Greenbush resident receives 28 years for dealing crystal meth

A Greenbush man was sentenced to 340 months in federal prison on a conviction for possessing with the intent to distribute methamphetamine.

Daniel Harrington, 45, was sentenced by United States District Judge Thomas Ludington in Bay City, Mich. on September 21.

According to acting U.S. Attorney Daniel L. Lemisch, Harrington pleaded guilty on February 7 to one count of a multi-count superseding indictment that charged him with possessing with intent to distribute more than five grams of methamphetamine, also known as crystal meth or ice.

Lemisch explained that Harrington, assisted by others, obtained meth from sources in California then transported it to northern Michigan for distribution. Some of the meth seized during the investigation tested as 100 percent pure.

This case was jointly investigated by special agents with the Drug Enforcement Administration office in Flint, Mich. and the Michigan State Police. The prosecution was handled by the United States Attorney's office in Bay City, Mich.

Sanctuary offers maritime history, education programs

Attractions across northeast Michigan varied and plentiful. One located in Alpena is known nationally, is educational and should be of interest to anyone who lives or plays along the Lake Huron shoreline.

It is the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's Thunder Bay National Marine Sanctuary (TBNMS).

Its Great Lakes Heritage Center is the gateway to Thunder Bay where the Lady Michigan, a glass bot-

Teaching career leads to active life in retirement

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

Residing in one of the most unique homes in Alcona County is a retiree who is committed to his community and has provided enriched life experiences for many of its citizens.

Roger Baumgardner, a retired teacher of Alcona Community Schools and active volunteer as the Alcona County delegate for the Thunder Bay Marine National Marine Sanctuary (TBNMS) advisory council. He and his wife, Christine, have been married for 46 years. The couple moved to the Harrisville area in 1970.

They moved to the area after Roger was offered a position with Alcona schools teaching English and theatre. Christine taught at Alpena Community College until she took a position with Alcona Health Centers. She is now the chief executive officer, and has worked there for nearly 30 years.

In 1973, they purchased their home because of its uniqueness. "When we first saw the place, the realtor said there was nothing else like it. I thought it was so cool, I talked Chris into buying it," Roger said.

The home was built in several stages, first as a log cabin, then a 60-foot electric club train car was attached to it. Roger explained that a Chrysler executive purchased the wood club car for about $1,500, removed the train's wheels and shipped it to his Harrisville hunting cabin on a flatbed truck in 1931. The train was then brought up a steep hill to the cabin using horses and pulleys.

It was an electric, interurban train car from the Fort Wayne, Indianapolis and Western Railroad in Indiana which, Roger explained, ran between cities from 1906 until the late 20s when they began converting the passenger trains from wood to steel.

Half of the train car is visible and has access from the living room of the Baumgardner's home. Roger said he exposed the top of the car, which had been covered when it was attached to the cabin, and had the outer wood refurbished by Greg Hart and his dad, who made it look like a stunning piece of furniture inside their home.

The 60-foot train addition features four rooms including a sitting room with original glass windows where the conductor and passengers would have been seated.

"The train didn't have regular bench seats, it had wicker and leather furniture. It was designed as a club diner car and belonged to the president of the line. He would rent it out for group picnics," Roger said. The car still holds some of its original furniture.

A small kitchen is complete with pre-prohibition cupboards with grooved pockets to hold wine bottles and glasses on a moving train and ice chest refrigerators. The original white and black checked floor in the kitchen area is still visible.

The train car contains a working restroom complete with a zink sink with ledges, so items wouldn't slip off onto the floor while the train was moving.

Music is in the Air

Join members of the Harrisville Business Association on the streets of downtown Harrisville in celebration of the Lake Huron Discovery Tour, Saturday, Oct. 7 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. This year’s theme is “Music is in the Air” with many local bands and singers featured on the stage across from Alcona Coffee Company. There will be face painting for children and a taste test comparison provided by volunteers with the Farm to Fork Alcona movement. More activities will be added as the event develops.

Mighty Mac Bridge

Learn about the “Mighty Mackinac Bridge—Then and Now” on Monday, Oct. 9 at 2 p.m. at the Harrisville branch of the Alcona County Library. Kim Nowack, chief engineer of the Mackinac Bridge, will talk about construction of the bridge and how it has been kept in such good condition throughout its 60-year life. This program is part of the US-23 Discovery Tour week-end of special events. Nowack was named chief engineer of the Mackinac Bridge in 2002.

