New natural gas development expected in region

The natural gas industry in Michigan is preparing to lease and drill the "Collingwood" shale formation. It is about 10,000 feet deep, and extends under much of northeast Michigan.

It is larger than the Antrim formation now in production at 5,000 feet or less, and extends south to Cadillac west to Traverse City, north to Cheboygan and east to Alpena. Industry watchers feel that after the North Dakota and Pennsylvania shale fields are in production, drillers will be back in this area to develop the Collingwood.

Geologically, it is the Middle Ordovician Collingwood, also referred to as the Collingwood Utica formation, since the Utica shale is directly above it. Combined, they are 40 to 500 feet thick. Typically, the best production comes when they combine natural gas and oil from both the Collingwood and Utica through directional drilling and fracturing the shale rock.

There will be a meeting for people with mineral rights to learn about this development at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 29 at the Hillman Community Center, 24220 Veterans Memorial Drive in Hillman.

The meeting is being organized by Frederick and John Miller, who negotiated a group lease in the Fletcher Floodwater area for the Antrim level, and who are seeking to put another group together for the Collingwood level. They will speak on how group lease negotiation would be organized. Lewis Crawford of Hillman worked on the group lease negotiation with the Millers.

Keynote speaker is Curtis Tally Jr., farm management educator of Michigan State University Extension, who has also helped explain mineral rights leases, specific wording and other issues that may be included in these leases to people in Michigan.

One purpose of the meeting is to urge mineral rights owners to know what their lease includes or does not include, and what options they have in leasing for this new exploration development and how to protect their rights and surface interests.

There will be an opportunity to join a group that wants to negotiate leases in a block, with the goal of obtaining more lucrative royalties for mineral rights owners, but also protecting their surface interests. The group would seek to obtain legally enforceable contracts which manage a myriad of potential landowner issues. Members of the group may need to share the cost of professionals in the negotiation process.

Mineral rights owners should bring a copy of their notice of assessment or property tax bill showing property ID number, legal description and size for each property and contact information if they are interested in joining this group about to be formed.

There will be a second meeting two days later on the evening of Thursday, Jan. 31 in Hillman for those most interested in pursuing group negotiations. The final organization, goals and activities of this group will be decided by group consensus.

For more information, contact: Frederick W. Miller II, at (636) 209-4404 or fwmiller-

Curran gears up for 75th annual fun night

By Mary Weber Staff Writer

For the 75th year in a row the community of Curran will help the fight against birth defects by holding its annual Fun Night for the March of Dimes on the last Saturday in January.

An eventful evening is planned with auction and raffle items, door prizes and more to be held on January 26 at 7 p.m. at the Mitchell Township Hall, 6849 W. Tower Road in Curran (east off M-65).

Maxine Small who is helping to host the event said they are excited about marking the 75th anniversary. "We have special decorations for the tables and there will be memorabilia material distributed covering its 75 year history," she said.

The event will include a raffle for a colorful queen size quilt handmade by Corky Tarr as well as many auction items including a light house wall hanging, a feather wreath, steaks, 10 pulpwood cords of oak firewood, and home harvested honey just to name a few. "My home is overflowing with an array of items for the event," Small said.

Tickets will be sold at the door for door prizes which will include a quilt made by Cindy Gallep who continues the tradition of making quilts in memory of her grandmother, Elsta Wiedbauk, who made many quilts for the event years

The Fun Night in Curran began in 1938 the same year United States President, Franklin D. Roosevelt. formed the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis (NFIP) and requested Americans do what they could to wipe out the epidemic of polio, a condition which can leave people crippled and which Roosevelt himself was diagnosed with.

President Roosevelt was most concerned with the children who would face a life paralyzed by the disease. In later years the NFIP became known as the March of Dimes. Polio had mostly been eradicated with the development of vaccine prevention, so the March of Dimes began focusing on other initiatives. The March of Dimes is known worldwide for its efforts to prevent birth defects.

In addition to auction bidding and raffle festivities, snacks will be available as well as music entertainment.

For more information about the event or to contribute a raffle or auction item, contact Maxine or Jack Small at (989) 848-2958.

