

But, there is nothing we can do about spilt milk, however if we act fast enough maybe we can stop this.

There seems to be plenty of outrage over the tree cutting and I thought it would have inspired someone to start paying attention to what the city leaders are doing with your money, but apparently that is not the case.

Imagine my surprise when farther back in the Review I read this in the city minutes: "The City of Harrisville is going to plant five new oak or maple trees on private property in strategic locations that can handle their root system and not affect the sidewalks."

Someone, anyone, needs to start watching this stuff closer and holding folks accountable.

No discussion of a "proposal," no vote, no mention of costs involved, nothing, just this simple statement of fact. I wonder who's property is going to get the new trees?

Somehow I wasn't aware that free gratis political ads submitted under the guise of Letters to the Editor would be published as such in the Review. Now that I know, this clever but dubious strategy is filed as a lesson learned.

Democratic candidate, Casey Viegelaahn.

Curiously, the writers of these "letters" were from Hillman, Petoskey and Alpena, not Alcona County. The political timing was glaringly evident.

Three "To the Editor" ads in the past two Reviews either touted the alleged merits of the GOP 106th District candidate, or berated the perceived qualifications of the

Alcona Motors helps raise money for local youth soccer program

In the spirit of teamwork taught by youth sports, Alcona Motors, Inc. is teaming up with AYSO Region 584 to provide players and coaches with soccer kits filled with equipment bags, soccer balls, sport cones, practice jerseys and T-shirts, a monetary donation and an opportunity to help them raise funds.

AYSO Region 584 will have the opportunity to raise as much as $10,000 this fall through a fundraising opportunity where one recipient will win his or her choice of a 2010 Chevy Equinox or Malibu. Another winner will receive a home entertainment package.

Alcona Motors, Inc. and other northern Michigan area Chevrolet dealerships are donating these prizes to participating leagues in the area. One-hundred percent of the proceeds go directly to the leagues, and they can use the funds in any way they choose.

Some leagues plan to grant scholarships to families who cannot afford to enroll their children in the league, while others will use the funds to improve fields and equipment.

"We are proud to be able to help the kids in our community by donating equipment and giving them the opportunity to raise much-needed funds for the league. We are excited to be part of the effort this year, and anticipate a fun-filled season with AYSO Region 584," said Jon Kruttlin of Alcona Motors, Inc.

A one-time monetary donation was presented by Alcona Motors to the region on October 23 by Kruttlin. The league will also have the opportunity to raise additional funds for their use as a part of a Chevrolet Youth Soccer Fundraiser.

Sponsored leagues across the country will each receive 2,000 fundraiser entry tickets to distribute for a suggested donation, and the league will keep 100 percent of the proceeds raised. the 106th District State Representative contest, I'm honored to have had the opportunity to get to know and support Casey.

The Petoskey writer's assessment of the Casey Viegelahn I've come to know and respect was correct in one aspect; that he's not a smooth talking politician. What you see is what you get. Pretty refreshing in this otherwise contentious political climate. After having served his nation with two tours of duty in Iraq as a U.S. Marine captain, Casey again laid it all on the line to serve his state and the people of the 106th.

From the beginning, Casey pledged a clean, positive campaign, promoting his vision of direction for Michigan's future. No pretense or scripted rhetoric. That's been a promise kept. Casey offered 106th District voters exceptional leadership qualities, integrity, youthful energy, and a fresh optimism desperately needed in the state legislature. Those rare qualities in a candidate are why Casey earned my admiration and support.

God forbid we should consider electing someone who has no political baggage or an alleged business acumen, who to his credit, conducted his campaign with pride, poise and class.

hundreds of man hours toward the completion of this project and we certainly appreciate it."

This project did take some time to come together. Atchison explained the Homeland Security grant of $3,000 was awarded in 2004. It was enough to purchase the trailer and outfit it with the generator, heater, air conditioning, et cetera. Before it was finished, the grant money ran out.

Atchison said the remaining funds used to complete the command center — $2,867 — came from non general fund dollars. "This money came from miscellaneous sources — not from the tax base," Atchison said. He explained funds came from a variety of sources accumulated over the last several years including drug forfeitures and fees jail inmates pay to use the telephone, et cetera.

In addition to the mobile command center, the sheriff's department and 911 central dispatch has received three other Homeland Security grants totaling $126,000 during the last few years.

