Local road projects on tap for late summer

The Alcona County Road Commission has three road construction projects on tap for this season that will not begin until August and September.

This could be good news for two of the projects, which are in resort areas where traffic numbers are typically higher in summer, according to Jesse Campbell, managing director of the Alcona County Road Commission.

Originally scheduled to start July 31, reconstruction of a section of Cedar Lake Road in Greenbush Township has been changed to start on September 5. Likewise, a portion of Mt. Maria Road at the south shore of Hubbard Lake is slated to begin on September 5. The third project, which is on F-41, is scheduled for August 1.

According to Campbell, work on Cedar Lake Road from Thayer Road to Cedar Lake Drive on the west side of Cedar Lake will include clearing of the right of way, replacing culverts, crushing the existing surface, adding gravel, reshaping the road bed, and repaving, along with drainage improvements and road shoulder and ditch restoration. Team Elmer's is the primary contractor and work is expected to be complete by the end of October.

Mt. Maria Road from Hill Street to Hilltop Parkway in Hawes Township will see culvert replacement and crushing the existing surface, adding gravel, reshaping the road bed, repaving, and new signage. This work will be done by Bolen Asphalt Paving Inc. Campbell explained this project should be wrapped up by mid-October.

The work planned for F-41 will be on the section from just south of Goddard Road to Andrews Road in Mikado Township. On this project, the top of the existing surface will be milled off and an overlay of new asphalt will be added. The project will also include guardrail improvements and new signage. Bolen Asphalt will be the contractor on this job, as well, and should be complete by September 1.

