Firework bracelets support proposed Hubbard Lake community center

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

The Hubbard Lake Community Association is nearing its tenth year of trying to raise funds for a new community center/library, a project which it estimates will cost nearly half a million dollars. The group has raised close to $150,000 and, although the goal is a long way off, they are not giving up the fight.

To raise much needed funds and awareness to the cause, glow in the dark bracelets are being sold for $5. The fundraiser began as a way people could donate to the Fourth of July fireworks show which an individual family puts on each year at the lake.

"The owners of the Hardwoods rekindled a firework show their father used to put on each year. The show lasts about a half hour and can be seen from anywhere around the lake," said Jeff Johnston, president of the Hubbard Lake Community Association (HLCA).

The fireworks show will begin at dark on Sunday, July 2 with a rain date of July 3.

According to Johnston, the Butler/Vanerlinden family, owners of The Hardwoods, an expansive area of Hubbard Lakefront property, put on the fireworks show.

"Lots of people reached out to them to say the fireworks were great and wanted to contribute to help support their continuance. They are a very private family and wanted nothing in return, but have graciously suggested if people enjoy the fireworks they consider making a monetary gift to the HLCA library building fund. They felt if the community association could benefit from the fireworks, then they would like to see that happen," Johnston said.

The proposed community center/library would be about a 5,000-square foot facility with the library on one side of the building and the community center on the other. This would double the square footage of the current community center building.

The building was originally used by the Hubbard Lake Fire Department and was adapted into a community center many years ago. According to Johnston, the building is in disrepair and lacks sufficient handicap restroom facilities and other amenities which would make it an attractive place for families to hold functions.

The space planned for the library would double the current Caledonia Library, a branch of the Alcona County Library system. Johnston explained it would provide a computer lab with access to wireless Internet and other resources, tutorial rooms, and a children's reading/play area. It would provide a comfortable place to read, study

Young photographer shines despite vision challenges

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

For an 11-year-old Spruce girl, viewing Alcona County life through the lens of a camera is a natural everyday occurrence, even though she has dealt with vision challenges throughout her life.

Liberty Kimball, an Alcona Elementary student, began wearing glasses when she was three years old. Her mother, Bessie Schlehr, said she is nearly blind in her left eye, is far sighted and has astigmatism.

However, being visually challenged hasn't slowed Liberty down one bit. According to her family, including her grandma, Cyndi Apsey, nothing holds her back from enjoying life.

Recently, Liberty had the pleasure of uncovering a large photo she took of her Clydesdale horse, Trout, which was made into a vinyl cling and put on the window of a vacant storefront in Spruce. The window clings were the idea of the Loyal Ladies, a small band of women trying to make blighted rural areas around Alcona County more appealing. Cyndi and Bessie are members and Liberty is a junior member.

It was Cyndi who first introduced her granddaughter to photography and noticed her talent. "I was finding pictures that she took with my camera of me. I don't usually like pictures of myself, but these were good. They were candid shots of me doing what I enjoy doing around the farm. She's very good at capturing the right moment," Cyndi said.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor,
The Soloing Singles Club had its annual Father's Day picnic at Spencer Park in Greenbush. With the weather being so iffy we didn't know what to expect or what we'd find. To our delight the park was absolutely pristine.

The Soloing club wants to thank Greenbush Township for providing such a large and well maintained park. If you haven't been there lately go visit Spencer Park in Greenbush, it's on Ridley Road just west of the railroad tracks. A great place for reunions, family gatherings, or group picnics. Thank you Greenbush.

Barb Taylor, President
Soloing Singles Club

State track meet gives athletes experience

The Alcona varsity track team was represented at the state meet in Grand Rapids, Mich. on June 3 by three athletes.

Brooke Schultz, Rose Schofper and John Sharboneau qualified for the meet, which was held at the Houseman Sports Complex, by placing as the top two athletes in their event, or by finishing with an additional qualified time, height or distance, according to head Coach Larry Spare.

Spare, assistant coach Brianna Griffiths, Schultz, Schofper and Sharboneau (and family members as well) traveled to the meet the day before the event to ensure they were well rested before the big day.

Schultz, who was a senior, finished 11th out of 29 pole vaulters with a height of eight feet, nine inches. According to Spare, there was a four-way tie for seventh place with the same height, but Schultz had one more miss than the other athletes in seventh place. Otherwise, she would have made all-state honors.

Schofper, a freshman, did not make opening height in pole vault; if she had, it would have been a personal best for the season. "Rose's attendance this year will only make her a better athlete next year in this event," Spare said.