According to Atchison, the two departments received $24,000 for new handheld portable 800 megahertz radios to enhance communication for law enforcement.

This fall a new 120 foot communication antenna was installed for 911 central dispatch communications with a $62,000 Homeland Security grant. And, a new generator that will power the entire building — sheriff's department, jail and kitchen, 911 dispatch, and 82 District Court — is in the process of being installed. The Homeland Security grant for this project is $40,000.

SENIOR LIFESTYLES

Changes coming to Medicare Part D

Dear Savvy Senior,
Should I consider changing my Medicare (Part D) prescription drug plan during open enrollment season? My pharmacist told me that with all the changes coming next year, it would be a good time to shop and compare plans because I could probably find a better deal. What do you think?

Retired Rita

Dear Rita,
Reviewing your Medicare Part D options during the open enrollment season (November 15 - December 31) is actually a smart thing to do every year, but it's particularly important this year because of all the costs, coverage and plan changes that are coming in 2011.

One of the biggest changes to Medicare Part D next year is the shrinking of the "donut hole" coverage gap.

In 2010, seniors fall into the coverage gap when their prescription drug expenses total $2,830 for the year. At that point, you generally have to pay all of your drug bills yourself until the total cost of your drugs for the year reaches $6,440. After that, your insurer picks up most of the bill.

But starting in 2011, seniors that hit the donut hole will get a 50 percent discount on brand name drugs and a seven percent discount on generic drugs. So if you've been paying extra for coverage in the donut hole, now is a good time to review your options. You may be able to switch to a more basic, less expensive plan and still end up with similar coverage because of these new discounts.

Rising premiums, the elimination of some popular drug plans, and the addition of some new low-cost plans are the other changes you need to be aware of.

While the average Part D premiums will increase by just $1 in 2011, to $30 per month, several of the more popular drug plans that millions of retirees are enrolled in are increasing by an average of 10 percent. Another change that wealthier beneficiaries need to take note of is the addition of a high-income surcharge next year. If your income is more than $85,000 (or $170,000 per couple) your Part D monthly premiums will be higher than those with lower incomes.

Also new in 2011, Medicare is requiring insurers to cut back or consolidate the duplicate drug plans they offer to help make the selection process easier. This reduction, however, means that several popular plans like United Healthcare's AARP Medicare Saver plan and Universal America's Pres-cribaRX Bronze plan will be discontinued. Seniors in these plans will automatically be switched into different plans by the same company.

If you're in a plan that's being dropped and you're being moved over to another plan, or if your premiums are rising sharply, you definitely need to reassess your options. Another Medicare drug plan may provide better coverage at a lower price.

You also need to know that several new low-cost drug plans are entering the market next year. The Humana Wal-Mart-Preferred Rx plan is the cheapest at only $14.80 per month, but be aware that your out-of-pocket costs for this plan will vary greatly depending on where you purchase your medications.

When comparing drug plans be sure to consider the whole pricing package including premiums, deductibles and co-pays. Low-premium plans could cost you more if you have to pay high co-payments for your medications. Also, be sure the plan you choose covers all of the drugs you take with no restrictions.

To compare plans, use Medicare's online Plan Finder Tool (www.medicare.gov/find-a-plan) where you type in your zip code, drugs and dosages, and select the pharmacies you use and you'll get

No cost of living increase

Senior News Line
By Matilda Charles

The news isn't good. There has been lots of talk about the Social Security Cost-of-Living Adjustment (COLA) for the year 2011. And now we know: We won't see an increase in our monthly checks.

Many of us already live close to the edge. With the cost of everything going up — food, gas, utilities, clothing, medical (and never mind having any fun by going out to a movie or the occasional dinner) — we're going to be squeezed tighter than ever.

Many of my friends are getting angry and making plans on how to survive with less. That's my stance on it, too: Figuring out how to make it work.

Here are some of their ideas:

- Join a movie club, one that delivers DVDs right to your door in the mail, and split the cost with some friends. Swap the movie around or get together once a week to watch the latest film.
- Don't buy holiday gifts for family this year, or send one check as a family gift.
- Pool your resources where possible. Go in with a few friends on bulk groceries and divide them into smaller amounts. Go on errands together in one car, or use the van if you live in a retirement center.

- Ask the senior center or even the library to host a meeting to exchange ideas on how to save, signing up with others for car rides and bulk purchases, or bartering and swapping.