High school students learn broadcasting one game at a time

By Mary Weber Staff Writer

Two Alcona High School students are, almost single handedly, exploring the art of broadcasting and are applying their interests into producing quality sports broadcasts

Their work is available to view via the Internet and has been aired nationally on television.

Ryley Mancine has held an interest in editing and photo camera techniques for years. Walker Kelly has had an interest in sports and was comfortable doing play- by-play announcements of sports games.

Together the high school juniors have gained new knowledge with the use of professional equipment and editing software provided by the Michigan Interscholastic Connection (MIC), which provides students with professional video production equipment, such as a laptop, high definition video camera, tripod and production software.

This program allows schools to create network-quality productions of school and community-related events. The productions are uploaded to a school-branded website which delivers online distribution for live and on-demand viewing. The website to view the Alcona School broadcasts is MHSAA.TV/Alcona

The cost of the program is $800 per year to participating northern Michigan schools according to Sparky Nitchman, general manager of MIC. The majority of the program is funded through local advertising revenue generated by MIC. Once the cost of the program is covered, revenue is directed back into the school where it can be used to purchase additional audio/video equipment, to support athletics, or be put toward any program of the school's choosing. There are 12 schools in northern Michigan who participate in the program.

Nitchman is pleased with how well the Alcona students have done. "We provide the equipment and I work with the teachers and students for a brief period of time to help them understand the equipment and software. After that they work independently," Nitchman said.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,

As an out-of-state land owner, owning 160 acres in Alcona County, Gustin Township, I adamantly oppose the new AMA ESD millage.

I already pay $27.5382 per thousand of taxable value. Now the elected officials of the district deem it necessary to increase the millage

$3 per thousand for 10 years to be used at their discretion. It is time that the elected officials make the hard decisions of necessary expenditures within the present budget instead of passing the cost to property owners, both resident and nonresident.

As an absentee property owner I have to pay my fair share of taxes, but I do not have the privilege of voting on the amount that should be. I respectfully ask that the voters of the district vote down the AMA EDS tax millage for residents and nonresidents alike.

Duane E. Brown Auburn, Ind.

To the Editor,

It has been over a month since the murder of 26 dedicated teachers and precious children in Newtown, Conn.

Words can't describe the enormity of this tragedy. But did you know that everyday over 2,000 children are killed in the United States? They are not killed by madmen with bullets, but by physicians with sharp surgical instruments or caustic poisons intended to burn or suffocate them.

They are not buried in cemeteries filled with flowers. In the majority of states they are thrown into the trash. No grieving parents are interviewed by the national press. No celebrities hold up their names on placards. They have no names.

Please remember the 2,000 innocent children who die this violent death every day. This Sunday, once again, several hundred thousand people (including some of your neighbors) will visit Washington D.C. to peacefully march in remembrance of these millions of children, and in continuing hope that we can do better.

Once again, it will not be widely reported. I want to thank the Alcona Review for printing this letter.

Kathleen Stone Harrisville

To the Editor,

Having lived in this area since 1971 and now living on a fixed income as a retiree, I find the proposed AMA-ESD School Enhancement Millage a major concern. It is too much for too long in our present economic environment. Also, it does not appear to be the answer to the current school funding crisis. This is a wider problem that needs to be solved statewide.

This proposal, that is being voted on by four school districts, does not provide for all of the local tax money to remain in the local school districts. The district with the most students, not our local students, will receive approximately half of the annual tax dollars collected in the Alcona school district. This is for a 10 year period. This means that Alcona taxpayers will give approximately half of those millage tax dollars to finance a neighboring school district. If we need tax dollars for our local school then why are we giving half of it away?

In the past I have voted for every school election and I do believe in the value of education. However, this proposal is not the answer to the problems with the present educational system and the way it is financed.

> Jenny Pheister Lincoln

To the Editor,

Attention families, landowners and homeowners of Alcona County who support our local school with your tax dollars: The upcoming school enhancement millage to be decided on February 26 is a huge deal. Have you heard of it?

It's huge for our school; three mils levied over a period of 10 years will bring in an additional $772,000 - per year. Nice.