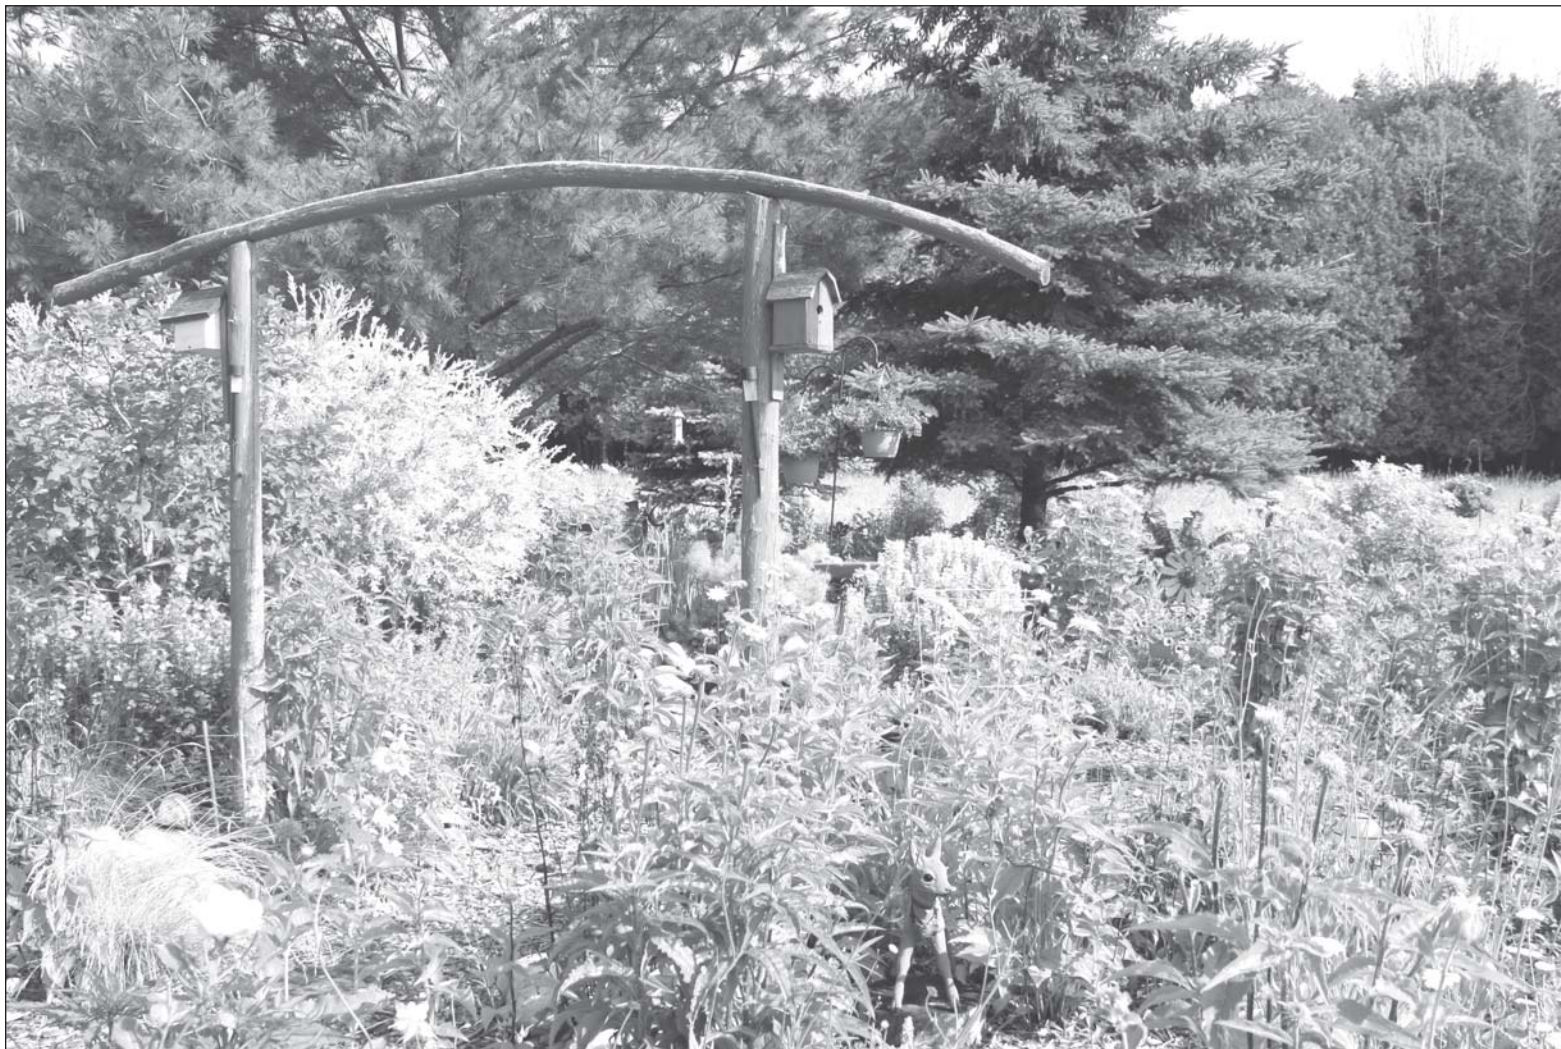

Campbell explained that these projects are continuations of previous projects and all are part two of three-part projects. "We would rather be able to do longer sections of road at a time, but the funding process and the availability of funds limit what we are able to do," Campbell said. "At least we are making progress on some sections of road that are in real need of improvement."

Campbell explained that Cedar Lake Road was last resurfaced in 1983; Mt. Maria Road in 1997; and F-41 in 1990.

The final section of Cedar Lake Road from Cedar Lake Drive to F-30 is on the docket for 2021. On Mt. Maria Road from Hilltop Parkway to Ann Street in 2018 and on F-41 to F-30 in 2018.

"None of these projects would be possible without contributions from the respective townships that supplement funding using voter-approved road millages," Campbell said. "We work closely with townships in setting road improvement priorities. A good road system benefits the entire county in one way or another, so we are always mindful of matching funding with projects that improve and keep the road network in Alcona County in the best condition possible."

Questions or concerns about these road projects, should be directed to the Alcona County Road Commission at 301 N. Lake Street, P.O. Box 40, Lincoln, Mich. 48742, by phone at (989) 736-8168 or by email at roads@alconacrc.com.

The annual Garden Walk, put on by the Sunrise Gardening Club, will be held Saturday. The theme for this year's event is "Country Gardens" and will feature six gardens throughout Alcona County. For the story and more photos, see pages 10 and 11. Photo by Mary Weber.

Symphony orchestra to perform in Lincoln

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

Combining the classical music of Dragonetti, Beethoven and Rossini with the backdrop of a sun setting behind a picturesque lake is sure to be a sensory delight.

It's exactly the experience the Alpena Symphony Orchestra (ASO) was looking for when planning its first outreach concert which will be held at the Lost Lake Woods Club on Saturday, July 29.

The 38-piece orchestra, conducted by Jim VanEizenga, will feature string bass soloist Kyle Pitcher who will perform "The Concerto for String Bass and Orchestra in G Major." The ASO will also be performing Beethoven's "Symphony No. 5 in C Minor" and the "Sinfonia" from Rossini's "The Barber of Seville."

