Trip to Ford Field helps students with healthy challenge program

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

Alcona Elementary students enjoyed a loud and fun-filled presentation at the kick-off of a new program geared to get students to eat healthy, get active and make a difference.

The program, Fuel Up to Play 60, had teachers and students alike jumping and jiving to upbeat tunes while cheering on the confident student leader representatives. The program is designed to have youth focused on living healthy at least 60 minutes a day. It was launched throughout the country by the National Football League and the National Dairy Council.

Fuel Up to Play 60 was first presented to the school last year when essay questions were given to students in third through fifth grades. The questions asked what the student did to eat healthy, what they did to stay physically fit and how they felt about leading others to a healthier lifestyle.

From those answers the field was narrowed to six Alcona Elementary students: fourth-graders; Kiersten Dellar, Sage Gauthier and Aspen Wortley; fifth-grader; Carmen Dellar and sixth-graders; Rylee Fleitz and Ashton Tracy. They represented their school on September 29 at Ford Field in Detroit, Mich., where a Fuel Up to Play 60 Rally was held. They learned how to better guide their school to be nutritionally and physically fit.

Just as NFL teams use a playbook to figure out their plays on field, the Fuel up to Play 60 has a playbook to choose the in-school activities which would work best for the school. These six Alcona students were given ideas on how to get their school motivated by a variety of plays to help make it happen.

They also got to spend time with former and current Detroit Lion players Jason Hanson, Joique Bell, Jason Jones and Herman Moore. "We got to run through the team tunnel onto the field and toss footballs and we did the bone rap (dance) with Jump for Jill (a rock and roll nutrition show)," said K. Dellar. She said she was probably chosen from her essay because she feels it's important to eat healthy and said her family stays active by milking cows together.

Once the students returned from the rally they and other student committee members, Brooklyn Storey, Miah Schopfer, Karlee Stewart, Makenna Seminoff and Zylinda Sanders started brain storming on the best way to get their school active and eating healthy.

"We've pretty much decided on getting a smoothie machine for the school and having school dances to get exercise," Tracy said. She eats

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor,

When we vote, we hope those we elect feel obligated to represent us. We certainly expect those we elect to be honest and not self-serving.

With these ideas in mind, let's examine HB4297 and SB438. These bills are being promoted by a group called Citizens for Michigan's Energy Future. You may have received their literature.

First, Citizens for Michigan's Energy Future is largely funded by Consumers Power and DTE. This group's literature pretends to be talking about the energy needs of Michigan. Let's read between the lines.

If you are seeking self-sufficiency and erect a windmill or put up some solar panels, Consumers/DTE are supposed to buy your extra energy, at retail price, which is the same amount they will charge the next guy they sell it to. Consumers/DTE loses nothing by doing this -- except the ability to have a monopoly over the consumers.

With HB4297 and SB438 the equation changes. The bill allows Consumers/DTE to pay the windmill or solar panel owner the lower wholesale price for their extra energy. They will then turn around and charge the next consumer of this energy retail price.

The individual who puts out a huge investment to get off the grid loses lots of money on the deal. This is a great way to kill anyone's ability or incentive to "compete" with Consumers/DTE.

Why would our elected representatives support a law that obviously hurts individuals while blatantly insuring a big company's profit line?

It appears Sen. Jim Stamas and Rep. Peter Pettalia received campaign contributions from DTE this summer. Maybe you should call them to see how they intend to vote on this issue.

Police Report

- Dustin Robert Schank, 24, of Oscoda was arrested and arraigned in 81st District Court on charges stemming from a series of larceny from motor vehicles that occurred along the US-23 and Cedar Lake Road area in Harrisville and Greenbush townships from September 9-13. According to the Alcona County Sheriff's Department, the investigation led to Schank through some anonymous tips that were given to the department after a press release was published on September 21.

According to Alcona County Sgt. Keith Myers, the total value of the stolen items is approximately $6,000.

Schank was charged with three counts of breaking and entering motor vehicle to steal property less than $200, two counts of breaking and entering a motor vehicle to steal property over $1,000 but less than $20,000 and one count of larceny of a firearm.

He is out on a $10,000 personal recognizance bond and is scheduled for a probable cause hearing on November 18 at 10 a.m.

The Oscoda Township Police assisted with the investigation.

- An investigation conducted in October ended with the arraignment of Thomas Alan Vanfleteren, 69, of Curran on three felonies: delivery/manufacture five to 45 kilograms of marijuana, delivery/manufacture marijuana and felony firearm.

According to the Alcona County Sheriff's Department, the charges stem from an incident that occurred on September 26 when a Michigan Department of Natural Resources conservation officer was investigating a gunshot complaint when he came across an address where it appeared that marijuana was being grown. The investigation was turned over to the sheriff's department which allegedly found 153 marijuana plants 8,512 grams of marijuana and other evidence indicating the delivery and manufacture of marijuana, which was seized, along with a firearm.

Vanfleteren is out on a $25,000 personal recognizance bond. He is scheduled for a status conference on December 2 at 10 a.m.

Lady Tigers fall in semifinals against Tawas

By Hope Smith
Sportswriter

The Alcona varsity volleyball team played host to Tawas High School for district semifinal action Tuesday, Nov. 3.

Although Alcona had the home court advantage the Lady Tigers came up short offensively in the last two sets and lost to Tawas in four sets.