- Ask your doctor for generics on every prescription you have, and buy them at Walmart or other stores offering $4 prescriptions, if possible.

Remember: We can be tough if we have to be, and we can do this. All it takes is an attitude adjustment, right?

And we're not going to take it anymore...

By Kathryn Fritz Kniep
Columnist
"The erosion of our confidence in the future is threatening to destroy the social and the political fabric of America," ~ Jimmy Carter
"I feel your pain," ~ Bill Clinton
"Get over it," ~ The Eagles

I smiled this past weekend, reading a comment from a young mom on Facebook. "I'll be so glad when it's Wednesday," she said. "Halloween and the election will be over."

A lot of us would agree with that, at least when it comes to the election with its on-going barrage of advertising and analysis.

As I write this, I of course have no idea what the results of that election will be. But if you listen to the national media, there's one thing they're absolutely certain of: The country is angry. And I have to ask, after having heard this particular observation over and over again, just what is it we're so angry about?

It takes me back to my teenage years, when I occasionally indulged in "tossing my head around." That's what my family called the whiny, deeply sighing moments of teenage angst when you want to make it clear that you are the only person left in the whole world who doesn't (insert complaint here). My mom and dad weren't deeply troubled by my woes. My dad, who ran a grocery store, put it in a grocer's terms. "You," he used to tell me, "Are as spoiled as last week's hamburger."

So what is it, then, that we're supposed to be so angry about? Well, a good many of those discussing it contend that this is "post September 11 anger." Okay. Almost a decade ago, our country was attacked. Buildings were destroyed. People died. Please understand that in no way am I diminishing the horror of that day in our national history. But there's a lady in my church who lived through the London Blitz as a child. Seventy-six straight nights of consistent bombing, 43,000 dead, more than a million buildings destroyed or damaged. And the Brits did what they may do better than anyone else. They persevered.

Another element of our national anger, according to the press at least, is the recession. The loss of businesses, jobs, homes and 401Ks. There can be no question that many people are suffering the affects of the economy.

Still, in the great scheme of things, we remain the richest nation in the world. The homeless, they have reason to be angry. (Though they don't always seem to be). The people of New Orleans and the Gulf, they have reason to be angry. Those who suffered at the hands of greedy bankers or financial advisers, they, too have reason to be angry.

But for most of us, while the budget may be tighter than its been in a long time, we're still tossing in a magazine and dog treats along with the groceries, all the while fuming about our "plight."

There are lots of people in this country who have a legitimate reason to be angry. People who have lost a child for lack of health care, for example. People with incredible skills who seek work day after day to no avail. People who worked and saved all their lives and now, in their so-called golden years, find their retirement funds gone missing.

But the majority of us, I suspect, while we may be mad as hell, are dealing largely with inconvenience. As my father would point out, we're pretty spoiled. Which wouldn't be so much of a concern if anger weren't so darn contagious. But it seems to me that this alleged national anger is beginning to seep into my own little world of Alcona County.

Here in the heartland, where we've never had much

and we've always taken care of each other, it seems to me over this past year that I've begun to see some factionism. More blame game, more division into "them and us," more kvetching about the things we used to just put our head down and get done. It's not our fault, after all. It's the county, it's the city, it's the township, it's the neighbors. And that doesn't make me angry. It troubles me.

Anger is a corrosive emotion. Physically, it raises the adrenaline level and the blood pressure. Emotionally, it leads to isolation and depression. Nationally - or so it seems to me - it manifests itself in polarization, bullying and sometimes even violence.

It's not, you should understand, that I never get mad. Trust me, I do. I'm of Irish heritage, after all and as spoiled as anybody else, if not more so. I live with a chronic condition day to day, the primary symptoms of which are fatigue, pain and muscle weakness, none of which is particularly good for the temper.

Catch me sometime when my right arm has just spasmed and I'm mopping up the Coke I spilled all over the table, the floor and my computer keyboard. Or on a morning when my legs just quietly, but adamantly, refuse to bring me to my feet. Or maybe, under those circumstances, you'd be better off to just stay out of my way. Which is not to say "poor me" so much as it is to say, "Sure, I get ticked, too."

Still, while I can't take any credit for it, God and Mother Nature must have realized that I'd have days when I felt like tossing my head around. Whatever the reason, recognizing that they probably couldn't keep me from getting mad, they made me constitutionally incapable of staying mad.

