Republicans host forum for 106th District candidates

By Cheryl Peterson
Editor

With the August 2 primary election less than two months away, the Alcona County Republican Party is providing an opportunity for voters to hear candidates for the 106th District state legislative seat discuss issues relevant to the region in a candidate forum on Saturday, June 11.

This multi-county event, which will be held at the Alcona High School auditorium, will have the following Republican candidates in attendance: Sue Allor, David Ladd Chandler, Jackie Krawczak and Jesse Osmer. Board of commission chairmen from Alcona, Cheboygan, Iosco and Presque Isle counties will take turns asking questions of the candidates.

According to Larry Brozowski, chairman of the Alcona Republican Party, each county comprised of the 106th Legislative District – Alcona, Alpena, Cheboygan, Iosco and Presque Isle – have participated in the process of developing questions for the forum, however, Alpena County opted not to have its commission board chairman participate in the question process. “We’ve been working on selecting questions for the last six weeks,” Brozowski said. “There will be 15 questions asked and each candidate will take turns answering with a specified time allotment for each question.”

He explained the forum is a joint effort with the intention of “driving party unity.” “We, as a party, stand united for the values that the country believes in,” Brozowski said.

The event is free and doors open at 6 p.m. The forum will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Brozowski said the lobby outside the auditorium will have Republican candidates for the 1st Congressional District – Jack Bergman, Jason Allen and Tom Casperson – in the lobby during the hour prior to the forum. “Every Republican that is running in the county, for any seat, is welcome to participate in the lobby area prior to the forum,” Brozowski said. However, the forum is for the candidates running for the 106th District seat currently held by Peter Pettalia, who is not eligible for re-election due to term limits.

There will be a live stream of the event, just go to the Alcona County Republican website and look for the YouTube link.

Black River Road reconstruction begins

After three years of delays waiting for funding and other factors to fall into place, reconstruction of Black River Road between F-41 and US-23 began Thursday, June 2 with installation of detour signage and mobilization of equipment.

Originally, construction was not slated to begin until the end of July, but Elmer’s Construction, the successful bidder on the job, found the timing was right in their work schedule to start the project immediately.

“While we were surprised to hear the project would begin way ahead of schedule, we are pleased to finally have this project underway,” said Alcona County Road Commission Managing Director Jesse Campbell. “Road crews had cut the trees earlier in the spring in anticipation of the project being worked on this year, so we were ready and waiting.”

The road commission is using about $173,000 of its allocation of Surface Transportation Program funding and Alcona Township is contributing $588,000 from its voter-approved road millage to upgrade the road. This portion of road not only connects two major roads, it is especially important to Alcona Township as it links the east and west sides of the township.

Work will include placing gravel over the existing surface, crushing the old surface and mixing it with the new gravel, and shaping it to become the new road bed. Other upgrades include replacing a cross-culvert at Sayers Road, cutting the hill east of Sayers down about three feet, widening the paved surface of the road to 28 feet with new asphalt, restoring ditches and shoulders, and finishing the project with pavement markings and new signs.

According to the construction schedule, the road will be closed to all but local traffic beginning June 6. The strategy is to allow road crews to work without interference with the goal to complete the job as expeditiously as possible. Traffic will be rerouted via a signed detour route on F-41 and US-23. The estimated completion date is July 22.

The executive director position had been held by Wade Yocum who recently resigned to move to the Gaylord, Mich. area to open a counseling center with his wife.

As the executive director, Fines will oversee many aspects of HHNEMI, including staff. He has already reached out to have one-on-one consultations with each of his staff members to better understand their needs and concerns. His next step will be to do the same with board members. “I don’t want to push new ideas too fast too often,” Fines said.

An Alcona County resident has been named the new executive director for Habitat for Humanity of Northeast Michigan (HHNEMI) which serves Alcona, Alpena and Presque Isle counties.

Ted Fines comes to the position after serving on the HHNEMI board for the last two years, most recently serving as the vice president. He also has many years of experience owning a mechanical contracting business and serving on many other charitable and civic boards. He and his wife, Chris, live in Lincoln.