The Lady Tigers came out strong in the first set to take the lead numerous times but Tawas fought back to tie the game on four separate occasions. Alcona held the 19-16 lead late in the game but Tawas went on a 6-0 offensive run to pull ahead 22-19 and held on to eventually steal the 25-22 win.

Early in the second set, Alcona struggled to find consistency at the net and trailed Tawas 10-6. However, the Lady Tigers quickly regrouped to dominate the floor with a commanding 16-3 run to seize the 22-13 lead. Momentum continued for the Lady Tigers as they dug deep defensively and kept Tawas at bay when they fought back.

The Lady Tigers held on and scored the last points of the game to secure the 25-21 win and tie the game 1-1. Both teams battled for position in the third set but Alcona pulled ahead with a narrow 10-9 lead. Unfortunately, that was the last lead Alcona would have as Tawas' offense took control with another 14-4 run and pulled away for good and earned the 25-15 win over Alcona.

In the fourth and final set, Alcona trailed Tawas 13-3 early while struggling to find open holes in Tawas' defense. The Braves went on to defeat Alcona 25-13 and secured a spot in Thursday's district finals game against the Oscoda Owls.

Sierra Forsythe led Alcona offensively with 14 kills. Brittany Decker delivered five aces. Defensively Sam Zerbst kept the ball in play with 15 digs. Sydney Pierce added eight blocks and Keilee Elmer put up 38 assists.

"We knew going in, Tawas was going to be tough. We faced them three times during the season and split. The first two sets were intense. Sydney was throwing up solid blocks and our offensive threat was strong," said Coach Kristi Miller. "In the third and fourth sets, Tawas gained the momentum. Their defensive efforts stepped up and we struggled to target gaps on their court.

"Offensively they were able to execute consistently. They played very well and we couldn't get anything going. The district tournament can be mentally challenging, which was evident tonight. Our seniors, Sydney, Sam, Sierra, Alissa, Harlie, and Jenna have had successful volleyball careers and have contributed a lot to our program. We are very proud of all they have accomplished," she said.

The team finished the season with a record 28-10-4, the best record in Alcona volleyball history.

healthy by eating lots of fruits and vegetables including watermelon, carrots, broccoli, cauliflower and asparagus. "Some kids won't eat those foods because if it doesn't look good they won't bother with it," Tracy said.

The group has applied for a grant up to $4,000 through the United Dairy Industry of Michigan (UDIM) for a smoothie machine and hopes it will be enough to allow students healthy breakfast smoothies once a week. The dances are planned for once a month after school.

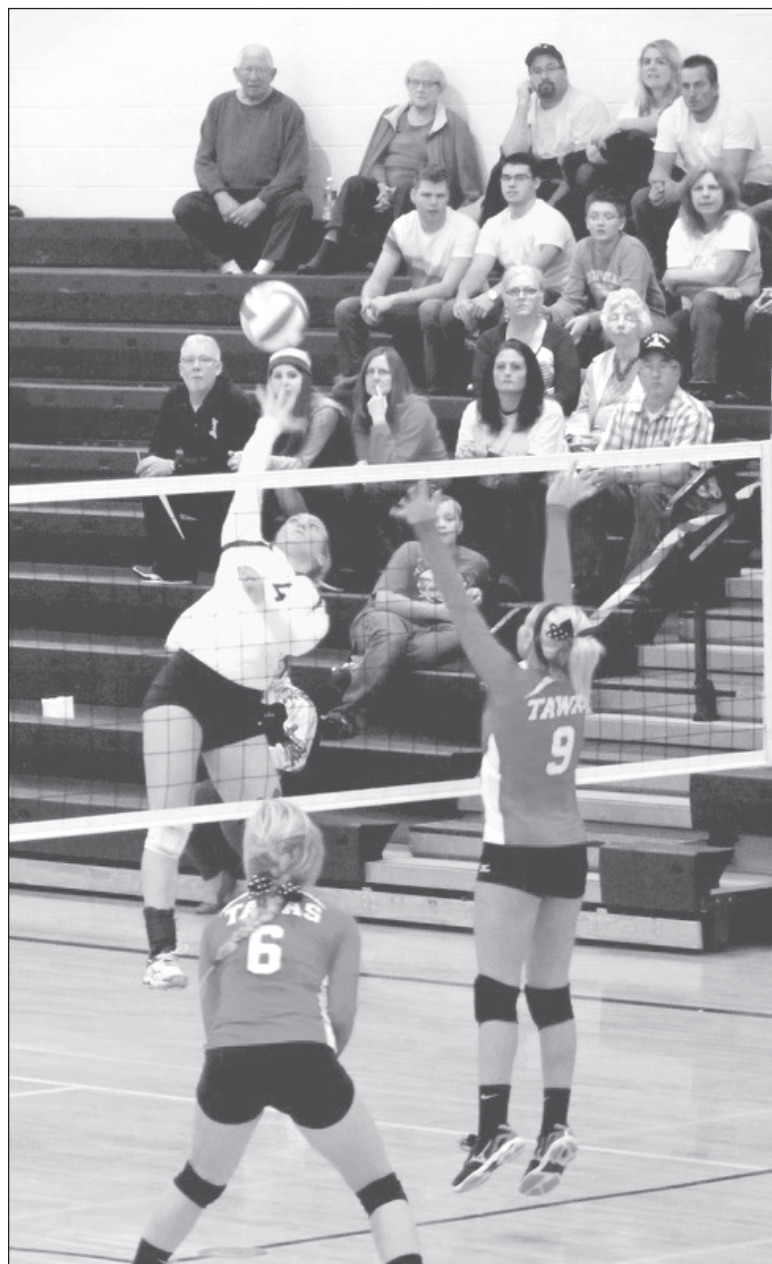

The students announced their plans on Friday to the entire school, gave out free Fuel Up to 60 prizes, danced to a video with Jump for Jill and had a lot of fun with Lifespan coach, Teresa Wilt, as she talked about the large variety of fruits and vegetables and what each color of foods can do to help keep students healthy.