She is the first female to hold this position in the bridge’s history and is responsible for all maintenance and engineering oversight.

She supervises a maintenance staff of around 40 employees including engineers, mechanics, electricians, welders, steeplejacks, bridge workers and laborers. Nowack and her assistant also design construction projects and manage the contractors and consultants that perform work and inspections on the bridge. For more information, call (989) 724-6796.

Amateur Radio Class

The Alcona County Amateur Radio Group is offering a no-cost, two-day FCC Technician Level Amateur Radio Class. Both classes will last five hours each day and will be held on Sunday, Oct. 8 and Sunday, Oct. 15 beginning at noon both days. Study material must be completed prior to the class sessions. The class will be held at the Alcona County EMS/EOC building located at 2600 East M-72 (south side), six miles west of US-23.

An FCC Exam Session for all Amateur Radio levels will be held on October 15 starting at 4 p.m. immediately following the conclusion of the technician class -- the standard FCC Exam fee applies. Contact Stan Darmofal, W8SZ on (989) 724-5550 to obtain additional details and to register for the class and/or exam session.

Roderick Niles, 15, of West Bloomfield, Mich. harvested a six-point buck in Alcona County on Saturday, Sept. 16 during the youth hunt. He shot the buck, which weighted 140 pounds field dressed, in the morning while he was hunting with his father, Curt Niles. This was the first deer he has bagged. Courtesy photo.

Alcona soccer plays to tie with Grayling

By Ben Murphy
Sports Writer

The Alcona soccer team came a second away from getting a big road win at Grayling on Tuesday, Sept. 19. The Vikings scored a goal with a second left however, forcing the Tigers to settle for a 4-4 non-league tie.

Steiner added another goal early in the second half to make it 3-0, but Grayling clawed back to tie it at 3-3 late in the contest.

With just 55 seconds left to go Steiner made a nice pass to Brett Nelson who kicked it in for a 4-3 lead, for what the Tigers had hoped would be the game winner.

The Vikings struck back by sneaking a goal in with under a second to go for the tie.

"It was warm weather and they're a lot bigger school so we were kind of undermanned," Alcona head coach Tim Munro said. "They scored with half a second to go to tie it up, they were really happy that they tied it."

Conner McCoy had 26 saves in the game and now sits just 21 saves away for the national career saves record.

On Monday, Sept. 18 the Tigers hosted Fairview for a North Star League game, earning an 8-0 victory.

Steiner was good for three goals in this one and with one apiece was Elliot Dubuque, Nelson, John Sharboneau, Matthew Warner and Cody Berryhill.

Alcona was at Ogemaw Heights on Monday and hosts Oscoda Wednesday for a chance to clinch the NSL title.

Rain doesn't dampen Tiger win over W-P

By Ben Murphy
Sports Writer

A weather delay slowed down the Alcona football team for awhile Friday night. The Tigers heated up as the game wore on however, allowing them to pull away for a 52-14 North Star League win on homecoming night over Whittemore-Prescott.

"With all the hype of homecoming and then the weather delay, I was proud of the team," said head coach Jason Somers. "They were able to maintain some focus and get the job done."

The Cardinals, the heavy underdogs in the game, gave Alcona a fight early on, scoring two of the game's first three touchdowns on a pair of runs, for a 14-6 lead early in the second quarter.

"This did not surprise me at all, they have a great tradition, great coaching and a will to win," Somers said. "We knew they were going to come in ready and hungry."

W-P running back Ridge Schutte scored on runs of 89 and two yards out. Alcona's first score came late in the first quarter on an Alex Stephenson quarterback-keeper.

Alcona scored a pair of touchdowns before the end of the half though, taking a 22-14 at the break and rolled from there.

Jack Hutchinson scored on a 56-yard romp and Tim Hutchinson followed that with a run in from 46-yards away.

The second half was all Alcona as they scored three times in the third quarter, getting a 20-yard touchdown run by T. Hutchinson, a 50-yard run by Dominic Howe and a 48-yard sprint by T. Hutchinson for a 44-14 lead.