MaryAnn Hubbard, an Alcona County resident and ASO principal flutist, explained that for a long time she had the desire to share the orchestra's music with her neighbors and friends of Alcona County. "The last time I was at a function at Lost Lake Woods, I thought of what a beautiful venue the clubhouse would be for a classical music concert. My colleagues on the ASO board were more than happy to consider it. We are anxious to expose a new audience to or performance of great music played well," she said.

Hubbard hopes the young people the area, especially those interested in playing a musical instrument, will be able to attend the performance. Students and children are admitted free of charge.

Hubbard, who is a former public-school music educator for both Alcona and Alpena, said one of her goals in teaching is to convince young musicians to continue playing music as an adult. "Almost everyone in our orchestra is employed, or has been employed in other areas, but carries the love of music and performance with them forever. Music is a discipline of the arts that speaks to all ages, cultures and interests,"

Hubbard said.

Cynthia Atkinson, cellist for the ASO, agreed with Hubbard and said the outreach was not only intended to spark interest in potential musicians and audience members, but will educate and entertain artists of all music levels.

"I believe having the ASO perform in Alcona County will provide the community with a wonderful opportunity to experience classical music. Geographical borders should not hinder anyone's access to different forms of art and by performing in a region outside of usual, we are reaching out to those who

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor,
My mother-in-law had two bouts with cancer, a disease that eventually took her life. But because my father-in-law's union worked diligently to negotiate better benefits for his family, they had adequate health insurance.

They did not go bankrupt, as many people with serious diseases have. And when my mother-in-law needed a $5,000-a-dose drug, our family didn't have to hold a spaghetti dinner to afford it.

But we all know there are bad insurance policies. We pay our premiums faithfully, only to find, when we need the coverage, our policy doesn't meet our needs.

Obamacare has a provision to fix this unconscionable problem. The 10 most important health concerns must be covered in each policy. One, maternity care, is often targeted as an example of something people should not be forced to buy. Men, especially, feel that way. But if only policies for women have to contain maternity care, employers that are required to provide insurance would just hire men to avoid having to pay for higher cost insurance.

And think about it — shouldn't we all want to invest in healthier children?

But since people cried "government over reach" the new Senate Trumpcare bill allows states to get a waiver to strip out the 10 mandatory coverages. And, if you work for a company that has plants in multiple states, they can pick which state's rules they want to follow.

People will be back to paying for insurance that doesn't cover their needs when they most need it. We will be back to trying to keep people alive by holding bake sales to cover their bills.

Obamacare does need some tweaks. But it took months to craft because it is a sound bill that moved us in the right direction.

have yet to engage in this beautiful art. It's a wonderful way to encourage the youth of Alcona (County) to broaden their horizons," Atkinson said.

Andrea Arbuckle, board member and artistic and publicity chairperson for the ASO and her husband, Jim, ASO treasurer, have been musicians with the orchestra since its inception in 2004.

Andrea, who began playing the piano as a young girl, said her parents encouraged her to move to the violin because playing the piano was a solitary experience and they wanted her to be involved socially with others. She has continued the love of music as an adult and has taught elementary music, instructed string classes, gives private lessons and accompanies many high school and church choirs in addition to her duties and performances with the ASO.

Jim, who graduated from Alpena High School over 60 years ago, said he had been playing the viola since he was in the fifth grade. He continued playing as an adult because music offered a happy respite to his work life as an account and chief financial officer for the Besser Company.

The Arbuckles common interest in music and playing with a symphony orchestra has given them much happiness throughout their married life. "I love playing an instrument and love being part of this organization. The sound we make when we are all playing together is special. It's one thing to listen to symphony music on radio, but to play it, and feel it, is entirely different. It's something we want to share. It's like climbing to a mountain top, it's something that bubbles up within us and we want to share that," Andrea said.

ASO conductor, VanEizenga, has a bachelor's degree in education from Western Michigan University (WMU) and is pursuing a master's degree in music from Michigan State University. In addition to conducting the ASO, VanEizenga conducts the Gaylord Community Orchestra and is the director for orchestras at Novi High String bass soloist Kyle Pitcher will perform with the Alpena Symphony Orchestra in Lincoln on July 29. He plays with a wide variety of ensembles in and around Michigan as both a double bassist and electric bassist. Courtesy photo.