From where I stand - or more often, these days, sit - there's just too much humor, joy and beauty in the world to waste my time on anger. That's a good thing, since I don't need anything else eating away at me, thank you very much.

And maybe that's part of the answer. Maybe, before we head out to face the slings and arrows of another day, we need to just take a little time in our busy lives and arm ourselves with some of the things that can defend us from the bangs and bruises of anger. Maybe, each day, we need a good dose of things that can lead us into if not happiness, at least contentment.

Most of them are the little, tiny, infinitesimal things that are all too easily overlooked when you're stomping around, tossing your head. The smile of a child. The reliability of sunrise. A husband who brings your morning coffee. A neighbor's wave hello. The e-mail that makes you chuckle. The antics of a dog that make you laugh out loud.

Like the Brits in World War II, we need to persevere. Get angry about being characterized as being angry. Go out and make somebody else's day less of an occasion for anger. It may work, it might not. I'm no Pollyanna.

We live in hard times. One thing's for sure, though. If we all try sharing the abundance of life with our fellow man, carry some empathy and a healthy dose of humor with us at all times, it's bound to smell a little less like last week's hamburger around here.

Dear Friends,
Our deepest appreciation for the love and caring you extended to us with the passing of Bud. Your beautiful cards, words of sympathy, and encouragement will continue to sustain us in the days going forward. Special thanks to Alcona Township Fire Chief Ralph Klotz, as well as the firefighters of the Lost Lake Woods Club, Greenbush, Lincoln, Mikado and South Shore, who responded to our call in the time of need.

Sometimes words just aren't good enough to express what's held in our hearts, so we'll just say, Thank You.

The Family of George T. Welbon Jr.

Alcona Education Association teachers and school staff members came out to "Fight Like a Girl" in support of the Alcona and Oscoda girls' volleyball teams fundraiser, Volley for a Cure. Teachers, paraprofessionals and bus drivers all made donations to dress down and wear Fight Like a Girl T-shirts or to wear pink. All donations including the price of the T-shirts went to support the purchase of mammography equipment in low income areas. SPECIAL MEETING NOTICE

Regarding the Future of Huron Shores Chamber of Commerce

Date: November 10, 2010

Time: 7 p.m.

Place: Alcona County Library-Harrisville Branch

It is urgent that you attend a special meeting to discuss the future of the Huron Shores Chamber of Commerce. Leadership and participation of chamber members is lacking.

The future of the chamber will have to be determined soon. Unless we get participation and ideas at this meeting, the future of the chamber as we know it today cannot continue.

If the chamber does not continue to sponsor activities such as the Antique Show, Wine and Food Festival, Christmas In The Village, Fireworks, etc., where will Harrisville and Alcona County be? Can we get along without these activities, the chamber office and website due to a lack of interest and participation of chamber members?

Officers are unpaid to represent over 80 members and a half dozen activities. If you believe in the chamber, plan to attend this meeting to hear and present new ideas. Your lack of attendance just reinforces and represents a lack of interest in the future of our chamber, our businesses and our area. We have one year to work with and train new leadership. The chamber really needs your help at this time.

We hope to see you Wednesday, November 10, 7 p.m. at the Alcona County Library, Harrisville branch, following the regular meeting, which begins at 6 p.m. Bring a friend, chamber member or not, to hear and discuss the existing concerns on the future of Huron Shores Chamber of Commerce, serving Alcona County.

Organization Notes

Lincoln Depot

The Lincoln Depot will host Mike Reed at its November 9 meeting at 1 p.m. He is from Tawas City and has been instrumental in the Operation Lifesaver program with the D&M and Lake/Saginaw Bay Southern Railroads. He will be showing his Lionel Train collection and memorabilia of Detroit & Mackinaw Railroad.

Reed has decided to make the collection available at special donation prices to seven organizations including Durand Depot, Saginaw Porter Street, D & M Historical Society.

The Lincoln Depot is proud to be one of the museums selected to be part of this opportunity for our community to see these collection and possibly purchase items for the museum or their personal collection. A conductor's uniform, one of only four in existence will be offered. This uniform belonged to Joe Schmanski, the last conductor on the D & M train into Lincoln. Also to be displayed is a collection from Dick Wilson's Maintained Shop from the D&M Railroad.

While researching various groups interested in railroad history this quotation from Detroit and Mackinac at Wikipedia was found. "A collection of DM artifacts, including a 1920s switching engine are housed at the depot in Lincoln, Mich."