Student leaders also spoke about the Fuel Up to Play 60 website and encouraged students to log in and work on the challenges.

K. Dellar explained the more points a student acquires doing the challenges online the better, because in the spring one student ambassador who acquired points will be chosen from the school to attend Ford Field again.

Ivy Seminoff, medical assistant for Alcona Tiger Health Extension, went with the six students to Ford Field and said they all did an awesome job representing the school. "There were 35 schools represented at Ford Field with six students from each school. C. Dellar did a great job and acted as Hanson's partner while he tossed footballs with the students. There were a lot of impactful speeches from football players and the United Dairy Industry of Michigan.

"I think the students did a great job relaying to their peers what the program is about and getting them excited. This program will be a great benefit for the school. It's new to us and we are learning our way through it, but it will give us a lot of opportunities such as grants and ideas," I. Seminoff said.

Required IRA and 401(k) withdrawal rules for retirees

Dear Savvy Senior,
Can you give me the details on required IRA and 401(k) distributions? I turned 70 this year, and want to be clear on what I'm required to do, and when I'll have to do it.
Planning Ahead

Dear Planning,
The old saying "you can't take it with you" is definitely true when it comes to Uncle Sam and your tax-deferred retirement accounts. Here's what you should know about required retirement account distributions along with some tips to help you avoid extra taxes and penalties.

Beginning at age 70½, the IRS requires all seniors that own tax-deferred retirement accounts - like traditional IRAs, SEP IRAs, SIMPLE IRAs, SARSEPs, 401(k)s, 403(b)s and 457s - must start taking annual required minimum distributions (RMD), and pay taxes on those withdrawals. The reason: The IRS doesn't want you hoarding your money in these accounts forever. They want their cut. Distributions are taxed as income at your ordinary income tax rate.

There are, however, two exceptions. Owners of Roth IRAs are not required to take a distribution, unless the Roth is inherited. And if you continue to work beyond age 70½, and you don't own five percent or more of the company you work for, you can delay withdrawals from your employer's retirement plan until after you retire.

But if you have other non-work-related accounts, such as a traditional IRA or a 401(k) from a previous employer, you are still required to take RMDs from them after age 70½, even if you're still working.

Generally, you must take your distribution every year by December 31. First timers, however, can choose to delay taking their distribution until April 1 of the year following the year you turn 70½. So, for example, if your 70th birthday was in March 2015, you would turn 70½ in September and your required beginning date would be April 1, 2016. But if your 70th birthday occurred later in the year, say in August, you wouldn't turn 70½ until 2016. In that case, you would be required to take your first distribution by April 1, 2017.

But be careful about delaying, because if you delay your first distribution, it may push you into a higher tax bracket because you must take your next distribution by December 31 of the same year.

Also note that you can always withdraw more than the required amount, but if you don't take out the minimum, you'll be hit with a 50 percent penalty on the amount that you failed to withdraw, along with the income tax you owe on it.

Your RMD is calculated by dividing your tax-deferred retirement account balance as of December 31 of the previous year, by an IRS estimate of your life expectancy.

Savvy Senior

A special rule applies if your spouse is the beneficiary and is more than 10 years younger than you.

IRA withdrawals must be calculated for each IRA you own, but you can withdraw the money from any IRA or combination of IRAs. Additionally, 403(b) accounts also allow you to total the RMDs and take them from any account or combination of accounts.

With 401(k) plans, however, you must calculate the RMD for each plan and withdraw the appropriate amount from each account.

To calculate the size of your RMD, you can use the worksheets on the IRS website - see irs.gov/Retirement-Plans and click on "Required Minimum Distributions." Or, contact your IRA custodian or retirement-plan administrator who can do the calculations for you.

For more information, call the IRS at (800) 829-3676 and ask them to mail you a free copy of the "Distributions from Individual Retirement Arrangements" (publication 590-B), or see irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/p590b.pdf.

Now may be a good time for anglers to think about winterizing their boat to ensure they'll be ready to get on the water in a timely fashion next spring. Need some steps to get started? Check out the suggestions below:

- Flush the engine with fresh water.
- Fill the tank with gas and add some fuel stabilizer. Run the motor for five minutes to mix. Shut off the fuel valve and run the remaining fuel out of the engine.
- Apply fogging oil on the carburetor and remove spark plugs and spray those locations as well.
- Replace the fuel filter.
- Wipe down the engine.
- Completely drain the bilge.
- Remove the battery and other electronics and store in a dry place where they won't freeze.
- Cover the boat with a tarp and keep it sealed. Leave one or two small vents to prevent condensation and moisture buildup.
- Store outboard engines standing up. Store inboard engines by making sure the boat's bow is a few inches higher than the stern.