Sharboneau, a sophomore, faced experienced competition in discus. According to Spare, out of 26 throwers who qualified for the state meet, there was one freshman, two sophomores, four juniors and 19 seniors. The top eight finishers were all seniors. The best throw of the day was 169 feet, 10 inches. "John's best for the day was 122 feet, one inch, and placed him at 23. His attendance at this meet has opened his eyes and given him the hunger to return and to better himself in this event," Spare said.

How to fight dry eyes and protect your vision

Dear Savvy Senior
What all can be done to combat dry eyes? Since I turned 50, my eyes have become increasingly dry and irritated.

Constantly Blinking

Dear Constantly,
Dry eyes is a common problem that affects more than one-third of middle-aged and older Americans. But you don't have to just put up with it. There are lifestyle adjustments and multiple treatment options available today to keep your eyes moist and healthy.

Dry, red, irritated eyes are one of the most common reasons for visits to the eye doctor, but discomfort isn't the only problem of dry eyes. Light sensitivity and blurred or fluctuating vision are common problems too, and worse yet, dry eyes are more likely to get scratched or infected, which could damage your vision permanently.

The reason people get dry eyes are because they either don't produce enough tears to keep their eyes properly lubricated, or because they produce poor quality tears.

In some cases dry eyes can be triggered by medical conditions such as diabetes, thyroid diseases, allergies, rheumatoid arthritis, lupus and Sjogren's syndrome. It can also be brought on by age (tear production tends to diminish as we get older), eye conditions, eyelid problems, certain medications, environmental factors and even LASIK and cataract surgery. Dry eyes are also more common in women, especially after menopause.

The first step experts recommend in dealing with dry eyes is to check your lifestyle and surroundings for factors that might be contributing to the problem and make adjustments:

- Avoid blowing air: Keep your eyes away from air vents, hair dryers, oscillating and ceiling fans and consider buying a home humidifier.
- Blink more: When you're reading, watching television, or using a smartphone, tablet or computer, take frequent breaks because these activities cause you blink less often.

- Avoid irritants: Avoid smoke-filled places and if you swim, wear goggles to cut down exposure to chemicals.
- Use protection outside:

When you go outdoors, use sunglasses that wrap around the sides of your face to protect yourself from sun, glare, wind, and dust.

• Check your meds: Dozens of prescription and over-the-counter (OTC) drugs like antihistamines, decongestants, diuretics, beta-blockers, antidepressants, tranquilizers, and Parkinson's medications can all cause dry eyes. If you're taking any of these, ask your doctor about alternatives.

- Get more omega-3s: Studies show that eating more fish and other foods rich in omega-3 fatty acids (or take a supplement) helps some people.

Savvy Senior

If adjusting your environment and habits doesn't do the trick, there are a variety of OTC artificial tears that can help. If you experience a lot of burning, try another product or opt for a preservative-free formula. If your dry-eye is persistent, use gel-containing drops like Refresh, Systane and GenTeal. The gel will keep your eyes lubricated for longer periods. If you need a product that's even longer lasting, consider OTC lubricating ointments like Refresh PM.

If the lifestyle and OTC treatments don't help, see an ophthalmologist. He or she can offer additional advice and may prescribe a medication. There are several FDA approved medications for dry eye including Xiidra and Restasis, and one in development called Lacriprep.

If your dry eye is severe and does not improve, your doctor might recommend a simple office procedure that plugs the small openings (tear ducts) that drain tears away from the eyes. Blocking these openings with punctal plugs keeps tears in place longer.

and relax, while helping students in the area and others that need tutorial help. "We want activities there for the kids. The Harrisville library is a magnificent facility, it's beautiful and has a lot of programs going on there. We would like this library to be a mini-version of what Harrisville is. The library doesn't want to own the building, they only want to rent, so we would provide them with a long-term rental agreement," Johnston said.

He explained the community center would benefit by having the library there to split utility costs which would include air conditioning.

According to Johnston, the new community building would be, at the least, audio visually prepared to keep current with what the public wants in such a facility. "Audio visual is a big thing; many parties and events require it. We want a facility we could offer to the public on a rental basis for family gatherings, reunions, baby showers, Christmas parties, funerals, wedding receptions or rehearsal dinners. We'd like to offer a setting which is inviting, clean and comfortable," he said.

At this time, the community center is used in the fall and winter for an exercise/workout class and is occasionally rented for birthday parties, but since bingo is no longer lucrative and had been discontinued, the building relatively goes unused, Johnston explained.