School in Novi, Mich. and is the pit conductor for Gaylord Community Productions.

Bass soloist, Pitcher, is a recent graduate of WMU with a bachelor's degree in music education. Throughout his studies, Pitcher filled the role of principal double bass with the WMU Symphony Orchestra and has performed with Collegium Musicum, Gold Company II, The Western Winds and the WMU concert band. As a soloist, Pitcher was an honorable mention in the 2016 WMU Concerto Competition.

Pitcher performs a wide variety of ensembles in and around Michigan as both a double bassist and electric bassist. He is a member of the Kalamazoo based progressive Celtic band, Blarney Castle, as well as the Kalamazoo based rock band, Sonder Green. Pitcher is also part of many pit orchestras for musical theatre productions in the western Michigan area.

The concert is expected to be about an hour and a half long and begins at the Lost Lake Woods Clubhouse at 7 p.m. on July 29. Adult tickets are $10, students and children are free. Tickets can be purchased in advance at Neiman's Family Market in Alpena or before the concert at the clubhouse door. A reception will follow the concert. The clubhouse is located at 4243 N. Lost Lake Trail which is west off F-41. Follow Fox Road to the lake and turn left onto Lost Lake Trail.

The Alpena Symphony Orchestra is a non profit 501(c)(3) organization which provides three full concerts a year which includes strings, woodwind, brass and percussion instruments. It also presents three Serenade concerts per year held at various churches.

A branch of the ASO is the Alpena String School which is comprised of beginning and intermediate children, youth and adult musicians who also perform during some ASO concerts, serenade events and in recitals. For more information about the Alpena Symphony Orchestra visit its Facebook page or call Andrea Arbuckle at (989) 354-5139.

SENIOR LIFESTYLES

The hidden dangers of heartburn

Dear Savvy Senior,
Is regular heartburn or indigestion anything to worry about? My 60-year-old husband eats a lot of Tums or Roloids throughout the day to help him manage it, but it keeps him up at night too. What can you tell us?

Inquiring Spouse

Dear Inquiring,

Almost everyone experiences heartburn or acid indigestion from time to time, but frequent episodes can signal a much more serious problem. Here's what you should know, along with some tips and treatments to help relieve your husband's symptoms.

It's estimated that more than 60 million Americans experience heartburn at least once a month, with around 15 million people who suffer from it daily. If your husband is plagued by heartburn two or more times a week, and it's not responding well to over-the-counter antacids, he needs to see a doctor. Frequent bouts may mean he has gastroesophageal reflux disease (GERD), which can severely irritate and damage the lining of his esophagus, putting him at risk of Barrett's esophagus and esophageal cancer if it's not treated.

Depending on the frequency and severity of his heartburn, there are a number of lifestyle adjustments he can make that can help provide relief and avoid a more serious problem down the road. Consider these tips:

- Avoid problem foods: Certain foods can trigger heartburn symptoms like citrus fruits, tomatoes, fatty foods, chocolate, garlic, onions, spicy foods, mints, alcohol, coffee and sodas. Your husband should keep a food diary to track which foods cause him the most problems and avoid them.

- Eat smaller, slower and earlier: Smaller portions at mealtime and eating slower can help reduce heartburn symptoms. He should also wait at least three hours after eating before lying down or going to bed.

- Lose weight: Having excess weight around the mid-section puts pressure on the abdomen, pushing up the stomach and causing acid to back up into the esophagus.

- Quit smoking: Smoking can increase stomach acid and weaken the valve that prevents acid from entering the esophagus. If your husband smokes, the National Cancer Institute offers a number of smoking cessation resources at SmokeFree.gov or call (800)QUIT-NOW.

- Sleep elevated: To help keep the acid down while sleeping, get your husband a wedge-shaped pillow to prop him up a few inches. If that's not enough, try elevating the head of his bed six to eight inches by placing blocks under the bed posts or insert a wedge between his mattress and box spring. Wedges are available at drugstores and medical supply stores. Sleeping on his left side may also help keep the acid down.

Savvy Senior

If the lifestyle adjustments don't solve the problem, or if antacids (Tums, Roloids, Maalox, Mylanta or Alka-Seltzer) aren't doing the trick there are a variety of over-the-counter and prescription medications that can help, along with surgery. His doctor can help him determine which one is best for him. Treatment options include:

- H-2 Blockers: Available as both over-the-counter and prescription strength, these drugs (Pepcid, Tagamet, Axid and Zantac) reduce how much acid your stomach makes but may not be strong enough for serious symptoms.