Northeast Lower Peninsula
November 5

This is a good time of year to try fishing trout lakes in the area. Be sure to check the inland trout and salmon regulations to make sure the lake is open to fishing and did not close on September 30.

- Burt and Mullett Lake: Yellow perch fishing was hit-or miss. Anglers will need to be mobile to find them.
- Thunder Bay River: Steelhead came in with the rain but catch rates were still on the slow side. Try flies, salmon eggs near the bottom or small Cleos.
- AuSable River: Had some steelhead in the lower river. Anglers are using spawn on the bottom, fly fishing or casting small spoons. Some have caught the occasional walleye when casting body baits. Blue and silver, orange and silver or fire-tiger are usually good colors.
- Higgins Lake: Those seeking lake trout will want to try trolling in 80 to 100 feet. For rainbow trout and brown trout, try fishing along the drop-offs. No word on perch.

- Houghton Lake: Had few anglers going out. Those that are did catch a few pike, walleye and bass. Crappie were caught in the canals.
- Tawas: Had a few anglers trolling for walleye. They were using crank baits and each boat was getting a couple fish. A few walleye were caught by pier anglers casting crank baits in the evening. Perch fishing off the pier was hit-or-miss with lots of sorting. The water was all stirred up from all the wind.
- AuGres: The boats trolling rapalas caught a few walleye in 18 to 20 feet off Whitestone Point. Not much to report on perch. There have been some shore anglers fishing off the docks in Eagle Bay Marina but they are sorting through a lot of small ones to get a few keepers.
- AuGres River: Had reports of some steelhead in the East Branch. The fish were bright chrome and fresh. Look for more as the weather cools.
- Rifle River: Anglers may find some steelhead as fresh fish did move in after the rain.

The Garden Bug

Cranberries

Native Americans named this fruit sassamanash. They most likely introduced it to the English settlers who had come to what is now Massachusetts, and the settlers incorporated the berries into their meals and made them part of the first Thanksgiving feast. The settlers called them "crane berries" because the plant's flower and stem resembled the neck, head, and bill of a crane.

Hunting is 70 year tradition for Glennie man

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

Hunting -- some call it a hobby, others call it a passion -- but only a few can say they've been in love with the sport of hunting and have never missed a deer season for 70 consecutive years.

Alfred "Al" Scully, of Glennie has been hunting since around 1945. He shot his first deer in Alcona County not far from where he lives today. He said hunting deer was something his father, Lou, began doing with him around the age of 11 or 12 and he's never missed a season since.

"Hunting with my dad as a kid was a whole bunch different than it is today. It was colder than hell and you'd have to sit under a tree and stay there until somebody said you could move. We didn't know what deer blinds were then and the clothing wasn't warm," Scully said. He explained that he wore five buckle arctic boots, a wool Mackinaw coat and long-handles (underwear).

Scully carried a .20 gage Mossberg that his father had given him for Christmas back then, his dad had a very heavy military 30-40 Krag. Hunting was done behind a tree or a stump or by sneaking up on the deer by walking really slow, walking two steps and looking for three.

He said hunters would build fires to stay warm. The fires never seemed to bother the deer, but he'd come back with his face smudged black from the smoke of the fire. Around the 1950s hunters began using tin coffee cans to hold a roll of toilet paper doused with some rubbing alcohol. He said it burned a low, blue flame for about four hours and that was enough to take the chill off. After that hunters began using charcoal to stay warm before kerosene and propane heaters.

Al Scully of Glennie poses with a nine-point deer he shot in Rainy River, Ontario, Canada. The buck weighed 195 pounds. Scully has never missed a deer season for the last 70 years and says his main goal is to shoot that elusive 10-point buck which has been on his bucket list for years. Courtesy photo.

Scully explained that despite freezing, he loved to hunt. He also hunted rabbits and birds with his dad in southern Michigan. They always ate whatever they killed, which he still does today with an exception of a few "pest" animals such as coyote, skunk and raccoon.

Scully lives on about 130 acres of land which abuts federal land in Glennie with Donna, his wife of 61 years. The couple has three children, two sons and a daughter; they have two grandsons and six granddaughters. He said his wife, daughter and granddaughters have never hunted or shown any interest in it. He has, however, kept the tradition of hunting by teaching both his boys how to hunt and has hunted with each of his grandsons, although the younger boys don't have the same interest in it as their grandfather.

Scully has traveled some for the love of the sport and has been to Alaska to hunt blacktail deer on Kodiak Island. He said his group pitched a tent along the river for about 10 days on that hunt and the Kodiak bears would come very close to the camp, sometimes less than 20 feet away.

He has also been hunting in Canada several times and has hunted on Anticosti Island in Quebec, Canada. Anticosti Island is known for the largest population of deer per square mile anywhere in North America. He enjoyed seeing wolves in the wild during his hunts in Canada.

Along with deer, Scully has hunted caribou about a 100 miles south of the Arctic circle in Quebec, Canada. In all, he has shot about 11 caribou on different hunts, once he got two caribou with one shot. According to Scully, caribou is a sweeter meat than venison.

He has taken a moose and also hunts bear. His last bear kill was about three years ago close to his home. "Bear meat is good but you don't get it very often. We eat a lot of venison. Any recipe with venison is a good recipe, we had some left over lamb sausage from breakfast last week and we mixed it in with ground venison for spaghetti sauce. It was very good," Scully said.