The parking lot is used during the spring and summer months for a farmer's market. The Internet is available at the community center and it's common to see four or five cars parked outside the center as folks are accessing the Internet year-round.

Johnston was recently was approached by a yoga and a dance instructor interested in using the community center to give lessons, "We are this would be to our community. It's hard to reach out to them. They come for a weekend and they are focused on their family and summertime enjoyment and I don't know if they pick up what's really going on around the lake. We put up posters and stuff, but it's tough to get the word out to everyone," Johnston said.

An annual golf outing sponsored by the HLCA raises $5,000 to $8,000 a year. It will be held on August 13 at White Pine National. Another fundraiser the group has had in the past, and hope constantly trying to find new and creative uses for the building. Having a community center and not having it used is not very functional. It's like building a resume in that the more activity you can put in the building the easier it is to justify, whether for grants or whatever," Johnston said.

The HLCA has applied for grants for the building, but Johnston said it was difficult to find them. He explained the group wants to raise the necessary funds prior to building. The HLCA does not want to ask for a millage of any type because it would be a privately-owned building. They also don't want a mortgage on the property because they are unsure if they would be able to make a monthly payment.

He explained one of the difficulties in obtaining local funds is trying to reach the seasonal residents around the lake. "I don't know if they understand what we are trying to do. What a great asset to have again, is a dock raffle which has been donated by Hickory Dickory Docks, owned by Dennis and Sue Richardson.

The bracelets and addressed donation envelopes are available at Q & C Marathon Gas Station and other places in and around Hubbard Lake.

All funds are being collected by the Community Foundation for Northeast Michigan (CFNEM). Johnston said they were chosen because they can collect the funds, either in cash, check, credit card or pledge or by cash equivalent donations such as real estate or stocks which they can liquefy, keep them separate, accounted for, and anonymous, if requested.

For more information, call (989) 354-6881, visit the CFNEM.org web site or mail to P.O. Box 495, Alpena, MI 49707. The Hubbard Lake Community Association has a Facebook page and can be contacted by email at: hubbardlake_coma@yahoo.com.

Blue Water Ramblers

The members of the Blue Water Ramblers have been delighting audiences throughout Michigan and the Midwest for over 30 years. Banjo-Jim Foerch picked up his first banjo in 1965 and hasn't put it down since. He says singing the songs of Michigan, America and our lives to all the people they meet on tour is the best thing he's ever done.

Bear Berends holds down the rhythm with his big, black six and twelve string guitars. “I wanted to sing with Banjo-Jim, so I learned all his songs and taught him mine and here we are,” he explains. Whether delivering the lead line or harmonizing with his solid baritone, bear sculpts the Blue Water Ramblers' sound.

Tom DeVries sparks up the bright tunes with his sizzling mandolin and creates the rich, full harmonies on the ballads he leads from his guitar. Like Bear and Banjo-Jim, Tom has been entertaining all over the Midwest since his early twenties. “There's nothing I'd rather do than find a good song, work it up with the boys and deliver it to an enthusiastic audience,” says Tom.

The Blue Water Ramblers' repertoire comes right out of their Michigan life experiences and the history of the Great Lakes region. It includes lake shanties, lumberman ballads, union rallying cries, farmers' paeans, Michigan humor, 1960s civil rights and protest music, love songs, gospel music and children's ditties. Everyone agrees that these combine into a versatile repertoire to the delight and entertainment of their audiences. “I think my hero, Woody Guthrie, would approve,” opined Banjo-Jim. “We're singing the people's songs about the people's lives and they can join right in and sing along.”

Boogie 2 Shooz

Boogie 2 Shooz comprises two singer-songwriter multi-instrumentalists, Patti-Jean Cousens and Pamela Jenkins.

Pam and Patti-Jean first performed together in 1987 in Fort Lauderdale, Florida while helping to organize a fundraiser for AIDS. This work led to the formation of Boogie 2 Shooz and a commitment to foster the work of women in music, while serving audiences with great sounds, energy and loads of fun.

Two unique and expressive vocal styles combine to bring torch ballads, soulful and fiery renditions of the blues, funk-flavored R & B, lush jazz, and spirited Latin to every performance of saxophones, flute, percussion, keyboards and digital music technology. Boogie 2 Shooz presents a visually and musically exciting performance, supported by a full and colorful sound.