Every approved Habitat family must be financially qualified, agree to partner with Habitat and put in sweat equity hours volunteering for Habitat Fines explained. The organization works closely with its partnered families training them in home maintenance, budgeting, gardening and, even, parenting. “We want them to be Habitat volunteers. It’s not just a house,

WESTMINSTER PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH HARRISVILLE, MICHIGAN

Dear Family, Friends and Neighbors,

We joyfully invite you to the rededication of the Sanctuary of our church to be held on Sunday, June 12, 2016. As many of you know our maturing church developed some structural issues that needed to be addressed. That has been completed, and we are once again meeting in the Sanctuary. It is time to rededicate this fine lady to the continuance of providing shelter, strength, and spiritual hope to those worshiping within.

Westminster Presbyterian Church was organized in 1878 and broke ground for the building in 1879 for a cost of $6,000. In 1895 the church disbanded and the building was used by our friends, the Episcopalians. In 1903, the church reopened as a mission field, with a second successful organization effected in 1906 following through till now.

Please come share with us our joy and the rededication of our worshiping home. We welcome all and invite you to join us in a potluck following 11:00 a.m. worship.

You are invited this Sunday, and every Sunday to join us in worship and in sharing.

Your friends and neighbors,
Westminster Presbyterian Church

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,
This past Memorial Day while attending services in Mikado, I was offended. Many people know the monument in front of the Mikado Civic Center holds the names of the veterans who gave their lives defending our country. What a disgrace to leave the grass long enough that after the service many people were left scurrying through it to find the empty shell casings.

If I recall, Mikado Township has an ordinance stating your lawn can be no longer than six inches. How can they enforce this if they can not keep their own grass cut? Moments later the township supervisor was questioned, he stated, "it was just dandelions." Disrespectful and disgraceful not only to our veterans and their families but also to the taxpayers of Mikado Township.

A huge thank you goes out to the Mikado American Legion Post 254 for the wonderful services honoring our veterans.

To the Editor,
 On my last nerve. It's election time. A few weeks ago a candidate and his wife appeared in my drive. Invades my privacy without asking if I am busy or mind the intrusion. Wants to know my ideas and thoughts about what can help our community. Government picks my brain, asks to put an obtrusive sign on my property. I allow it. Two weeks (after) posting (the) sign, I begin lawn work and take the sign down temporarily.

The next day I received a phone call from his wife asking why the three dollar sign was down? I explain why. A few days later (the) candidate appears again unannounced, (to) ask what I am having done and how long before I will put it back; did I still have his information. (He) takes the sign because he needs the exposure on US-23, (asks) for me to call him when he can put it back up.

I am very particular how and what I vote for. How many of you out there would call or vote for this candidate? He needs to rethink our education system, and take some manner classes. Politicians and babies need to be changed often for the same reason. Maybe for the first time in 30 years I just won't vote. Next election I'll charge $20 a month to post a sign on my property.

Abigail Jesiek

To the Editor,
 I know Robert Kennedy, Democratic candidate for the 106th State House of Representatives, and let me share his stance on higher education.

Bob places a top priority on each person being able to afford the highest level of education which he/she desires. In that vein he supports the governor's 2017 budget proposal of the state spending an additional $61 million on our 15 state universities. This would finally bring funding back to the level it was in 2011 and help make tuition more reasonable for our students who choose to attend one of our existing state funded universities.

Now, even this priority looks like it is in jeopardy as the recent revenue estimating conference shows about a $200 million shortfall in our current year and this proposed $61 million may be on the chopping block.

Additionally, our general fund, which is the main funding mechanism for higher education, is going to be stretched to the max for the next few years. Remember the road package of 2015 is funded by taking at least $500 million per year out of the general fund.

With the Flint water crisis, the Detroit Public School crisis, and recent news in Oscoda about polluted drinking wells we also need to plan for replacing our crumbling infrastructure statewide to protect the health and welfare of our citizens. When the previously mentioned priorities are achieved I know Mr. Kennedy will support the concept of a four year university in northeast Michigan.

In 1907, the Elks Grand Lodge designated June 14 as Flag Day and adopted mandatory observance of the occasion by every lodge in 1911. The Elks prompted President Woodrow Wilson to recognize the Elk's observance of Flag Day for its patriotic expression. But, it was not until 1949 when President Harry Truman, himself a member of the Elks, made the proclamation that thereafter June 14 would be a day of national observance for the symbol of the country. Attendees should bring their own lawn chairs to the ceremony. Questions can be directed to Brad Saegesser at (989) 820-7171.