It's also a huge commitment for you the tax payer. If your home is worth $100,000 then your yearly property taxes will rise $150. That doesn't sound like a lot at first glance.

But wait. There are problems with this increase. Here is one. The tax will pull $1.5 million ($1,529,056) out of Alcona County each year. But only $772,000 of that will come back into Alcona. Are you reaching for your calculator right now? Please do. Only 51 cents of every tax dollar will be staying in our local district.

Where will the other 49 cents be going? Alpena, essentially. I have nothing against the schools to the north of us; they stand to gain much - their share being close to $4 million. In fact, Alpena tax payers are presented with a sweet deal that will generate extra tax dollars (nearly a million a year) from the surrounding counties to be spent locally in theirs.

Our loss is their gain . . . but what concerns me is the bad deal it is for Alcona schools, and the huge loss of value that it is for the tax payers in Alcona.

I find this disparity unacceptable and I know in my heart that there is a better way to educate our kids and pay the bills; not the same old story - just take more from the pockets of families and individuals - no matter the consequences.

We are a debt relief agency and we help people file bankruptcy.

Our Kids 1st is prioritizing an investment in Alcona's students.

The purpose of this letter is to further a conversation within our community about what we value. The point we want to discuss is an upcoming millage vote to take place on February 26th. The reason there is a need for such a vote is that all four school districts in our AMA-ESD are in serious financial difficulty. The consequences are real: continued reduced staff, large class sizes, long bus rides and fewer offerings.

We face these challenges for two primary financial reasons:

- 1. The state is no longer, and has not for several years, properly and fully funded K-12 Education. This has been their responsibility since the 1994 passage of Proposal A.
- 2. Declining enrollment over the last eight to ten years is a critical issue because schools are funded on a per-student basis from the state. Many area jobs have been lost and families have been forced to leave.

The combination of these two issues have left many school districts, particularly rural communities, on the brink, including Alcona, Alpena, Hillman and Atlanta, which make up our AMA-ESD. Our community has no other source of money, outside this millage for operational dollars. By law, the money will be allocated back to the schools on a per-student basis. We are not willing to rely on Lansing, in the foreseeable future, to stand up to its responsibility of fully funding K-12 education.

We intend to follow this letter of endorsement with a series of informational letters so people can make an informed decision. It is not possible to address all anticipated questions in one letter but it is our intent in this series of articles to accurately provide all the information we have. It is our sincere belief that the challenges to our entire community will be even greater if we continue to cut staff and corresponding programs.

In the meantime, feel free to contact our district office Shawn Thornton (989) 736-8534 or the AMA-ESD Brian Wilmot (989) 354-3101.

Our school is hosting a community forum on February 21, in the auditorium at 7 p.m. Please join us for a conversation about what we value and what this means for our community.

Regional Workshop

Farmers, all forage producers, and agribusiness representatives are invited to attend a regional workshop from Michigan State University (MSU) Extension called "Forage Cost of Production 2013." The workshop is designed to help those involved with growing forages (including corn silage, haylage, annual or perennial grass) gain an understanding and gather tools to help them answer the question of forage cost of production. The workshop will be held Tuesday, Jan. 29 at Alpena Community College, Newport Center (CTR) Room 104 and 106, 665 Johnson Street, Alpena. The workshop will be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The cost is $30 and lunch is included. Everyone is encouraged to pre-register through the MSU Events Management website at: Forage Cost of Production Workshop 2013.

Anyone unable to register online may contact the Lapeer MSUE office to register by calling (810) 667-0341. The deadline for pre-registration is two working days before the date of the workshop. Anyone who chooses to register at the door, there is no guarantee of lunch.

Foster Homes Needed

The number of children living in a family with allegations of abuse and/or neglect in Michigan is staggering. Every day, more and more children are added. Foster care offers children, from newborn to 18 years of age, a temporary home with a licensed foster family. They are in desperate need of nurturing families and stable homes.