Boogie 2 Shooz's extensive touring experiences, from festivals and cruise ships to hometown lounges and concert venues, have given them the ability to deliver diversity and insight to every show. Additionally, experience and an extensive repertoire allows them to reach a wide spectrum of musical tastes, and touch all ages. The audience can “kick back” and enjoy the show or “kick out” and boogie!

Ruby & the Retros

Ruby & the Retros are a northern Michigan band whose individual members have played around Michigan and other parts of the country for more years than they want to admit. They have played in too many northern Michigan bands to mention.

The band consists of:

Ruby John – Ruby is by far the youngest member of the band but already has an impressive resume and following as one of the hottest fiddlers in Michigan. Ruby plays a wide variety of vintage country genres including a Native American/French Canadian/Celtic/Irish style of fiddle called Metis. In the Retros, Ruby plays fiddle and sings lead and harmony vocals.

John Warstler – John has played as a solo act and as a band member in about a bazillion old time country bands around northern Michigan. In the Retros, John plays rhythm guitar, clawhammer banjo, mandolin, and sings lead and harmony vocals.

Ann Whitford – Ann has fronted many bands over the years as a lead vocalist and backed these bands up as the upright bass player. In the Retros, she plays hound-dog bass and sings lead vocals and harmonies.

Eldon Whitford – Has played in more Michigan bands than you can shake a stick at. In the Retros, he plays lead guitar, mandolin, Dobro, and sings lead and harmony vocals.

The Retros & Ruby John play the old styles that are now referred to as Old Time or Mountain Music, Celtic/Irish or fiddle tunes, honky tonk or classic country, bluegrass and western swing.

Donny Hartman Band

Donny Hartman is one of the original Michigan Madmen. During the states' rock and roll heyday in the 60s and 70s, Donny was blazing the guitar hero trail with Dick Wagoner and "The Frost". The Frost was one of, in not the most popular and visible groups in the Midwest, playing every major festival and venue including the famous Fillmore West, the Fillmore East, the Masonic Temple, the Grand Ballroom, Madison Square Garden, Cobo Hall, and many other large venues too numerous to mention. One of the founding members of The Frost, Donny's powerful vocals, showmanship and awesome guitar playing garnered him accolades, fame and guitar hero worship by every wannabe boy, and every blossoming girl in the rock-n-roll world. One of rock's early sex symbols, Donny has influenced the music industry for decades and continues to do so 365 days a year with "The Donny Hartman Band." Donny Hartman and Dick Wagoner still perform together on dates billed as "The Frost Reunion." The Donny Hartman Band performs the roots of rock-n-roll, blues, and soul in a style all their own. If you only see one concert this year, don't miss Donny Hartman, he will show you the reason why he was inducted into the Detroit Rock-N-Roll Hall of Fame.

The Oxymorons Band

of Acupuncture and Chiropractic Medicine in private practice at MSU's Olin Health Center. A time he is playing drums with an elementary school for over 30 years. In groups and as a solo artist. With an acoustic guitar, Jeff also plays guitar bands as lead singer since junior high school and bass and possesses a great voice for all when he's in front of a mic. He plays guitar and vocals. He is a long time member of the band, they have a vast history of eclectic collection of nostalgic rock, blues, folk, Beatles, Lovin' Spoonful, The Guess Who, Jimi Hendrix, Allman Brothers, Jimmy Buffet, Petty, Steppenwolf, Temptations, Stacey Hall, AAACU Tiger Branch supervisor, congratulated the members of the class of 2017 on their hard work over the years and spoke to students about the importance of preparing themselves financially before heading off to school, joining the military, or starting in the workforce.

George L. Colwell passed away

Former Alcona County Lumberman was 90 Years of Age

June 28, 1917 ~ The following is taken from the Portland (Oreg.) Oregonian of June 17:

"George L. Colwell, pioneer lumberman, born in New York in 1827, died Friday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. M. L. Gram, 401 Twelfth Street, after a lingering illness. The funeral will be held from the Finley chapel Monday, June 18, at 2:30 p. m.

Mr. Colwell was for many years, prior to his retirement one of the best known figures in the lumbering business of Washington and Oregon, he had extensive interests in Ilwaco, Wash., at the mouth of the Columbia. Mr. Colwell was a Mason since 1852. Besides his daughter, he is survived by two grandchildren, Mrs. F. H. Morris and Mrs. W. L. Kirkpatrick, and two great-grandchildren, all of Pomona, Cal."