Ian Travis had the lone fourth quarter score, a run in from 40-yards out.

"I think as the game went on our young men become more comfortable with our game plan and executed really well with a great amount of effort, which led to a really good outcome," Somers said. "The thing that stood out most to me was that the kids bounced back from a tough loss the week before, rolled up their sleeves and did the dirty work that needs to be done in order to win games."

Leading the way on offense was T. Hutchinson with 233 yards and three touchdowns on 17 attempts. J. Hutchinson ran 15 times for 169 yards and a score. Stephenson was one-of-seven passing for 17 yards and an interception, completing a pass to Luke Loyer.

Devin Mills led the team with 13 tackles and J. Hutchinson had an interception.

Alcona (4-1 overall, 3-1 NSL) heads to Oscoda (4-1, 3-1) on Friday for a battle for second place in the conference. The Owls throttled Rogers City last week, 35-0.

"This is always a good rivalry game that both teams look forward to, and this year should not disappoint," Somers said. "I think that it will be imperative that we execute our plan and play turnover free in order to play with a tough Oscoda team."

SENIOR LIFESTYLES

Exercises that help ease arthritis pain and stiffness

Dear Savvy Senior,
What exercises are best suited for seniors with arthritis? I have osteoarthritis in my neck, back, hip and knee and have read that exercises can help ease the pain and stiffness, but I don't know where to start, and I certainly don't want to aggravate it.

Stiff and Achy

Dear Stiff,
Many people who have arthritis believe that exercise will worsen their condition, but that's not true. Exercise is actually one of the best treatments for osteoarthritis.

Proper and careful exercises can help reduce joint pain and stiffness, strengthen muscles around the joints and increase flexibility. It also helps manage other chronic conditions that are common among seniors with arthritis, such as diabetes, heart disease and obesity. Here are some tips to help you get started.

Determining exactly which types of exercises that are best for you depends on the form and severity of your arthritis, and which joints are involved. It's best to work with your doctor or a physical therapist to help develop a personalized exercise program. The different types of exercises that are most often recommended to seniors with arthritis include:

- Range-of-motion exercises: These are gentle stretching exercises that can relieve stiffness as well as improve your ability to move your joints through their normal range of motion. These exercises should be done daily.

- Strengthening exercise: Calisthenics, weight training and working with resistance bands are recommended (two or more days a week) to maintain and improve your muscle strength, which helps support and protect your joints.

- Aerobic exercises: Low-impact activities like walking, cycling, swimming or water aerobics are all recommended three to five times per week to help improve cardiovascular health, control weight, and improve your overall function.

It's also important to keep in mind that when you first start exercising, you need to go slow to give your body time to adjust. If you push yourself too hard you can aggravate your joint pain. However, some muscle soreness or joint achiness in the beginning is normal.

To help manage your pain start by warming up with some simple stretches or range of motion exercises for five to 10 minutes before you move on to strengthening or aerobic exercises. Another tip is to apply heat to the joints you'll be working before you exercise, and use cold packs after exercising to reduce inflammation.

If you're experiencing a lot of pain while you exercise, you may need to modify the frequency, duration, or intensity of your exercises until the pain improves. Or you may need to try a different activity, for example, switching from walking to water aerobics. But if you're having severe, sharp or constant pain, or large increases in swelling or your joints feel hot or red, you need to stop and see your doctor.

Savvy Senior

To help you exercise at home, the Arthritis Foundation offers a variety of free online videos (see Arthritis.org/living-with-arthritis/exercise/videos) to guide you through a variety of exercises. Or there are arthritis exercise DVDs you can purchase for a few dollars through Collage Video (CollageVideo.com, (800) 819-7111) or the Arthritis Foundation Store (AFstore.org).

Also see Go4life.nia.nih.gov or call (800) 222-2225, a National Institute on Aging resource that offers a free exercise guide that provides illustrated examples of different exercises.

If you need some motivation or don't like exercising alone, ask your doctor about exercise programs in your area for people with arthritis. Hospitals and clinics sometimes offer special programs, as do local health clubs and senior centers.

The Arthritis Foundation also conducts exercise and aquatic programs for people with arthritis in many communities throughout the U.S. Contact your local branch (see Arthritis.org/local-offices, or call (800) 283-7800 for contact information) to find out what may be available nearby.