Lutheran Child & Family Service of Michigan professionals involve foster parents in developing a plan of care for each foster child in their home - and offer ongoing training and continued support. Many people are qualified to be licensed as foster parents: Single, married, young or old, regardless of race or church affiliation. All that is needed is a love of children and the desire to make a difference in their

The need for safe and supportive homes continues to be a concern. Lutheran Child & Family Service of Michigan remains active in its search for qualified foster homes. A no obligation Introduction to Foster Care will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 12th from 6-9 p.m. at the LCFS office located at 1260 S. Otsego Ave. in Gaylord, Mich. Anyone who feels compelled to open their heart and their home to a child is encouraged to call (989) 732-1040, to register or for more information.

participate in anywhere from two to four training sessions on the equipment and software, but the Alcona students were well versed after just one session. This really is a special and talented group of students. Walker, Ryley and their classmates have done a phenomenal and professional job this year. Together, they have produced some of the highest quality productions across the entire state,' Nitchman said.

Dan O'Connor, Alcona Community Schools K-12 assistant principal and athletic director, is in agreement with Nitchman. O'Connor was the first teacher to start working with students on the broadcasting program. However, due to additional duties O'Connor's time with the students became extremely lim-

Despite O'Connor's absence from the program, Kelly and Mancine pressed on learning by doing as they covered nearly all home sports games since the beginning of the football season last September. They have also broadcast recordings of the elementary school Christmas program, the National Honor Society induction and curis in the beginning stage of broadcasting a weekly news program for the school.

'We've done a couple of pilot episodes of school news which have aired within the school," Kelly said. Both students thought the news program went over well and their classmates seemed to like the broadcasts enough for Kelly and Mancine to continue working on them.

One of the most difficult challenges the students face is adjusting to the technology. They are also trying to acquire better equipment.

Kelly said he loves doing the play-by-play for football and basketball, "especially football, one game we broadcasted live to Fox Sports Detroit and they used our highlights on their football show (Football Friday Overtime) which was aired nationally," he said.

The students are able to use time during their pridetime class session to hone their broadcast techniques and styles. Pride-time is a class period close to the end of the school day where students can work on class assignments, get extra tutoring if needed, or become involved with extra-curricular enrichrently, the broadcast program ment activities, such as broadcasting, which normally would not be a part of the student's class curriculum.

Not all students can be a part of the broadcasting program. "We select students who have an interest and are excelling in other studies, this is an above and beyond type of experience for students,' O'Connor said.

Wanting the program to continue after Kelly and Mancine graduate next year, the teenagers have already spoken to a few exemplary middle school students who may want to take part in the program when they begin high school.

O'Connor is very proud of the student's accomplishments. "I helped set up the class and recruited students, but the kids did the rest. Walker and Ryley have really taken the lead from the very beginning. They attend the games voluntarily, have rarely missed a home game, if any, and do much of the editing and work on their own time. They've achieved a lot over the past five months. It's exciting to see how far they have come with this opportunity," he said.

SENIOR LIFESTYLES

Resources for seniors interested in retiring abroad

Dear Savvy Senior,

What tips and resources can you recommend to folks interested in retiring abroad? My wife and I will be retiring next year and are intrigued with the idea of living in a foreign country. What can you tell us?

Looking Abroad

Dear Looking,

Whatever your reasons for wanting to retire abroad - a desire for adventure, a lower cost of living, a better climate - you need to do your homework and learn everything you can about the country you're interested in because there are many unknowns. Here are some tips and resources to help you get started.

You can find lots of information and articles on the countries and cities you're interested in retiring to at websites like International Living (internationalliving.com), Escape Artist (escapeartist.com) and AngloINFO (angloinfo.com). International Living even offers a short quiz you can take and help you discover your ideal overseas retirement location.

There are also some great books on this topic like "How to Retire Overseas: Everything You Need to Know to Live Well (for Less) Abroad" by Kathleen Peddicord and "Řetirement Without Borders" by Barry Golson. These books and others like it are available in book stores nationwide or online at amazon.com. Or, check with your local public library.

Another good tip is to talk or network with some expatriates who have already made the move you're thinking about making. They can give you tips and suggestions, as well as the advantages and disadvantages and day-today reality of living in a particular country. Some popular sites to finding expat resources are expatexchange.com and expatforum.com.

Here are some other areas you need to investigate.