Scully, who is now 81, is looking forward to another great season of hunting deer. He's collected a lot of good stories over the last 70 years and recalled some of his best times hunting, the funniest included a story of his dad urinating in the woods and shooting a buck mid stream.

"The best hunts were deer camp. My father-in-law and brother-in-law and I would go to the Upper Peninsula and just camp in a truck camper every year. I only killed one deer up there and it wasn't much of a deer, I think it was on its way to die when I shot it, but I enjoyed the camp. I miss that. I liked the angst of getting camp ready, the excitement. It's like Christmas," Scully said.

He said many of the friends he camped with over the years have either passed on or don't hunt as much. Now, he just gets up early, makes a pot of coffee and grabs a handful of raisins or an apple and heads to the blind. About 9 a.m. he returns home for breakfast. "I've gotten used to deer blinds and find it hard to hunt without one," Scully said. He has several blinds on his property and they all have heaters in them.

Over the years Scully has seen a lot of changes and rules the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has made and he isn't always in favor of what has changed. He is very disappointed on how the DNR has handled the bovine tuberculosis issue with deer baiting bans in northeast Michigan. However, he isn't a big fan of baiting deer as it's too much like shooting fish in a barrel. Scully prefers food plots and maintains a few food plots to try to keep deer on his property.

He's also not a big fan of the youth hunt dates, although he highly recommends getting youth into the woods for fresh air and to teach them hunting skills. He said the dates are too early and allows youth to get the really big bucks before the bucks have a chance to mate, which, over time, will diminish the quality of the deer herd. He said youth should hunt the same time everyone else does, just as he did with his dad; and a youth should be 11 or 12-years-old before they start hunting.

Scully thinks many hunters are not selective enough when shooting deer. He has imposed a six-point rule on his land and said while he may see bucks with fewer points, he won't shoot them. He does hunt for the meat, however, and will take an antlerless deer on New Year's Day, the last day of hunting, if he hasn't gotten anything during the season.

His goal this year is the same as the last 70 years, to get a 10-point buck. "When I see a deer my adrenaline starts pumping just like it did when I was a kid. I've been waiting for a 10-point buck all my life and I'd like to get him before I die," Scully said.

In addition to hunting Scully enjoys fishing, which he has been doing since he was three. He is also a skilled wood craftsman, makes intricately designed jewelry boxes and other works of art. He is an active member of the Lincoln Lions and enjoys helping the community.

Decoding pet food claims to find ideal nutrition

(BPT) - In the United States, 62 million households have at least one pet, including 83 million dogs and 95 million cats. That's a lot of people who love their pets, and one of the key aspects of caring for a furry family member is providing the right nutrition.

Unfortunately, with so many pet foods available, labels and claims can quickly get confusing.

"Pet parents want the best for their pets, which is why cat and dog food makers try to position their pet food as the ideal nutritional option," said Dr. Ellen I. Lowery, associate director of U.S. Veterinary and Professional Affairs at Hill's Pet Nutrition. "But not all claims are equal, and pet parents may find it difficult to interpret the quality of a pet food based on the package. Understanding some pet food label requirements can help pet parents make informed decisions about the best food to feed their pets."

Looking for three key things can help pet parents find a quality pet food so they can feel confident that their cat or dog is getting the proper nutrition they need to live a long, healthy life.

- Clinically proven -- Pet owners should look for pet foods with clinically proven claims. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration and the Federal Trade Commission control use of the term "clinically proven." This means the claims are backed by science and research and pets will see a real benefit from the food. Pet owners should look for brands that rely on critical nutrition.

- Made in the U.S.A. -- When shopping for pet food, always check where the food is manufactured. Those foods that are manufactured in the United States are sounder choices. Foods made in the U.S. are typically regulated at a higher level than those made overseas and owners can feel confident that the quality is higher for domestic products.

- Manufacturer's name and contact information -- Under AAFCO regulations, brands are required to include the manufacturer's name and contact information. Pet owners should also look for food labels that include a 1-800 number for more in-depth information. The number allows pet owners to reach out to brands specifically regarding questions on the food and its ingredients. This contact information demonstrates the company's commitment to providing the healthiest choice for pets and it shows they are open to feedback and questions.

DNR seeks dened bears in Lower Peninsula

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources is looking for dened bear locations in the northern Lower Peninsula, and is asking those who come across a dened black bear during their hunting, trapping or other outdoor adventures to let the DNR know. Additional black bears, to be fitted with radio collars, are needed for an ongoing bear research project.

"Information gathered from bears assists in managing the black bear population," said Mark Boersen, DNR wildlife biologist at the Roscommon Customer Service Center. "Currently, we have four female bears being monitored from both air and ground using radio-tracking equipment."

After a dened bear is located, DNR biologists will determine if the animal is a good candidate for radio-collaring. Bears that are selected will be sedated by a wildlife biologist and fitted with a radio-tracking collar and ear tags. Hair samples will be taken for DNA analysis, and a small, nonfunctional tooth will be collected to determine the bear's age. Upon completion of the short procedure, biologists will carefully return the bear to its den, where it will spend the remainder of the winter months.

People who encounter bear dens are asked to record the location, with a GPS unit if possible, and contact Mark Boersen at 989-275-5151 or boersenm@michigan.gov to provide specific location information. The DNR reminds everyone that it is illegal to disturb a bear den or disturb, harm or molest a bear in its den.

Learn more about radio telemetry and other wildlife research projects by visiting mi.gov/wildlife and clicking on "Wild Science."