SENIOR LIFESTYLES

Simple smartphones for seniors

Dear Savvy Senior,
Can you recommend some smartphones that are specifically designed for seniors? My 75-year-old mother is interested in upgrading from a basic cell phone to a smartphone, but will need one that's very easy to operate.
Inquiring Daughter

Dear Inquiring,
I wrote about this topic just last year, but in the fast changing world of personal technology devices, there's a new crop of simplified smartphones that have recently hit the market that are better than ever for tech-shy seniors. Here are my three top options.

• Doro 824 SmartEasy: Offered by Consumer Cellular, the new Doro 824 SmartEasy is one of the best, simplified smartphones available today. It starts with a bright, 5-inch high-resolution touch screen display that offers large icons and text, and customizable volume settings. Its simplified design pairs down the options, providing uncluttered, easy access to key contacts and frequently used features – such as the phone, text messages, the camera e-mail and the Internet – right from the home screen. And, it provides help as you go along from the built-in coach.

It also offers a unique pre-installed My Doro Manager app that can also be downloaded by family or friends. This app provides a number of tutorials showing your mom how to enjoy her phone, and gives her trusted contacts the remote ability to help manage and adjust her Doro smartphone from their smartphone no matter where they are.

And for added convenience and safety, the Doro 824 provides three physical buttons on the front of the phone for quick, one-touch access to the home screen, recently used applications, and a back button that returns to the previous screen. And an “Emergency Alert” button on the back of the phone that will automatically dial one, predetermined contact in the event of an emergency.

The Doro 824 is sold online at ConsumerCellular.com, over the phone at (888) 532-5366, or at any Target or Sears store for $200 with no contract.

• Jitterbug Smart: Offered by GreatCall wireless, the new 4th generation Jitterbug Smart is much bigger than previous GreatCall smartphones. This phone is actually an Alcatel smartphone that's been rebranded and loaded with GreatCall's simplified user interface software.

It has a big, bright 5.5-inch high-definition touch screen, and a simple single-list menu on the home page that provides easy access to only frequently used features, along with one-touch access to contacts and other apps.

It also provides convenient voice typing for e-mails and texts, and offers a variety of optional health and safety features, like MedCoach, that sends medication and prescription refill reminders. Urgent Care, which provides unlimited access to registered nurses and doctors to answer health questions. And a 5Star medical-alert service that lets you speak to a live emergency-alert agent around the clock. These trained agents will confirm your mom's location via GPS tracking technology and dispatch help as needed.

Available online at GreatCall.com, or at Best Buy, Rite Aid, Sears and Wal-Mart stores for $150 with a one-time $35 activation fee and no contract.

• Samsung Galaxy Note5: While this smartphone isn't designed specifically for seniors, its large size (5.7-inch screen) and unique “Easy” mode setting that boosts the icon and font sizes and simplifies the home-screen layout, makes it a good option.

With the Easy mode turned on, the Note5's home screen will display only the time, date and local weather, and six frequently used functions. To access your 12 most important contacts, you would simply swipe the home screen

Alcona falls to W-P in district final

By Ben Murphy
Sports Writer

The Alcona varsity baseball team met its match in the division four district final in AuGres on Friday, June 3 when it fell to Whittemore-Prescott, 9-5.

The Cardinals chased Tiger ace Coda Gallagher after two innings, with W-P taking a 7-3 lead after the first two frames.

Erik Davey came in to pitch relief, holding the Cardinals to just two runs the rest of the way, but couldn't muster enough offense to get back in the game against W-P ace Shawn Edmonds.

Gallagher had a strong game at the plate going three-for-four with Davey adding two hits in four at bats.

In Alcona's district semi-final earlier in the day, it topped Hale 17-0. Davey was the winning pitching, tossing all four innings and giving up just one hit while striking out four batters. Swinson had a key double to help break the game open in a big third inning, with Davey also getting a hit in that frame to help his own cause.

On Tuesday, May 31 the Tigers opened up district play with an 18-3 pre-district win over Fairview. Gallagher pitched all four innings of the mercy win, while Swinson had three hits and Eric Davey and Alec Stephenson had two hits apiece.

Elect DAVID C. RIFFEL
for 23rd Circuit Court Judge

Alcona County Sheriff Douglas Atchison endorses David Riffel for 23rd Circuit Court Judge.

"I have been directly involved in law enforcement and the judicial system for 34 years and recognize the values and beliefs that make a superior judge, David Riffel possesses those traits".