Geo. L. Colwell was a prominent figure in Alcona

County back in the early days, being a member of the lumbering firm of Weston, Colwell & Co., which in 1866 bought out the Harris Bros. He remained an active partner in this firm until its dissolution in 1875, when they sold their large pine interests back of Harrisville to R. A. Alger & Co. The firm of Colwell Bros. & Co. was organized shortly after this and did an extensive lumbering business. The mercantile firm of Colwell, McGregor & Co. came into existence about this time, also, and with all of these Mr. Geo. L. Colwell was prominently connected. In 1876 he bought the mill site and rebuilt the mill which has been destroyed in 1873, and manufactured the lumber for the firm. He also engaged extensively in lake transportation, owning and operating two lines of steam barges doing a general freighting business. Mr. Colwell retained his interest here until in 1888, when the saw mill burned and the decreasing supply of timber did not warrant its rebuilding. Soon after this he became interested in the west and moved there to engage in lumbering.

Mr. Colwell was married on May 18, 1847, to Margaret A. Weldon, who passed away many years ago.

WM. R.

Cumming

Pioneer Citizen

Succumbs to Ravages of Age and Disease

June 28, 1917 ~ William R. Cumming, an old and respected citizen of Harrisville Township, passed away Saturday morning at his farm home after an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Cumming was born May 6, 1838, in Ganada and came to Alcona County 46 years ago. Very soon after coming here he settled on the farm where he died and resided there continuously thereafter. The story of his life differs only in minor details from that of scores of other old pioneers who started in the wilderness to make a home for self and family, and his demise removes one more of those citizens whose true worth and value to this community will perhaps never be fully known or appreciated.

Mr. Cumming is survived by his widow, two sons and a daughter. The latter are Wm. H. of Alberta, George R. and Miss Jennie, at home.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday morning at 10:30 at the home, by the Rev. G. M. Byce, and burial took place in the family lot at South Harrisville.

Spruce "murder mystery" a mystery no longer

June 28, 1917 ~ Prosecutor Dehnke has received word from the Hillsdale County officials that they have interviewed "Mrs. Jay Sanger," the Spruce woman who was under suspicion because of the mysterious disappearance of her "husband" some time ago.

It was learned that "Mrs. Sanger" is "Mrs. Breeze," that she is not unknown to the Hillsdale officials, that she is not married to Sanger, and that she had a letter in her possession indicating that Sanger is in Milwaukee.

Prosecutor Dehnke will correspond with the Milwaukee police.

StarWatch By Gary Becker - Learning to Love the Moon

I used to hate the moon. It was the ultimate star destroyer for deep sky objects like nebulae and galaxies, and especially for meteor observing, causing an ultra-clear night in the country to look more like a sky lit by a large metropolitan area. And then one day, when I was older, probably in my forties, I decided to examine the moon more closely through a telescope. I discovered a wondrous landscape that I'll spend some time discussing next week. I also enjoy watching its rapid motion across the sky from night to night. Luna travels about 26 of its diameters each day (13 degrees), catching up to and passing bright stars and planets along its celestial path. All this happens during a period of a little less than a month, 27.3 days, the orbital period of Luna around the Earth. This week, the moon treks towards brilliant Jupiter, just to its right by five degrees on Friday and eight degrees to Jupiter's left on Saturday, July 1. Then slogging eastward, Luna heads towards Saturn during the next three days, approaching the Harvest God by July 5. The following evening, the 96 percent lit moon passes over Saturn by less than three degrees low in the SE. On July 9 just after midnight, the full moon lights up rural landscapes bright enough to perceive colors and hike trails exposed to the sky without flashlights as I have done numerous times during vacations in the Southwest. In national parks like Bryce Canyon, moonlit hiking is encouraged by the Park staff. I volunteered at Bryce for two years and was given the assignment of imaging its hoodoo-faced landscape by moonlight. That was a wonderful experience with Luna following me everywhere that I went as my trail companion. I have also enjoyed observing the moon in a more subdued form when it is a thin crescent and embraced in earthshine, the old moon in the arms of the new. Earthshine is caused by the reflected sunlight of our planet mirroring from the portions of the moon that are not sunlit. You can only catch earthshine when the moon is a thin crescent as the light of the old day fades into deep darkness. Tonight, and Monday evenings, June 25/26 are this month's opportunities. Binoculars will help reveal more distinctly this ghostly sight. Finally, do not forget the opportunity of seeing a new moon when it hides the sun on August 21. Eclipse glasses are available from Lou Ann Vlahovic (610-861-1425) in Collier for a buck apiece or purchase them from <https://www.rainbowsymphony.com/eclipse-glasses/>. Clear skies and good observing to all! www.astronomy.org

 - On July 12, 1957, Dwight Eisenhower becomes the first president to ride in a helicopter. Although helicopters had been tested since 1947, it was not until 10 years later that a president considered using the new machine for short, official trips to and from the White House.