American Life in Poetry

By Ted Kooser

U.S. Poet Laureate, 2004-2006

How could we publish a column about American Life in Poetry without including a poem about a high school reunion? This is from Barbara Crooker's Selected Poems from Futurecycle Press. She lives in Pennsylvania.

25th Reunion

A quarter of a century
since we left high school, and we've gathered at a posh restaurant.
A little heavier, a little grayer,
we look for the yearbook pictures caught inside these bodies of strangers.
Some of our faces are etched with lines,
the faint tracing of a lover's touch, and some of our hair is silver-white,
a breath of frost. And some of us are gone.
But he's here, the dark angel, everyone's last lover, up at the microphone singing "Save the Last Dance for Me;"
he's singing a cappella, the notes rising sweetly, yearningly toward the ceiling, which is now festooned with tissue flowers,
paper streamers, balloons.
And we're all eighteen again,
lines and wrinkles erased, gray hairs gone,
our slim bodies back, the perfect editing.
A saxophone keens its reedy insistence;
scents of gardenias and tea roses float in the air
from our wrist corsages and boutonnieres.
No children or lovers have broken our hearts,
it's just all of us, together,
in our fresh young skin,
ready to do it all over again.

We do not accept unsolicited submissions. American Life in Poetry is made possible by The Poetry Foundation (www.poetryfoundation.org), publisher of Poetry magazine. It is also supported by the Department of English at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Poem copyright ©2015 by Barbara Crooker, "25th Reunion," from Selected Poems, (Futurecycle Press, 2015).

Pet food

Additionally, pet parents should question terms such as "gourmet" or "human grade" on pet food labels. These terms are often used for human foods, so marketers place them on pet foods, to make the product appear healthier and to anthropomorphize their pet's food.

However, these words do not necessarily mean higher-quality ingredients, and therefore, may not equate with superior nutrition.

"Looking beyond the front of the package will help pet parents ensure their pets are getting quality nutrition," Lowery said. "And remember to talk to a veterinary health-care team for insight into the best food for pets. With so many pet food choices your veterinary team is the expert for your pet's overall health and wellness."

Veterans Host By Greddy Groves

Unsettling testimony

Witnesses recently testified before the Senate Committee on Veterans' Affairs about the problems veterans experience trying to access mental-health services through the Department of Veterans Affairs.

Witness A was a Naval Academy graduate with a certificate from Stanford Graduate School of Business, a Marine Corps intelligence and special-ops officer, with two combat deployments in Afghanistan. He receives health care through the VA.

Witness A said it took over a year to get access to the VA's health care. Once in, he asked for a mental-health consult for mild symptoms. It took more than a month to get an appointment. The physician dispensed pills, and within two weeks those initial mild symptoms became much worse. He stopped taking the pills and felt better, but it was over a month before he could get another exam. The doctor offered to prescribe another kind of pill. Witness A asked to try cognitive therapy, but the VA doesn't provide that kind of care ... only pills.

In his next attempt to get care, he kept leaving messages in an attempt to get an appointment, but no one ever responded to his calls. Now the VA is threatening to cut his benefits for missing appointments ... appointments that had never been made because he couldn't get a human on the line.

StarWatch By Gary Becker - Blazing Taurids

"Aw, did you see that?" voices in the dark shouted. "What?" I responded. "It went halfway across the sky and was really bright." I was looking downward, helping several other students with a problem they were encountering with their telescope, but I knew exactly what had been witnessed. It was a Taurid meteor blazing across the sky. Meteors are created from the jetsam and flotsam that are released by comets when they approach the sun along their orbital paths. If the comet's corridor takes it near Earth's orbital circuit, we encounter that debris as shooting stars. The dross slams into our atmosphere, causing the air to incandesce as the meteoroid is torn apart. Currently, the shooting stars created by Comet Encke are maxing in our night sky, and they are a source for an occasional bright fireball, radiating away from the V-shaped grouping of stars known as Taurus the Bull. It was a Taurid meteor that my students had witnessed. Events from the Taurid stream are the slowest moving shooting stars that can be seen on an annual basis, and they can linger in the sky for multiple seconds, sputtering occasionally like a distant Fourth of July sparkler with pieces flying off and creating their own small meteoric displays as the parent body disintegrates. Taurids are visible throughout October and November with a broad maximum that is ending this week. That's the good news. The problem is that there are only a few Taurids that the Earth encounters. Encke is not very active and the strands of debris are old. Over the millennia they have spread out, creating the exceptionally long period when Taurids appear, but severely reducing their hourly count. My suggestion is that if you are outside on a clear, starlit evening, give the sky a 10 minute sweep. It is not only relaxing, but also awe-inspiring to contemplate something bigger than yourself; and who knows, in addition you might encounter, as my students did, a slow moving Taurid blazing across the velvety night. www.astronomy.org

Where's That Beer?

November 11, 1915 - Peter Thompson of Spruce was planning on a plowing bee and on Saturday night his cellar was well stocked with a supply of liquid refreshments necessary for the occasion.

Sunday morning 6¾ cases of Beck's Best Brew were missing and Peter was mad. He instituted a search but no discovery was made. The officers of the law were invoked and Sheriff Jimmy and Prosecutor Dehnke hastened to Spruce. Nothing doing. Monday they returned to the scene, but the cases are still missing and there were only two kegs left in Peter's cellar to do the plowing with. And the end is not yet.