David holds true to heart a strong family value, a common sense approach and dedication to his profession, he recognizes the need for justice throughout the judicial system and welcomes the opportunity to bring a fair and impartial mind-set to the bench.

It is with great ease that I support and endorse David Riffel for Judge.

it's a home to these people. There is a difference," Fines said.

Volunteerism is the heart of the organization, according to Fines. He explained that is how the organization can keep the homes inexpensive. He said many corporations will send volunteers out to work on a home, but they are always in need of more volunteers.

Habitat families do pay less than renting, typically 24 percent of their income goes to their total housing costs. Fines explained this benefit monetarily changes their quality of life and offers them cleaner and safer homes. It also changes their perspective, as they can no longer expect their landlord to fix things when their home needs repair.

Part of Fines' agenda will be to let the public know the HHNEMI Re-Store offers free pickup of household appliances, furniture, home accessories, and building materials anywhere in Alcona, Alpena and Presque Isle counties. Habitat does not accept old televisions or clothing, but will take just about anything else, including tools.

The Habitat Re-Store, located in Alpena, not only provides materials for HHNEMI to use in building homes, but also has a huge draw in which many local do-it-yourselfers and contractors will visit to purchase supplies at bargain prices. The Home Depot sends many overstock items and things they cannot sell to the Re-Store. Money the store earns goes back into providing safe, affordable homes.

Fines is deeply faithful and is a session member at Spruce Presbyterian Church. He said Habitat for Humanity is a Christian organization, but doesn't discriminate against anyone, no matter what their religion, race, age, gender, political views or any other distinction which often divides people.

In part of his agreement to take the position, Fines offered to take less money as he didn't take the job to earn a big paycheck from the organization. He is also tithing some of the funds he earns back to HHNEMI.

Fines was born in Toronto, Canada and grew up in the small town of Kingsville, south of Windsor, Ontario. He said there were less than 50 students in his high school graduation class, many of which grew up the sons and daughters of farmers and fisherman, so he is quite comfortable with northeastern Michigan surroundings and its residents.

Fines graduated from Wayne State University where he also met his wife. Together they raised three children in the Detroit, Mich., area. He retired after 38 years as a mechanical contractor. The couple has one grandson. Their tie to northeastern Michigan began years before Fines retired. Chris had grandparents, and then parents, who had a cottage in Oscoda, so she visited the Sunrise Side a lot during her childhood.

In the mid 1990s he would visit a friend from the area and they played golf at White Pine or Lost Lake Woods. They purchased their residence in 2000 and made it their official home when Fines retired in 2003. In addition to his work at HHNEMI, and with Spruce Presbyterian Church, Fines is also a Mason at Lodge No. 292 in Lincoln.

His civic duties include being on the Alcona County Board of Inspectors and is on the Alcona County Board of Canvassers. He is an active member of the Alcona County Democratic Party.

Fines is known for his passion for photography which began as a small boy when his mother presented him with a Brownie camera as a gift. This passion has remained strong throughout his life. As a result of his artistic interests, Fines has served as president of the Dragon Fly Art Gallery in Harrisville and is a board member at Art in the Loft in Alpena and the Harrisville Art Council. He also worked on the Lake Huron Discovery Tour last year and is the photographer of record for it.

Fines said he and his wife love living in northeastern Michigan and feels accepting this position will enhance that, "The move up here has allowed me to become more of me. I am honored and humbled to accept this position. Ending poverty housing is a matter of compassion. Our mission is not only about building houses, as important as those are, our mission is to transform communities."

For more information about HHNEMI visit its website at Habitatnemi.org. To volunteer for the organization, contact Fines at (989) 335-3443.

The HHNEMI Re-Store is open Tuesday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. It is located at 400 W. Chisholm Street, in Alpena.

The caterpillars of fritillary butterflies hatch in the fall, go dormant right away without feeding, and sleep through the winter. They awaken in the spring at the same time as violet plants, their only food, begin to grow. It is feared that global warming may disrupt this delicate and important synchronization and cause extinction of fritillary butterflies.