Northeast Michigan UAW Retirees

The Northeast Michigan U.A.W. Retirees held their October monthly luncheon on Wednesday, Oct. 6. The guest speakers were state representative Andy Neumann and Casey Viegelhan who is running for Neumann's job.

Neumann said that financial senior abuse is rampant. Approximately 70,000 seniors in Michigan a year are taken advantage of and he would like to try to get legislation passed to protect them. Neumann is running for the state senate and is well qualified, has always supported the working men and women of Michigan and would make an excellent state senator.

Viegelhan said he would work across the aisle and promote joint efforts in creating legislature. He has had leadership experience serving our country and is willing to work hard for us.

East Shore Art Guild/Gallery

The East Shore Art Guild/Gallery, Inc. general monthly meeting for October came to order at 1:10 p.m. and began with president Bernie Blazak welcoming everyone to the meeting. Secretary's report: Not read this month. Next gallery meeting: November 3 at the Harrisville library. Rose Blazak read Peggy Little's e-mail treasurer's report for the month. Approved, first and seconded.

Membership: Trish Davis (not present) has sent a letter to each member with the form to fill out for membership dues. Please try to get these in as soon as possible. Advertising: Guild and gallery -- Terry Lipscomb has been checking into all the free advertising in the area. She has contacted about seven places that could help out the guild and gallery. She will report to the guild and gallery with more information on this subject.

Joan Shively went through the gallery's treasurer's report and gave everyone present a calendar showing the days that are off and worked until December of this year. We were also given a sheet with reminders. Our schedule for the month of October is Monday through Saturday, 11 a.m. to p.m.

Gallery meetings are held on the first Tuesday of the month. Except November, we will meet on Wednesday, Nov. 3 at 1 p.m. at the library in Harrisville.

Calling next day workers: Please call the person who works the following day as a reminder and let them know if cash is needed. Peg Little e would like to take this opportunity to thank all the local businesses that participated in the annual Lincoln Downtown Development Chili and Soup Cook-off and Trick or Trunk. Without you we would not be able to make this event as successful as it has become. There were so many delicious chilis and soups this year, we had 20 businesses participating and 23 combined chili and soups made. We sold over 200 cups of the chili and soup this year.

This year's winners were:

CHILI

 2nd place tie – Lincoln Precision and Heather's House of Hair
 3rd place – Dellar Dairy Farm

SOUPS

1st place - The Backwoods Bistro
 2nd place – Our Place
 3rd place – Teresa's Daycare

We were very excited with the amount of cars decorated to hand out candy. This year we had a prize for best decorated car and the winner was Kellie and Sydney Sefernick with a coffin and Dracula inside the trunk. We passed out candy to over 250 children. What a great feeling it was to see all those smiling faces trick or trunking for candy!

Winners for best carved or decorated pumpkins were:

2-6 years old – Samantha Robins
 7-10 years old – Miriah Krone
 11-13 years old – Torie Harmon

Winners for best pet costume were:

Dogs: 1st place – Lindsey Nardi
 2nd place – Jenna Escareno
 Cats: 1st place – Tarrin Durfee

Winners of the business decorating contest were:

1st place – The Cozy Cabin
 2nd place – The Backwoods Bistro
 3rd place – Michigan Works

We would also like to thank the National Honor Society for selling our chili cups for us. Our judges this year did a great job, thank you again Joan Toombs, Kathy and Bill Tusky and Debbie Shaneour. A big thank you goes to Dr. Kathy Jo Swartz of the Alcona Animal Clinic, Kris Mart, Chris Scully, Miller Office Machines, Gillies Funeral Home and Our Place for their generous donations. A big thank you also goes to Dick Somers for all his help on Saturday.

We are so proud to be a member of this community, thank you for making this event a huge success again this year. Remember Children are our future!!