• Cost of living: Retiring abroad used to be seen as a surefire way to live beyond your means, and for some countries it still is. But the U.S. dollar isn't what it used to be, so your money may not stretch as far as you think. See numbeo.com and xpatulator.com for a country-bycountry cost of living comparison.

- Safety and stability: The U.S. State Department offers background notes or fact sheets on 200 countries (see state.gov/r/pa/ei/bgn) providing information about the land, people, history, government, political conditions, economy and foreign rela-
- Weather: Use worldclimate.com to get weather information on just about every significant city in the world.
- Taxes: No matter what foreign country you decide to retire in, as long as you're a U.S. citizen you still have to pay U.S. taxes. For details see the IRS publication 54,

"Tax Guide for U.S. Citizens and Resident Aliens Abroad," at irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/ p54.pdf, or call (800) 829-3676 and ask them to mail you a copy.

• Health care: Medicare does not cover retirees outside the U.S., so you'll need to contact the embassy or consulate (see usembassy.state.gov) of your destination country to see how you can be covered as a foreign resi-

Many countries provide government-sponsored health care that's inexpensive, accessible and just as good as what you get in the states, or you may want to buy a policy. Outfits like the Association of Americans Resident Overseas (aaro.org), April Medibroker (medibroker.com) and Bupa International (bupa-intl.com) offer or broker affordable health plans.

 Social Security: This is the one area you don't need to worry about. You can receive your monthly Social

Savvy Senior

Security benefits almost anywhere you live around the world. Your benefits can be deposited into your bank account either in the U.S. or in your new home country there are some exceptions. To learn more, see ssa.gov/ pubs/10137.pdf.

• Test run: Once you settle on a destination, be sure you visit multiple times during different seasons to see whether you can envision yourself living there and not just exploring the place as a tourist. If you like what you see but aren't sure where to live, rent before you buy to be certain you're happy with your choice.

Alconaboys on a five game winning streak

By Ron Yokom

Basketball Writer

With three games including back-to-backs, the Alcona boys varsity basketball team was up to the challenge.

They won all three games, with two of them going down to the wire, to extend their record to 7-1 and are on a five game winning streak. This run may be challenged on Friday, Jan. 25 when Saginaw Buena Vista comes to town.

In their first game of the week Alcona hosted the Fairview Eagles. By jumping out to a 20-2 lead after the first quarter, coach Tim Somers was able to rest his starters for most of the rest of the game, having them fresh for a tougher game with Posen the next night.

The Tigers were outscored by Fairview 15-8 but still led 28-17 at halftime. They outscored the Eagles 13-12 in the third quarter and still had a 12 point lead, 41-29, heading into the final period.

The Alcona bench held off the Eagles in the fourth quarter and gave Alcona a relatively easy victory 54-44.

Carson Jameison led the Tigers with 18 points and eight rebounds. Trent LaVergne scored 16 points and grabbed seven rebounds. Dawson Forsythe had seven points. Aaron Ritchie scored six points. Dusting Yokom had three points and pulled down seven rebounds. Cody Franklin and Andy Cammack had two points each.

followed suit with an easy 49-28 win. Jesse Schram led them with 16 points and eight rebounds.

On Wednesday, Jan. 16 Alcona hosted the Posen Vikings and managed to claim their sixth win of the season 63-58. The first half was a back and forth battle with Alcona leading 17-13 after the first quarter.

Jameison and LaVergne accounted for 13 of the points. The second quarter was a series of runs. Posen scored six of the first points to tie the game at 19. A field goal by Ritchie followed by one by the Vikings tied the score again at 21. Then Jared Steiner stole the ball three times and scored on three uncontested layups as part of an eight point run to give the Tigers a 29-21 lead. The Vikings came back with a five point run of their own and Alcona's lead was trimmed to two at 31-29 at halftime.

After the break, LaVergne caught fire scoring 13 points and the Tigers took a comfortable 15 point lead into the final period, 54-39.

Posen was not done yet. After Alcona built a 16 point lead at 59-43 the Vikings came back with 13 unanswered points, fueled by three straight three-point shots, and all of a sudden, it was a three point game, 59-56. Alcona held off Posen to take a hard fought game.