- Proton-Pump Inhibitors (PPI): If you have frequent and severe heartburn symptoms, PPIs are long-acting prescription medications that block acid production and allow time for damaged esophageal tissue to heal. They include Nexium, Prilosec, Zegerid, Protonix, Aciphex and Dexilant. Prevacid 24 HR, Prilosec and Zegerid OTC are also available over-the-counter. But be aware that long-term use of PPIs can increase your risk for osteoporosis and chronic kidney disease.

Country gardens on display Saturday

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

The art of gardening can become a passion like no other. It can be a lot of back breaking, knee bending, hot, wet, heavy work. It can be a constant source of frustration to many, as weather and an array of plant enemies, such as slugs, bugs, deer, rabbits, and even, viruses can wipe out a garden practically overnight.

A northern Michigan gardener has a short season to work with and must be creative and diligent to ward off disasters. The most successful gardeners all seem to have one thing in common -- a good sense of humor. As most will say it's important to be able to laugh off mistakes and mishaps and let their inner child play to make the most of any situation.

That's why the Sunrise

Gardening Club's 14th annual Garden Walk should be on the agenda for anyone who has ever attempted to plant a seed, tended a garden, or enjoys looking at the beauty and splendor of what can become of a creative gardener's enthusiasm and hard work.

of serene ponds and quaint outbuildings or expansive sunny views of the countryside with farmland bordering as far as the eye can see.

Small bridges to nowhere take viewers on a journey through whimsy and what-nots, that allow a glimpse into each gardener's sense of Country gardens are ripe with color, texture and creativity. All sorts of things can be found in the six gardens on display Saturday. Photos by Mary Weber.

Guest Speaker - Dr. Lloyd Streeter

Family Heritage Baptist Church

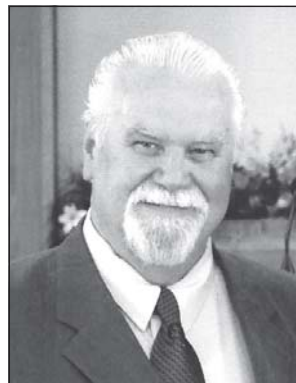

4260 M-72 Harrisville

Sunday, July 23rd at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

The public is invited to attend these lectures

Refreshments served after the 6 p.m. lecture

Pastor Lloyd Streeter will be speaking about the attributes of God. What does it mean to us that God exists as an eternal Person who is entirely spiritual? Streeter will address that question in his lectures.

humor or wonderment. One gardener has named her garden beds with monikers such as Toombstone Garden, Bush Garden, North Garden and Boot Hill and has created many of her own eclectic "horseshoe" people and animals which act as sentinels to guard her gardens day and night.

Another garden explores a young farming family's talent and determination with a new landscape. Mentored by a Master Gardener, this gardener has her hands full with a young family to take care of. Easy to care for plants have been introduced this year close to her home's wrap around porch to offer visual interest with little maintenance.

Two centennial gardens which began in the 1880s offer ticket holders a visual tour with the gardener's homes and outbuildings taking center stage. One offers a quaint herb garden, unique trees, colorful window boxes and enviable hardscaping, the other, a picture-perfect country porch, a working hoop house which provides early fresh vegetables this gardener sells at the farm market, and a wooden swing bordered heavily with the frilly edges of Lady's Mantle which provides a quiet spot to watch sunsets.

A lush shade garden of mature trees offers a relaxing setting for a moment of refreshment and to listen to bird songs among the tree branches or watch butterflies and honey bees gather their nectar from one flower to the next. Glass bubbles, wind spinners and statues brighten the shady beds and offer additional color and movement.

Each ticket holder will receive descriptive booklet explaining the six gardens along with a map to reach each destination. Every garden will have a member, or two, of the Sunrise Gardening Club on hand to answer questions and offer direction to enjoy the garden to its fullest. Many of the gardeners will also be on hand to explain their successes and overall gardening plan.

Garden Walk advanced tickets are available at Coming Attractions and the Craftmakers' Cabin in Harrisville or by calling (248) 505-8617. Tickets on the day of the walk will only be sold at the Craftmakers' Cabin, on the corner of US-23 just south of M-72, from 9 a.m. to noon. A lunch special will be available at the Backwoods Bistro in Lincoln on the day of the walk.