Strange But True

By Samantha Weaver

- It was American civil-rights leader Martin Luther King, Jr., who made the following sage observation: "We all too often have socialism for the rich and rugged free market capitalism for the poor."
- If you go on a road trip to the Northwest Territories of Canada, keep an eye out for the unusual license plates -- they're shaped like polar bears.
- When he was 66 years old, American novelist Edgar Rice Burroughs -- beloved creator of Tarzan and Mars explorer John Carter -- served as a war correspondent, going along on bombing runs during World War II.
- Did you ever wonder what makes French vanilla different from other kinds of vanilla? Evidently, French vanilla contains egg yolk.
- If you're like me, you have fond memories of a bookmobile visiting your neighborhood. For more out-of-the-way locales, though, there are other kinds of mobile libraries. For instance, residents of some parts of Norway look forward to the arrival of Epos, a library on a boat. In addition to space for 6,000 books, the boat has room for author readings and other literary events.
- In Vietnam, the conflict that Americans commonly call the Vietnam War is known as the Resistance War Against America, or just the American War.
- You might be surprised by the strength of the mantis shrimp. When it swings its claw at its prey, it doesn't have to hit the creature -- the shock wave from the attack is often enough to stun or kill the animal.
- Social scientists say that the first businesses to get set up in a new neighborhood -- and the last ones to flee a dying community -- are churches and liquor stores.

Liberty picked up her grandma's Cannon camera when she was about five years old and often goes on photo shoot expeditions around the county with Cyndi, who also lives in Spruce. "We get up early. Sometimes an hour before the sun comes up and Grandma will drive to Black River or someplace to take pictures," Liberty said.

Occasionally Liberty will go with her grandmother to help on photo assignments such as weddings or family photograph sessions, but mostly they enjoy taking pictures of animals, lakes, sunrises, sunsets, nature and wildlife year-round.

Liberty said her grandma tends to look at the big picture through the lens -- she enjoys focusing on tiny details. "Grandma notices the big things. She looks at the icy lake, I look at what's under the ice," Liberty said.

Although, she explained, sometimes her grandma falls through the ice while taking pictures, probably because she is too busy looking at the big picture instead of the de-vital. "Grandma always stops on the side of the road and takes pictures. When I was about four-years-old I saw a yellow bird and told my Grandma. She jumped out of the truck to take a picture of the bird and the truck just kept driving down the road," Liberty said, trying to hold back a girlish giggle for having tattled on Grandma.

She said one of the biggest challenges of taking pictures with Cyndi is getting her grandma to stop taking pictures and get back in the truck.

Cyndi hasn't been taking photographs for all that long herself and said it was only after her son, Ramie, passed away that she began to take pictures. "Ramie loved nature. He saw things I didn't take the time to stop and see. Now I stop and when I look through the camera, it's like I'm looking through Ramie's eyes," Cyndi said.

The photographs Liberty took were so good the family opened a Facebook page for her titled "Ibby Did It," so she could post her favorite shots and share them with friends and family. "When she first started talking she'd call herself 'Ibby.' If she would draw a picture or do something she'd say 'Ibby did it.' I started calling her Ibby too," Cyndi said.

Figuring out what picture to put on Facebook can be difficult because there are so many to choose from. Mostly, Liberty likes photographs she has taken of Trout, especially if they are action shots of the horse galloping.

Trout was named by Liberty because the mare was born on the opening day of trout season. The horse was born at Maplewinds Clydesdales, the family farm of Cyndi and her husband, Tom. It wasn't intentional to give the horse to Liberty, but according to Cyndi, from day one, the two had a special bond. Even when Trout travels out of the area for shows and events, she will look for her young friend, sometimes trying to make friends with other young girls with long blonde hair when Liberty isn't nearby.

As talented as Liberty is with the camera, photography is only a hobby. Her real passion is to be chef and own her own restaurant. Her favorite meal to make is Sloppy Joes and she uses a secret recipe she got from her Uncle "B" that she is not allowed to tell anyone.

In addition to her creativity with the camera, Liberty is also fine marksman according to her family. She can shoot a penny at 100 yards. "I didn't think I'd like shooting, but I really like it. My uncle even got me my own gun for my birthday," she said.

For people with vision and other challenges, Liberty encouraged them to follow their passions. "You never know if you'll like it or not if you don't try it."