LaVergne led Alcona with a career high of 26 points and pulled down seven rebounds. Steiner was, again, the glue that held his team together by scoring 15 points, dishing out nine assists and stealing the ball five times. Dawson Forsythe scored eight points. Ritchie had six points along with five assists. Dustin Yokom came in for the fourth quarter and blocked five shots.

The JV team kept pace with an easy 55-23 win with Jason Steiner scoring 12 points.

Friday, Jan. 18 the Tigers traveled to Oscoda to face a much improved Owl team and had to battle back to win their seventh game 53-46.

After LaVergne scored the first basket of the game Oscoda scored eight straight points and never gave up the lead even though Alcona tied game at 14 late.

A three-pointer by the Owls gave the lead back to them and a field goal by Steiner kept Alcona close, trailing on 17-16. LaVergne had another big quarter by scoring 12 points.

The Owls continued their hot shooting in the second quarter and, in spite of the Tigers' efforts, were able to build a 36-31 lead by halftime. Thanks to two shots by Ritchie and one each by Jameison and Cammack, Alcona fought back to take their first lead of the game, 39-38. They built on that lead with four three-pointers to close out the third quarter -- three of them were hit by Steiner from the same spot in the corner.

Alcona had a 53-46 lead after three quarters. A field goal by Steiner increased the Tigers' lead to 55-46, but the Owls outscored Alcona 11-3 to cut the lead to one point 58-57. The Owls could not take back the lead and Alcona went home with the five point victory.

LaVergne led Alcona with 21 points and seven rebounds. Steiner had 20 points, dished out eight assists and stole the ball seven times. Jameison scored eight points and grabbed rebounds. Ritchie and Cammack had six points each while Forsythe had five points.

Again the JV team won easily improving their to 7-1.

Tigers add two more to win column

By Hope Smith

Basketball Writer

The Alcona girls varsity basketball team brought home two more wins last week, bringing their record to 7-1, after taking down the Fairview Eagles on Monday, Jan. 14 and the Oscoda Owls on Thursday, Jan. 17.

In the Oscoda game, Alcona came out strong allowing Oscoda to score one lone basket on their home court ending the first period 14-2. The second quarter was more of the same however, a number of the Owls were in foul trouble. Alcona stepped up the pressure offensively pushing their lead to 34-7 going into halftime.

After the half, Alcona resumed action crashing the boards offensively and distributing the ball. The Tigers had a solid 45-16 lead to end the third quarter and finished the evening with a 63-27 win in the second Huron Shores Conference matchup of the season. "Our whole team played a complete game. We played well in all aspects tonight," said coach Brad Cole.

The Tigers were led by Karina Cole (caption) with 25 points, 11 rebounds and five steals. Kendra Cole scored points, grabbed nine rebounds and had three blocks. Turner Somers contributed five points, Alissa Terpstra scored five points and pulled down four rebounds. Nikki Smith (captain) scored four points and grabbed four rebounds. Sydney Pierce had four points, Nicole Walen had four points and five rebounds, Megan Quick (captain) had two points, five rebounds and five steals, Cassie Carpenter had two points and six rebounds. Hannah Terpstra and Lilly Manning both scored two points.

The JV team had a 44-41 loss to Oscoda after being outscored 8-22 in the final period. They were led by Samantha Schopfer with 18 points and Cheyenne Parkinson scored eight points.

On January 14 Alcona hosted the Fairview Eagles. Karina Cole led the Tigers with 26 points, six steals and four rebounds to help capture Alcona's sixth straight win this season.

In the first quarter, Alcona jumped out to an early 20-10 lead. However, in the second quarter, Fairview turned up their defense but Alcona was able to buckle down and adjust ending the first half with a 29-14 lead.

During the second half Alcona found themselves in foul trouble but Fairview wasn't able to convert points from the line, scoring only two of the nine free throws given.

In the third period, Fairview outscored Alcona 7-13 as they tried to inch their way back into the game. The Tigers had a different plan and it didn't include losing on their home court. Alcona held onto a 36-27 lead.

In the final period of the night Alcona had to work even harder to maintain the lead. Fairview put up a good fight but Karina Cole wasn't going away, she made a basket plus she dropped five of five from the free throw line. The Tigers went on to win 49-37.