StarWatch By Gary Becker - Living in the Matrix

Isaac Asimov's short story, The Last Question, poses the query whether entropy, the wearing down of a system, in this case the universe, could be reversed. The story begins in 2061, but spans trillions of years as humanity expands into the cosmos, eventually populating it in its entirety. During the seven segments of the story, an "automatic computer" continues to reinvent itself assuming more responsibility for the regions of space into which humankind has advanced. With each reinvention, the computer grows smaller and more powerful until in the end, it becomes the consciousness of the universe, joining as one the minds of all humanity stretched across the vastness of space and time. During each segment in the narrative the computer is asked, "Can entropy be reversed?" After trillions of years of analysis, the computer finalizes an answer which is both shocking and yet benign in every aspect. Read The Last Question at <http://www.physics.princeton.edu/ph115/LQ.pdf> to find out. Related to Asimov's story is the query of whether our universe is, in reality, a computer simulation. It was the topic of the 17th Annual Isaac Asimov Panel Debate (Google this) held on April 5 at the American Museum of Natural History in NYC. The group included three theoretical physicists, a cosmologist, a philosopher, and host, Neil deGrasse Tyson. During the discussions, members described the successes that we have achieved in our attempts to model quarks, the building blocks of matter/energy in the universe, and cosmic rays. If the universe is completely quantifiable, then with a computer large enough, we should be able to simulate it. Like computer programs, glitches occur; and the universe is no stranger to these. It defied the laws of nature just after its creation, allowing for the formation of hydrogen and helium that eventually evolved into sentient beings as well as its brief expansion faster than the speed of light. However, in the end the panel, except for Tyson, felt strongly about the premise that the matrix was not for us. www.astronomy.org

Strange But True

By Samantha Weaver

- It was award-winning Canadian novelist, poet and literary critic Margaret Atwood who made the following sage observation: "War is what happens when language fails."
- Many people don't realize that the parachute was invented before the airplane. The first person to use a parachute and survive was Louis-Sebastien Lenormand, who jumped off the tower of the Montpelier Observatory in 1783.
- You've doubtless heard of Edgar Allan Poe's poem "The Raven" -- or at least the famous line "Quoth the Raven, nevermore." When the poem was published in 1845, it immediately became wildly popular, catapulting the previously obscure poet to national celebrity. Future president Abraham Lincoln liked it so much that he reportedly committed the lengthy verse to memory. Despite criticism from such literary lights as William Butler Yeats (who called the poem "insincere and vulgar ... its execution a rhythmical trick") and Ralph Waldo Emerson (who said, "I see nothing in it"), the popularity of "The Raven" continued unabated, inspiring a plethora of parodies, including "The Gazelle," "The Turkey" and "The Pole-Cat." Popularity didn't translate into financial success, however; Poe died in 1849, shortly after being found a penniless wanderer on the streets of Baltimore. His death has been blamed on consumption, alcohol poisoning or an opium overdose, but the true cause remains a mystery.
- If you're planning to take a cruise this summer, try to remember to use your right foot when you take your first step aboard; it's considered bad luck to step aboard with your left foot.
- You might be surprised to learn that in Russia, there are laws that prohibit the production, import or sale of lace panties.

Kick off home improvement season with easy maintenance projects

By Scott McGillivray

As the days get longer and the weather improves, this is the time to make sure that our homes or rental properties are well maintained. Here are a few do-it-yourself projects to keep your home in tip-top shape:

- Top up your attic insulation. Many older homes have inadequate levels of insulation in the attic that wouldn't meet today's building code. Topping it up will help reduce energy consumption and keep your house cooler in the summer months. A great product for this task is Roxul ComfortBatt insulation. It's easy to install, cuts simply with a serrated blade or bread knife and protects against fire, moisture and mold. Aim for a depth of 16 inches or an R-value of 50. Insulating properly could also provide added benefits, such as improving the longevity of your air conditioner by reducing stress on the unit as temperatures rise.

- Inspect your roof and make minor repairs. Winter can be especially hard on a roof. Look for ice, hail or water damage. Replace any cracked or missing shingles and clear any debris.

- Clean your gutters. It's not glamorous work, but your home's gutters play an essential role in moving water away from your home and preventing damage. Consider installing gutter guards to ensure your gutters remain functional and free from debris.

- Inspect windows and doors and re-caulk where necessary. Because a proper seal is essential in both heating and cooling seasons, this job should be performed twice a year to protect against drafts and moisture, and to keep insects out. Worn weatherstripping should also be replaced.

Other simple jobs include fixing leaky faucets, repairing and resealing decks, inspecting the foundation and scheduling a checkup for your HVAC system. The key is being honest about what you can handle and, when in doubt, call in the pros.