The Sunrise Gardening Club meets on the fourth Tuesday of each month at 1 p.m. at the Harrisville branch of the Alcona County Library from April through October. The club is a non profit organization with all monies received to benefit the Alcona community.

Planting and maintenance of current ongoing projects by the Sunrise Gardening Club include the Harrisville Beautification Project, Harrisville Harbor trailhead garden, Harrisville Library garden, park improvement donations to Friends of Negwegon State Park, Alcona County Extension office landscaping, Alcona Senior Center garden donation, Alcona Elementary School butterfly garden donation, gardening books and magazine subscriptions to Alcona County Library, Alcona FFA program funding and the welcome sign north of Harrisville. Editorial

July 19, 1917 ~ In the passing of Mrs. D. E. Storms from our midst last Saturday morning the community has suffered a distinct loss which it keenly realizes and universally mourns.

She has for so long been a leader in all social and also religious life of the community that perhaps no other person would be so much missed.

She was a person of strong personality and qualifications for leadership in all public enterprises, she gave herself unreservedly to any cause in which she was interested. She made the very best out of life, but it was because she put her best into life; she was not only benefitted thereby but many others also were benefitted by her expenditure of life's forces. In her religious life she was as practical as in her temporal life.

Her convictions were deep and strong, her faith was steadfast and abiding, her religion was something that should be put into and worked out in her every day occupation, as much a part of her being as life itself. Doubts and fears did not assail or torment her. She accepted the teachings of Jesus Christ without question. She had a supreme trust in her God and met death just as she met every duty that came to her, without complaint.

Corporal Benj. Dewar was at Vera Cruz

July 19, 1917 ~ Corporal Benj. Dewar, Co. H. 81st Mich. Inf., was calling on old friends here last week. He saw service on the Mexican border during the late unpleasantness and his company is now at the Detroit Armory awaiting call to federal service. Ben has seen considerable service since leaving Harrisville seven years ago. He first enlisted and served four years in the Marine Corps and was in the taking of Vera Cruz at the beginning of Uncle Sam's trouble with Mexico.

Mrs. O. E. Storms passed away

Had Lived in Harrisville Nearly Forty Years.—Was Prominent.

July 19, 1917 ~ Mrs. David E. Storms passed away Saturday morning at 5:00 o'clock at her home in Harrisville, following an illness of long duration. She had been in failing health and ten days before her death was taken with an attack of pleurisy and congestion of the lungs.

In her weakened state she was unable to combat the diseases. The funeral was held Monday afternoon from the Presbyterian church, being conducted by Rev. C. M. Boyce, assisted by Rev. F. A. Andrews. Burial took place in the Storms family lot in the West cemetery.

Marion O. Colwell was born in Southport, N. Y., on Jan. 2, 1850. She was educated in an eastern college and in 1878 came to Harrisville. From the first she took an active interest in the social and educational welfare of the community and for four years had charge of the primary grades of the public school. On Jan. 17, 1883, she was married to David E. Storms and they resided here continuously thereafter.

Mrs. Storms was an accomplished musician and a leader in society here for many years. She was Past Matron of Lake Huron Chapter, O. E. S., and an active worker in the church, being organist of the Presbyterian society from the time it was organized until death claimed her. She maintained her interest in public matters to the last.

She is survived by one son, Benj. E. Storms of Detroit, one brother and two sisters—Geo. W. Colwell and Mrs. Carrie Mitchell of Harrisville and Mrs. A. B. Valentine of Englewood, N.J.