"We didn't shoot well or play very good defense tonight. We ran well which gave us some easy baskets," Cole

Other Tigers scoring for Alcona included Quick with 12 points, Kendra Cole with six points and eight rebounds, Walen with two points and three rebounds. Smith scored two points and grabbed three rebounds. Pierce scored two points and pulled down four rebounds. Somers and Feldhiser scored one point each and Carpenter and Manning each pulled down three rebounds.

The Alcona JV team lost to Fairview 27-38. Top scorers for the team were Torie Harmon and Cheyenne Parkinson with six points each. The team is now 4-4 for the season.

On Saturday, Jan. 26 Alcona will host the Alpena Wildcats with the JV game starting at 5 p.m. and varsity team taking the court at 6:30 p.m. On Monday, Jan. 28 Alcona will host the Hale Eagles with the JV game starting at 6 p.m. and varsity game at 7:30 p.m.

A community effort went into being able to purchase a 50-inch Sanyo television to replace a RCA 27-inch television. The purchase involved four stages with Mikado Township Supervisor Jesus "Yogi" Yruegas securing a $200 grant from the Community Foundation of Northeast Michigan (CFNEM). The Mikado Goodfellows donated $240 and the men and women of the fire department sorted refundable bottles at the fire hall with Nikki Stuit of Mikado Market accepting them for a value of $79.20. The remaining $29 was paid from the fire fund. The television is used to play training videos such as Fire Fighter I and II, Haz-Mat, Driver's Training, Fire-Ground Safety, Identifying Hazardous Signs, Propane Fires, show photographs taken at fire scenes for review plus many other types of fire training. ### An epidemic of kindness

By Kathryn F. Kniep Columnist

"Teach your children well, their father's hell will slowly go by."

Graham Nash I am positively pathological about not catching the flu. Otherwise, I would have attended the recent Rachel's Challenge program held at the high school. I wanted to. But thanks to my colleague, Mary Weber's, excellent write-up, some discussion with those who did attend and some research at the program's website, I can comfortably say I think it's a great

For those of you not familiar, the Rachel in question is Rachel Joy Scott, sadly the first person shot and killed at Columbine High School. She was just 17, but she had already begun writing and photographing the world around her. A typical teenager, her family says that she had a great sense of humor, recording a phone message one day that began, "You have reached Queen Rachel and her humble servants...

According to her mom and stepdad, Rachel's greatest gift was her kindness. Shortly before her death, she wrote, "I have this theory that if one person can go out of their way to show compassion, then it will start a chain reaction of the same. People will never know how far a little kindness can go."

In her memory, her family has created the Rachel's Challenge program as a movement to encourage kindness and fight school bullying in particular.

Rachel's Challenge offers five challenges: Look for the best in other people, dream big - set your goals - live your dreams, choose positive influences, speak with kindness, start your own chain reaction of love and kind-

At the elementary level, programs emphasize showing kindness toward others while middle and high school programs address more specific changes aimed at creating a "culture of kindness and compassion." According to the Rachel's Challenge website, 160,000 students a day avoid school due to bullying and harassment. Imagine, for those students, what a difference that culture of kindness could make

So okay, you're saying, it sounds like a pretty good program. After all, almost no one is opposed to kindness. So what can parents and the community do? Well, like all school programs, donations for materials and supplies would be helpful and can be mailed to Alcona Community Schools, Attention Michele Wambold. Please note "FOR" (Friends of Rachel) on your check's memo line.

But there's something more important here. Back in my teaching days, I used to encounter a big poster each morning as I entered the school building. It read "Children learn what they live," and I found it to be very true.

Our nation and our society are very unhappy these days. People are having hard times and a good many of them have concluded that their unhappiness must be somebody (or everybody) else's fault. And so it seems, among the alleged grown-ups out there, I hear an enormous amount of what we used to call "smack talk.

As someone who wears my heart on my sleeve and my politics on my bumper, I often encounter people who disagree with me. That's fine with me. I enjoy a good debate and I believe in the value of listening to the other side of the issue. The problem, it seems to me, is the lack of civility and the lack of information that I encounter on a regular basis.