Despite a massive search, no trace of Cooper or the $200,000 in ransom money he carried was ever found.
 - On Nov. 25, 1990, after a howling wind- and rainstorm on Thanksgiving Day, Washington state's historic floating Lacey V. Murrow Memorial Bridge breaks apart and sinks to the bottom of Lake Washington. The bridge had been made of 22 floating pontoons.

Strange But True

By Samantha Weaver

- It was 20th-century American journalist Walter Lippmann who made the following sage observation: "Our conscience is not the vessel of eternal verities. It grows with our social life, and a new social condition means a radical change in conscience."
- According to a recent analysis of data from the online music streaming service Spotify and artist popularity data from a website called The Echo Nest, Americans tend to stop listening to new music at the age of 33.
- John Tyler, born March 29, 1790, was the 10th president of the United States. He was married twice and had a total of 15 children. These children, collectively, were witness to a surprisingly large swath of American history. The oldest, Mary Tyler Jones, was born in 1815, the year that saw the end of the War of 1812; the youngest, Pearl Tyler Ellis, survived until 1947, two years after the end of World War II. President Tyler even has two grandsons who are still alive today.
- You might be surprised to learn that it costs the U.S. government nearly 2 cents to mint a single penny.
- Unless you've been to Crater Lake National Park in Oregon, it's difficult to believe just how blue the water of that lake appears. In fact, there was a time when the rich blues made the professionals at Kodak believe the photos to be overdeveloped, and the pictures would be returned at no charge.
- Those who study such things say that if you were (for reasons unspecified) to eat the liver of a polar bear, you'd die. The amount of vitamin A stored in that organ constitutes a fatal dose for humans.

VILLAGE OF LINCOLN MINUTES

The Lincoln Village Council met on Monday, Nov. 2 at 7 p.m. at the village hall. The meeting opened with "The Pledge of Allegiance." Those in attendance included: President Jordan, clerk Somers, assistant clerk/treasurer Hussain and council members Gauthier, Healy, P. Somers, R. Somers and Stutzman. Absent was treasurer Kossa. Also present were several guests and attorney Cook. The minutes of the October meeting were approved on a motion from Gauthier with support from Stutzman. Note that the Festival of Lights celebration will be held on Friday, Dec. 4. The treasurer's report was approved, subject to audit, on a motion from Gauthier with support from Healy.

Mike Serafin, fire chief, gave his monthly report. For the first time in memory there weren't any fire runs for the month. Billy Cordes was introduced as a candidate for fire fighter for the village. A motion to allow Billy Cordes to join the fire department was made by Healy with support from Gauthier. Carried. He stated that the group participated in the chili cook-off over the weekend. Currently, the equipment is running well. Gloves to be used for extrication and an ice auger are going to be ordered soon.

The sewer report was given. A flow meter was not working properly so correct readings were not available. It has been repaired and we should have good readings next month. There has been one issue with a pipe freezing and Alpena

Septic will be working to correct the problem before winter. The street report was also given. Markers will be placed by driveways, curbs, trees etc. to help with the snow removal for the upcoming winter. There are some repairs needed to the area off Church Street/Traverse Bay intersection for an area that keeps washing out. Steve will be working on it this week. Phil attended a meeting for the task force for Region 9 recently. A road project has been added for 2021 to redo a major portion of Traverse Bay Road. There is a possibility to add a bike/walking path to any new road projects.

In old business: President Jordan said that 450 mugs were sold for the chili cook-off. The winners for that contest were: First place - Lincoln Fire Department 911; second place - Dave Snyder/Lincoln Pharmacy; and third place - Farm Market. In the soup contest: First place - Kirk Sherwood; second place - Jeff Wilson; and third place - Teresa Hart. The sidewalk work was done this past month. It looks wonderful. A motion was made by Healy, with support from Stutzman, to pay an additional $200 to Billy Schroeder for the additional work he provided for the sidewalk. His bid was for $3,000 and he did additional work.

In new business: Gauthier asked about a fall/brush pick-up. Bagged yard waste should be placed at the curb by 7 a.m.

Friday, Nov. 13. The downtown region will be decorated for the holidays as soon as the leaves are off the trees. Meeting closed to go into the DDA public hearing at 7:27 p.m.

Regular meeting reopened at 7:54 p.m. A motion was made by Gauthier, with support from Healy, to adopt the resolution for the DDA. Aye: Patricia Somers, Richard Somers, Sara Healy, Bonny Gauthier. Abstain: John Stutzman. President Jordan then suggested that the resolution be for 15 years rather than 25 as originally planned for. The motion was amended to adopt the resolution to be for 15 years on a motion from Healy with support from Gauthier. A roll vote was taken: Patricia Somers, Richard Somers, Sara Healy, Bonny Gauthier, all Ayes. Abstain: John Stutzman. The resolution follows:

Resolution adopting amendment to the Downtown Development Authority Tax Increment Financing and Development Plan

Minutes of a regular meeting of the Village of Lincoln Council, held in the village fire hall building, Lincoln, Mich. on November 2, 2015 at 7:30 p.m. Present: Council members Bonny Gauthier, Sara Healy, Patricia Somers, Richard Somers and John Stutzman. Absent council members: None.

The following preamble and resolution were offered by Council Member Sara Healy, and supported by Council Member Bonny Gauthier.