TBNMS has identified nearly 100 shipwrecks in its waters. The two newest, both near Presque Isle County, are the wooden steamer, Ohio, which operated from 1873 to 1894 and the steel-hulled steamer, Choctaw, which operated from 1892 to 1915.

Both shipwrecks were recently identified. TBNMS officials believe there are approximately 100 more shipwrecks, which have yet to be discovered, resting on the sanctuary bottom.

Lady Michigan and the Great Lakes Heritage Center offer unique opportunities to view and learn about the shipwreck century which marks 100 years from the opening of the Erie Canal in 1825.

The shipwreck century was a time of heavy maritime traffic with busy lake schooners, which were considered the semi-trucks of the 1800s, to huge steel freighters common today. "One of the reasons we have so many shipwrecks in this area is because it is smack in the middle of the Great Lakes and every vessel, historically, and even today, had to pass by Thunder Bay. It was a busy freeway of maritime traffic. A lot of ships went down in collisions," said Stephanie Gandulla, TBNMS maritime archeologist and media coordinator.

Other conditions such as weather, including ice storms and fog, poor shipping management and other misforseason for Lady Michigan. The vessel will be taking passengers daily, weather permitting, until October 8. Lady Michigan does require a fee to board the vessel for the two to two-and-a-half-hour cruise, depending on water conditions.

The Heritage Center is free of charge to all visitors and is open year-round, seven days a week. It holds 9,000 square feet of exhibits including a full-size replica of a wooden schooner, typical of one on the Great Lakes during the shipwreck century. The schooner invites guests aboard to see and feel what it was like to be on a lake ship when ports along the Great Lakes were bustling centers of progress and shipping.

"It was November of 1875, lifeboats sitting perfectly in place, upright at the bottom of the lake. No sign of the eight crew members were ever found," Gandulla said.

She explained after a historical meteorological study was completed they believe a terrible storm encased the boat in ice and the weight sank it slowly to the bottom.

As heritage center guests progress through the replica, they are given examples of the close quarters men and women aboard the ship bunked and lived. With each step, however, a storm begins to brew. The ship takes on new angles and shadows and delivers a hands-on taste of what it's like to be aboard a real ship during a storm on Lake Huron -- all without getting wet.

Logger's Trace would like to thank the following businesses and individuals who generously donated door prizes, time and effort to our 2017 Ladies Invitational.

Lady Michigan is a 65-foot, 30-ton vessel equipped to hold 80 passengers on two decks. The upper deck offers open an air atmosphere and the lower deck is heated and is equipped with two large glass viewing wells to allow passengers a very close look, some within three feet, of shipwrecks. The approximate 26-mile round trip cruise also feature views of the LaFarge Cement Plant, Second Avenue Bridge, the Little Red Lighthouse and the Thunder Bay Island Lighthouse from the water.

It is nearing the end of the the end of shipping season. Captains and owners were pushing hard for one last successful run. The Windiate, a three-masted schooner, was overloaded with 21,000 bushels of wheat. It should have only had about 16,000 bushels. It was unsafe when it left Milwaukee (Wisc.) and was last seen in northern Lake Michigan before disappearing," Gandulla said of the schooner.

was like during the shipwreck century.

The center also features a full theatre which shows films daily, archeology conservation lab, education and community space for special programs, scientific research facility including a dive operation center, a community boat building center, gift shop, outdoor access to the Great Lakes Maritime Heritage Trail and picnic grounds. The roof deck is available to rent for special functions, and has community space within the building.

Education is abundant at the center and it hosts many visiting schools throughout Michigan and surrounding states. The centers interactive, hands-on, science, technology, engineering and math lab offers students of all ages team building exercises by building a remote operated vehicle (ROV). After building, students then see how their robot holds up, by testing it under water.

Many activities and events happen throughout the year at the center. A Fourth of July maritime festival brings nearly 10,000 visitors and includes helicopter rides, a cardboard boat race and more. Summer programs and camps offer many themed activity days to engage and inspire young future maritime archeologists.

A free Halloween event will take place on October 27 and the annual Thunder Bay International Film Festival takes place in late January.