Both in the real world and on social media sites, people express their opinions in angry, crude terms, referring to those they disagree with as "idiots," "jerks" and worse. The language of this unhappiness is appalling - curse words are so common that there are no longer any that shock us - and civility is rarely observed.

 $It end \, to \, steer \, clear \, of \, these \,$ discussions to the extent possible (which means I only reply when I can no longer overlook what's being said). Nonetheless, I receive at least one or two posts or e-mails on a daily basis that contain "information" that is patently untrue. It's the rare individual these days who actually checks out the authenticity of a statement before sending it out to their mailing list or announcing it to the world.

So what can parents and community do to help the Friends of Rachel and our school system to foster an atmosphere of kindness and compassion? For starters

Cannondale

Townie

we can model the behaviors that the program espouses. We can edit our language and our attitudes. Rather than haranguing about "that idiot" or "that *&$)*!" we can say to our child(ren) "I personally disagree with Mr. So and So (or President So and So). He (or she) thinks this, I feel this way.

Just coaching it in civil language and emphasizing the elements, rather than the anger, of the argument can make a huge difference. And it may encourage our young people, who learn what they live, to do the same with people who are "different," vulnerable or have different opinions.

Someone once said that words were mightier than swords and I believe it's true. The power and impact of language and attitude are so incredibly immense. Like most things of awesome power, they can be used for good or for evil. And it's really, really easy to slip into the unhappy, blameful behavior of bad-mouthing everyone and every thing.

We're already fortunate to live in a community that still embraces compassion to a large extent. Where most people are caring and kind by nature and where, since everyone knows everyone else, we're inclined to be a little better behaved than we might be if we were more anonymous. We very rarely shoot one another over our disagreements, bitter and strong though they may be.

Nonetheless, we still need to work to address that bitterness and the way we express it.

What can we do to support the Friends of Rachel and help build a culture of kindness for our local kids? For starters, we could observe the five goals of the program ourselves. In addition, we could take a moment at the beginning of each day to consider the many good things in our lives and another at the end of the day to think of what we've accomplished and what we can be proud of. To inventory, if you will, the positives.

We could stop maintaining a list of the slings and arrows the world assaults us with, and log, instead, our daily joys. We could remember the many doors to understanding that are opened simply by a civil discussion. We could remember that whether we, or they, know it, our kids are watching us.

And we can hope that that level of civil discourse can be spread at least as easily as the flu germs that surround

That would be, indeed, a very good thing.

StarWatch By Gary Becker - Read by Moonlight

I used to hate when the full moon dominated the night sky. Its light hid the stars, nebulae, and clusters—all of the "beautiful" objects that I wanted to observe with a new telescope that I had spent about two years constructing. I was 18 at the time. Moonlight was also the ban of meteor observing, the avenue through which I became involved in astronomy. A bright moon, even against a very transparent sky, decreases shooting star rates by about 75 percent. Fortunately, age has tempered my stance against moonlight, and that's good thing. Let's face it; half of our lives are spent under the influence of a bright moon, so why not simply submit, enjoy, as well as make use of its light. Several images taken under the influence of Luna are posted with the online version of this article at www. astronomy.org. When my grandfather, Ewald Marcus, was a soldier in WW1 fighting for the Germans on the Russian front, he often read the newspaper at the end of the day by the light of a bright moon. Yes, he always mentioned that there was a snowpack on the ground, but that is not a prerequisite for a successful read. What most people fail to realize is that it takes time for the eye to dark adapt to the moon's subdued lighting, five to 10 minutes depending upon your age, with older people taking longer. The other consideration is to find a location which is away from direct or indirect exterior lighting, except for the moon. You'll have plenty of time to conduct this experiment, because as the week unfolds, the moon continues to brighten as it grows through its gibbous phase, where both sides appear to be bulbous in shape. A very bright star will appear to trail the moon on Sunday. That's Jupiter! On Monday (1/21), the moon approaches Jupiter to within a degree, a beautiful sight with or without binoculars. The moon reaches its full phase late on the evening of the 26th. www.astronomy.org