Whereas, by resolution adopted October 5, 2015, the Village of Lincoln determined that the purposes for which the Downtown Development Authority Tax Increment Financing and Development Plan was established have not been accomplished and that the plan should be extended for another 15 years to December 31, 2030; and

Whereas, the Village of Lincoln Council determined that the extension would be considered at a meeting of the council to be held on November 2, 2015, and that an opportunity to be heard would be provided to the taxpayers of record in the development area and to all municipalities effected by the same, by certified mail, and by posting notice at no less than 20 conspicuous places in the Downtown Development Authority District:

Now, therefore, be it resolved that the duration of the Downtown Development Authority Tax Increment Financing and Development Plan shall be altered to read as follows: The duration of the Downtown Development Authority Tax Increment Financing and Development Plan shall be amended from its current expiration date on December 31, 2015 and shall be extended for an additional 15 years to December 31, 2030 pursuant to the plan adopted September 5, 2000 which provides that the plan shall terminate on December 31, 2015 or until the purposes for which the plan was established have been accomplished.

Ayes: Council members Bonny Gauthier, Sara Healy, Patricia Somers and Richard Somers. Nays: None. Abstain: Council Member John Stutzman.

Resolution declared adopted.

publication or posting at least 18 hours prior to the time set for the meeting. Linda K. Somers, its clerk, 35 E. Main Street, Lincoln, Mich. 48742

In public comment: Dennis Kruttlin gave information about projects that were completed by the DDA in the past 25 years. It gives a list of things that have been done with both their funds and grant funds. Richard Somers stated that we have a wonderful new building for the road commission and he would like to know why the old elevator building and surrounding area can't be cleaned up. President Jordan stated that he will have Zoning Administrator Troy Somers look into this matter. Attorney Cook advised that we cannot do anything unless it's a matter of something hazardous to the health and well being of the citizens of the community.

President Jordan gave his report. The water issue on Second Street has been fixed. Five trees that were dead were replaced. The buoys were removed from the beach with help from resident Dave Glazer. The HR committee will be meeting to discuss a contract for Steve Slater. A motion was made by Stutzman, with support from Gauthier, to hold a HR meeting to discuss Steve's job performance and a possible multiple year contract. Carried.

The Lincoln Lions asked for permission to use the storage room at the back of the new bathroom. Repairs are being made to the dump truck auger and the windshield wiper motor on the loader. Bathrooms were closed for the season by Craig Kilbourn. Every year Craig donates so much of his time to our community and we want to say thanks. President Jordan thanked everyone for all their time and effort.

A motion to pay the bills as presented was made by Gauthier with support from Stutzman. Carried. A motion to adjourn was made by Stutzman with support from Healy. Carried.

VILLAGE OF LINCOLN MINUTES

The Lincoln Village Council met at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 2 in the fire hall for a public hearing. This meeting was held to hear questions and concerns regarding a 25-year extension for the Downtown Development Authority, herein after referred to as the DDA. The following were in attendance: Council members John Stutzman, Bonny Gauthier, Sara Healy, Patricia Somers and Richard Somers. Also present were President Phillip Jordan, clerk Linda Somers and assistant clerk/treasurer Holly Hussain. DDA Board members present were: Dennis Kruttlin, Evelyn Good, Eric Monnier, Karen Godi, Brian Ankner and Joe James. Community residents included Mary Rivera, Debbie Shaneour, Kathy Putsky, Scott Latham and Edna Byce. Also present was Gustin Township Supervisor Adam Brege, fire chief Mike Serafin and Attorney David Cook. President Jordan gave a brief opening statement and opened the floor for questions and comments. Adam Brege asked for clarification regarding the tax monies that are captured from his township for use by the DDA. He asked to have someone attend one of their meetings and present the information so that all of the board members can better understand what is taking place.

Mary Rivera asked about whether sidewalk will be done in the next year between her home and the barber shop. President Jordan assured her that we will be doing more work there in the spring. Kathy Putsky stated that she hopes support continues for the DDA because they are very generous in the financial support they have given to the beautification. John Stutzman stated that he feels he is always on the negative side. He stated the streetscape project was supposed to bring in new business and instead we've had four businesses close down. He feels that if we didn't give our funds to the DDA we could fund many projects we need to take care of. He pointed out that there are roof projects for the village hall and maintenance building that need to be done. He also expressed concern about the dump truck that needs to be replaced, several road projects he feels could be better funded if we kept the funds that are currently going to the DDA. President Jordan stated that we have responsibilities to maintain our roads; it is not the responsibility of the DDA. John stated that he feels we can't compete with Meijer or Walmart by any business we try to bring in, several in attendance stated that we should not try to either.

Bonny Gauthier stated that we have been fortunate to have the DDA members work free gratis' on all the projects, things that we can't do on our own. Stutzman talked about the things we haven't been able to do, things we keep adding to the list of "wants." He said he is frustrated that we do not have enough money coming in to do all the projects we want or need to do. He further stated that he feels the Brownlee Lake Association pays taxes and dues and he feels that is being double taxed. Others in attendance voiced their disagreement saying they pay their dues gladly and do not feel they are being taken advantage of. President Jordan stated that there are some businesses that would be a good fit for our community and there are currently some things in the works. Gauthier stated that even if the village did capture all the funds that DDA currently gets we would always have to still stick to a budget, we'd still have wants and needs, the money would not make the only difference. President Jordan asked for any final comments, none were heard. The public hearing was closed at 7:53 p.m.