The Great Lakes Heritage Center is located at 500 W. Fletcher in Alpena. The center is closed for holidays and other events. For more information, boat tour fees and hours, call (989) 884-6200 or visit www.thunderbay.noaa.gov.

buttons, and brass match strikers. Double pane windows topped with leaded green glass, line both sides of the car.

A back room, once the area passengers would be brought aboard, is now a spare bedroom, complete with one of two fieldstone fireplaces which were also added to the home in the 1930s.

Since purchasing the home, the couple has made numerous renovations including insulating the 22-inch thick walls and adding another level.

Roger enjoyed his years teaching in Alcona schools and had many liberties to teach different subjects with his students, including introducing black literature and mythology classes.

One of his most successful programs, and one he is most proud of, is the senior project program, where students worked in small groups to present any subject matter they wanted to the community.

"Subjects covered everything, the Battle of Verdun in World War I, sumo wrestling, snowmobiles, bovine tuberculosis, the origin of Monopoly, Monty Python, even the Muppets. It was incredible and was one of the best things I ever did. I learned as much as the students during senior project and took the program to the Michigan Reading Association conference to show them what we were doing," Roger said.

Roger and Christine were also invested business owners in the Harrisville community and owned the Alco Theatre for 22 years prior to its closing in 2001.

As a business owner, Roger was interested in tourism and wanted to see the area grow. He felt the TBNMS was a good draw for tourism and began his involvement with them in 2012.

"I've always been a proponent of our lake. No one else has anything like this. It's the special part about living here and we mostly ignore it. I'm stunned by the number of people who have not been to the sanctuary. There is no question in my mind that it is going to be the main attraction for northeast Michigan. It's the only one in the world that is a fresh water sanctuary," Roger said.

As part of the advisory council, Roger attends bi-monthly meetings and reports back to the Alcona County Board of Commissioners. Because of his film background, he is also heavily involved in the TBNMS international film festival annually held in January.

Last January TBNMS brought one of its films to a packed house at the Harrisville branch of the Alcona County Library. Roger said TBNMS was so excited about the turnout it received and the kindness of the library and patrons, they are planning to do the same in 2018.

The Baumgardners have three children, all living in different states, and five grandchildren, who they visit with as often as possible. Not only is Roger involved with the sanctuary, he and Christine also belong to their church choir. They plan to do even more community involvement and traveling after Christine retires at the end of the year.

"If you don't do things, you will atrophy. We have to keep active," Roger said.

Foul murder

Walter Carr Murdered by His Partner, Charles Wightman - The Murderer In Jail - Fatal Termination of a Quarrel Over a woman

September 29, 1892 ~ In a lonely log cabin fifteen miles to the west and north of Harrisville occurred a frightful tragedy last Thursday night, which breaks the record for immunity from serious crime that this county has enjoyed or many years. The tragedy occurred at Hanshaw's old lumbering camps, which were the scene of active lumbering operations two years ago, but which passed into the hands of Walter Carr, the camp blacksmith, at the conclusion of the lumbering. Carr set out to clear a home in the wilderness and made a livelihood by farming and lumbering.

Last winter he had a contract for putting in a quantity of cedar for John Millen, and in this enterprise he was assisted by Chas. Wightman. The two men worked in partnership and Wightman lived with Carr, who had a wife and a family of four children. Carr's wife is a woman of 50 or thereabouts, not particularly prepossessing, but having a reputation for virtue that has become somewhat tarnished by her past conduct. An intimacy sprung up between Wightman and his partner's wife, and as Carr became aware of the unfaithfulness of his spouse and the treachery of his partner, matters became more and more strained between them as time passed on. Last Thursday Carr was working at Mud Lake Jr, for Chas Foley.

Wightman and Mrs. Carr came down there in the afternoon to do some trading. Later the afternoon the trio started home up the railroad, but they had not, gone far before the two men renewed their dispute and; soon came to blows, Wightman getting considerably, the worst of it. Wightman and the woman continued on their way home but Carr returned to the Junction, and Mr. Foley endeavored, to dissuade him from going home that night as he feared that there might be more trouble. Carr persisted however, and accompanied by his son-in-law, David La France, left for home by a short cut through the woods. Wightman and Mrs. Carr arrived first. The former was sitting on a bench outside the house as Carr came up, and with a sullen glance he said, "This is a pretty face you've given me. aint it?" referring to his injuries, "it is no more than you deserved," answered Carr, and he passed into the house. Wightman went to the barn and secured a Winchester rifle of 40-GA caliber and returned to the house. The testimony on this point varies a little but not materially.