StarWatch By Gary Becker - Ripples in Time

SUSAN: In soft summer evenings of long ago, pale twilight deepens as the streetlights bloom with yellow halos. The heat of the day dissipates, and on one such occasion, the neighborhood kids get a chance to see far beyond the lights of their city to an alien world. Behind the sleepy street where lights in houses shine warmly, a man sets up a telescope. He was an anomaly. No one I knew had a telescope much less looked through one, but there he was in the alley with this scope. What was singular was that he allowed us all to have a peek. To me that was exciting to see a planet, Saturn no less, and it wasn't in a book or on TV. It was like a tiny detailed toy hanging by an invisible string in the blackness of space. From this urban locale, it was difficult to see anything noteworthy, but with his expertise, he had found Saturn to the delight of us all. Sometimes small events can cause ripples, and as such, they can carry their motions and effects forward, long after their creation has passed. I found myself getting interested in astronomy which led me to tell a high school friend who was also involved in sky watching, about my experience much later. That led to our going to a local astronomy club, the Lehigh Valley Amateur Astronomical Society, where I heard another student speak on meteor showers and how to observe them. Years later at the same club, I saw the same person, now a man, giving a lecture on the moon. I ended up marrying him nearly four years later. So that anonymous neighborhood man began something in my life that influenced it ever after, in a sense like a ripple in time seeking its shore. GARY: I remember that night well, in July of 1969 a skinny, rising sophomore at Kutztown University, interested in becoming an educator, director of the junior contingency of LVAAS, giving his first formal presentation to senior members of the club. I was dressed in a coat and tie nervous, but the talk went well, and afterwards a group of individuals gathered around me to ask more questions. My future wife was in that small audience. Years later, when I arrived for my presentation on the moon, unknowingly, she was the woman that I chose to sit behind before being introduced to speak, and she was also in the small group of people that gathered to query me afterwards. In a very serendipitous way, our ripples in time connected and amplified on that evening of October 3, 1978, and nearly four decades later, now married to my Susan for 35 years, I can honestly say that it was the best moment of my life. www.astronomy.org

Strange But True

By Samantha Weaver

• It was best-selling author and aviation pioneer Amelia Earhart -- the first female pilot to fly solo across the Atlantic Ocean -- who made the following sage observation: "The most difficult thing is the decision to act, the rest is merely tenacity. The fears are paper tigers."

• The elephant is the only animal that can be trained to stand on its head (other than humans, of course).

• Historians of ancient Rome say that a three-man crew was required to handle a war chariot: The rein handler was responsible for managing the horses, and the shooter focused on launching arrows at the enemy. The straphanger, who stayed at the back of the chariot, had the unenviable task of making sure the other two crew members didn't fall out as the chariot bounced over bodies.

• Those who study such things say that your blood is filtered through your kidneys approximately 20 times every hour.

• You surely know what a boycott is -- a method of protest entailing the refusal to buy a product or deal with a person or organization. You might not know, however, where we got the word. Here's the story: In 19th-century Ireland, there was an English land agent named Charles C. Boycott. During a time when crops were failing -- depriving many farmers of income as well as food -- he refused their pleas to lower rents. In retribution, he was ostracized, with many people refusing to do business or even socialize with him.

• Statisticians say that women who marry younger men tend to live longer.

Thought for the Day: "A man who is 'ill-adjusted' to the world is always on the verge of finding himself. One who is adjusted to the world never finds himself, but gets to be a cabinet minister." -- Hermann Hesse

The fireworks were spectacular! A very special thank you to Mary Lou Webb for another successful Children's Parade. The antiques weekend, under the tent at the harbor, was also successful.

REAL ESTATE GUIDE

Consider simple home eco-improvements for easy savings

(MS) By Scott McGillivray

Did you know that being environmentally conscious is also an easy way to put money in your pocket?

You can significantly reduce your carbon footprint and energy consumption if you have an efficient home and use cleaner products. Consider a few, simple eco-improvements to reduce energy consumption and increase savings on your monthly energy bill.

Insulation: If your house is older, chances are the insulation doesn't meet new code requirements. An improperly insulated attic is a primary source of energy loss and results in your furnace and air conditioning units working harder than necessary. By topping up the existing attic insulation you can significantly reduce energy loss. A popular product for this DIY project is Roxul ComfortBatt insulation. It is easy to install over existing attic insulation and can easily be cut to fit with a serrated blade or bread knife.

House appliances: Replacing your furnace, hot water tank and air conditioning unit with high-efficiency models is also a good way to lower your home's energy consumption.

Windows: It's usually obvious when it's time for new windows. Replacing worn and drafty windows can also improve the comfort and overall look of your home. If you want to reap the greatest energy savings, request a custom brick-to-brick installation, because inserts can leave gaps, especially if placed in the old, inefficient jamb.

Landscape your home for energy efficiency. Plant a few tall, deciduous trees near your home to significantly reduce the amount of solar energy passing through windows and beating down on your roof. In fact, the right amount of shade in the right places can reduce cooling bills by 10 to 50 percent.

The quick eco-list: Here are a few low-cost DIY projects you can tackle easily for greater energy savings:

- Caulk around windows
- Add weather stripping to doors
- Install low-flow shower heads
- Put aerators on faucets
- Switch to energy-efficient LED or CFL bulbs
- Change your furnace filter
- Set up a programmable thermostat.