StarWatch By Gary Becker - It's about Time

The moment is almost upon us to change our clocks back to Standard Time. No, it won't happen on Halloween. It's Europe's turn this week on the morning of October 31. We officially move our clocks back the following Sunday, November 7, by repeating the hours of 1-2 a.m. twice. That change puts us more in harmony with the sun, meaning that the sun reaches its highest point in the heavens, due south, around noontime each day rather than at 1 p.m. as it has been occurring since Sunday, March 14 when clocks were adjusted ahead to begin Daylight Saving Time. Remember it this way; fall back and spring ahead. We really don't lose or gain any daylight; we simply put time in better synchronization to accommodate our waking hours. If you normally rise and shine around 6 a.m. on workdays, you've noticed over the past several months that it has been getting darker and darker each morning. Sunrise for 40 degrees north latitude is now happening about 7:30 a.m. By the winter solstice, sunrise would be closer to 8:20 a.m. when most of us should be in a fully functioning mode. Starting on the morning of November 7, the sunrise at 40 degrees north will occur at 6:30 a.m., and by the winter solstice it will be pushed back to 7:20 a.m. If we gain an hour in the morning, then we must lose an hour at sunset. On Halloween the sun goes down at 6 p.m. On November 1, that falls back to 5 p.m. bringing us closer to sunset around the evening commute. One of the main reasons always cited for wanting to give us some extra light in the morning deals with school safety. Most districts start their day between 7-8 a.m. and for rural districts this can mean an hour or more commuting on a school bus. Pickups can occur as early as 6 a.m. which would in some cases be occurring 2-1/2 hours before sunrise. Get ready for that extra hour of catch up sleep next week. It only happens once each year. www.astronomy.org

STRANGE BUT TRUE By Samantha Weaver

• It was British playwright Tom Stoppard who made the following observation: "Skill without imagination is craftsmanship and gives us many useful objects such as wickerwork picnic baskets. Imagination without skill gives us modern art."

• You've probably had some experience with hail at some point in your life, but probably not with hail like this: The heaviest recorded hailstone in the world fell in Bangladesh in 1986; it weighed a whopping 2.25 pounds. The largest hailstone, which fell earlier this year in South Dakota, measured 8 inches in diameter. Be glad your car — or your head — wasn't in the way.

• William Henry Harrison, the country's sixth commander-in-chief, had the shortest tenure of any United States president. He died of pneumonia just 32 days after taking office.

• In 1666, the Great Fire of London destroyed 13,200 homes, 87 parish churches and St. Paul's Cathedral, and it left some 70,000 people homeless. It also provided the impetus for the beginning of the insurance industry. After the conflagration, Nicholas Barbon, a well-to-do doctor, realized how much of his wealth was flammable. A year after the Great Fire, he began the world's first insurance company.

• The men and women who venture into space have to adapt themselves to changing environments both when they enter space and when they return home. Many astronauts and cosmonauts say that one of the most difficult things to adjust to when returning to earth from space is the fact that when you let go of something, it falls to the ground.

• If you're a longtime football fan, you might not be surprised to learn that between 1983 and 2006, the average weight of NFL players rose by 10 percent.

MOMENTS IN TIME The History Channel

• On Nov. 19, 1863, President Abraham Lincoln delivers one of the most famous speeches in American history at the dedication of the military cemetery at Gettysburg, Pa. Using just 272 words, Lincoln brilliantly and movingly articulated the meaning of the conflict for a war-weary public. His address lasted just two minutes.

• On Nov. 18, 1883, American and Canadian railroads begin using four continental time zones to end the confusion of dealing with thousands of local times. However, it was not until 1918 that Congress officially adopted the railroad time zones and put them under the supervision of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

• On Nov. 21, 1927, Time magazine puts the Holland Tunnel on its cover. The tunnel, which runs under the Hudson River between New York City and Jersey City, N.J., had opened to traffic the week before, at the stroke of midnight on Nov. 13. The toll was 50 cents per car in both directions.

• On Nov. 16, 1945, the United States ships 88 German scientists to America to assist the nation in its production of rocket technology. Most of these "volunteers" had served under the Nazi regime. The voluntary nature of the scheme was somewhat undercut by the admission that the scientists were in "protective custody."

• On Nov. 20, 1955, Bo Diddley introduced himself and his namesake beat to the world with his television debut on "The Ed Sullivan Show." Sullivan was so furious with Diddley for not opening with Tennessee Ernie Ford's "Sixteen Tons" that Sullivan banned him from future appearances on his show.

• On Nov. 15, 1965, at the Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah, 28-year-old Californian Craig Breedlove sets a new land-speed record — 600.601 mph. His car, the Spirit of America, cost $250,000 and was powered by a surplus engine from a Navy jet.

• On Nov. 17, 1973, in the midst of the Watergate scandal that eventually ended his presidency, President Richard Nixon tells a group of newspaper editors that he is "not a crook." After a relentless federal investigation, Nixon resigned in August 1974.