The only witness who saw the whole affair was David La France, who was present to the end. His testimony, at the examination was briefly as follows:

"I came home with Mr. Carr. Wightman. was sitting on a bench outside the house. Carr and Wightman bade each other "good-evening." Carr passed into the house, Wightman followed and said, "Are you mad at me Walter?" "No, Charlie, I am not," was Carr's reply. "This is a pretty face you put on, me," said Wightman. "You deserved, it, Charlie, or you. wouldn't have got it" was. Carr's, rejoinder. Wightman then; went, outdoors and Mrs. Carr came in. In a moment more Wightman was, heard to say, "Come here, Walt Carr, you, ___ you can't do me know. Mrs. Carr left the house at this. Carr arose to go out, but the witness who was standing near the door, observed that Wightman had a Winchester in his hand, the lever of which he reversed once, and said to Carr, "Don't go out Mr. Carr, he's going to shoot you." "Two can play at that game," said Carr, and he stepped into the bedroom and took down another gun and reversing the lever started for the door. The two angry men met on the threshold. The steel barrels of their rifles resounded as they struck together in an attempt to divert each other's aim.

Wightman fired. Carr snapped his gun without exploding it and dropped to his knees. Wightman fired again and Carr snapped his gun a second time with the same effect as before and fell forward on his face a dead man. Carr had several wounds: the fingers of his left hand had been struck by the first fire, which must also have struck the sight on his gun detaching it. A rough flesh wound in the neck was evidently caused by the broken sight. The principal wound, which was the fatal one, entered Carr's right breast and passing through his body came out about two inches to the left of the navel. It was an ugly wound and death was instantaneous.

StarWatch By Gary Becker - Harvest Moon, Shine Down on Me

Have you been watching the moon lately? It was new and invisible last Wednesday, September 20, but instead of passing in front of the sun, as it did on August 21, producing a solar eclipse, it was substantially above the sun, and no eclipse happened. That is because the moon's orbit is tilted by five degrees to the sun's path in the sky. One of the interesting aspects of observing the autumnal moon after its new phase is that it remains virtually hidden from view. You may have just noticed its increasing brilliance in the evening sky during the last few days, even though it is no longer a silvery sliver of a crescent, but well along toward its first quarter phase, half on half off, sunlight on the right half of the moon (Wednesday). The reason for this lunar elusiveness in the late summer and fall seasons results from the moon's orbit which at this time of the year is slanted at a very shallow angle to the horizon. The moon moves about 13 degrees per day while it revolves around the Earth, but its orbital progress does not greatly change its distance above the horizon. Therefore, the Earth's rotation (spinning) will set the moon at nearly the same time for several days after its new phase. By the time the moon is full, nearly 15 days later, and is easily visible in the evening sky, the same conditions still apply, and the moon rises at nearly the same time for several nights in a row. The effect is even more pronounced in Europe where the moon's orbital plane is even less inclined to the horizon and differences in moonrise times can be as little as 10 minutes. Farmers harvesting crops would be able to continue their work uninterrupted as western twilight blended into the brilliance of a full moon rising in the east. Full moons were named, and the one occurring closest to the autumnal equinox which had the minimal changes in rising times was called the Harvest Moon, one of dozens of titles that Luna in her full phase received throughout the passage of a year. Usually the date falls in September, but every third year, it happens in October. Watch this week as the moon continues to wax (grow) in brightness. On October 5, it reaches its full phase, the Harvest Moon for 2017. Next year, it is back to September on the 24th, nearly the best Harvest Moon that can possibly occur. If you think that the full or nearly full moon is not bright enough to harvest crops, take a ride into the country around the time of full moon and bring along a book. Find a location untainted by street lamps but under moonlight. Let your eyes adjust to the lower levels of light and see if you can read the printed word by the illumination of the silvery moon. Ill bet you can! www.astronomy.org

Moments In Time

By The History Channel

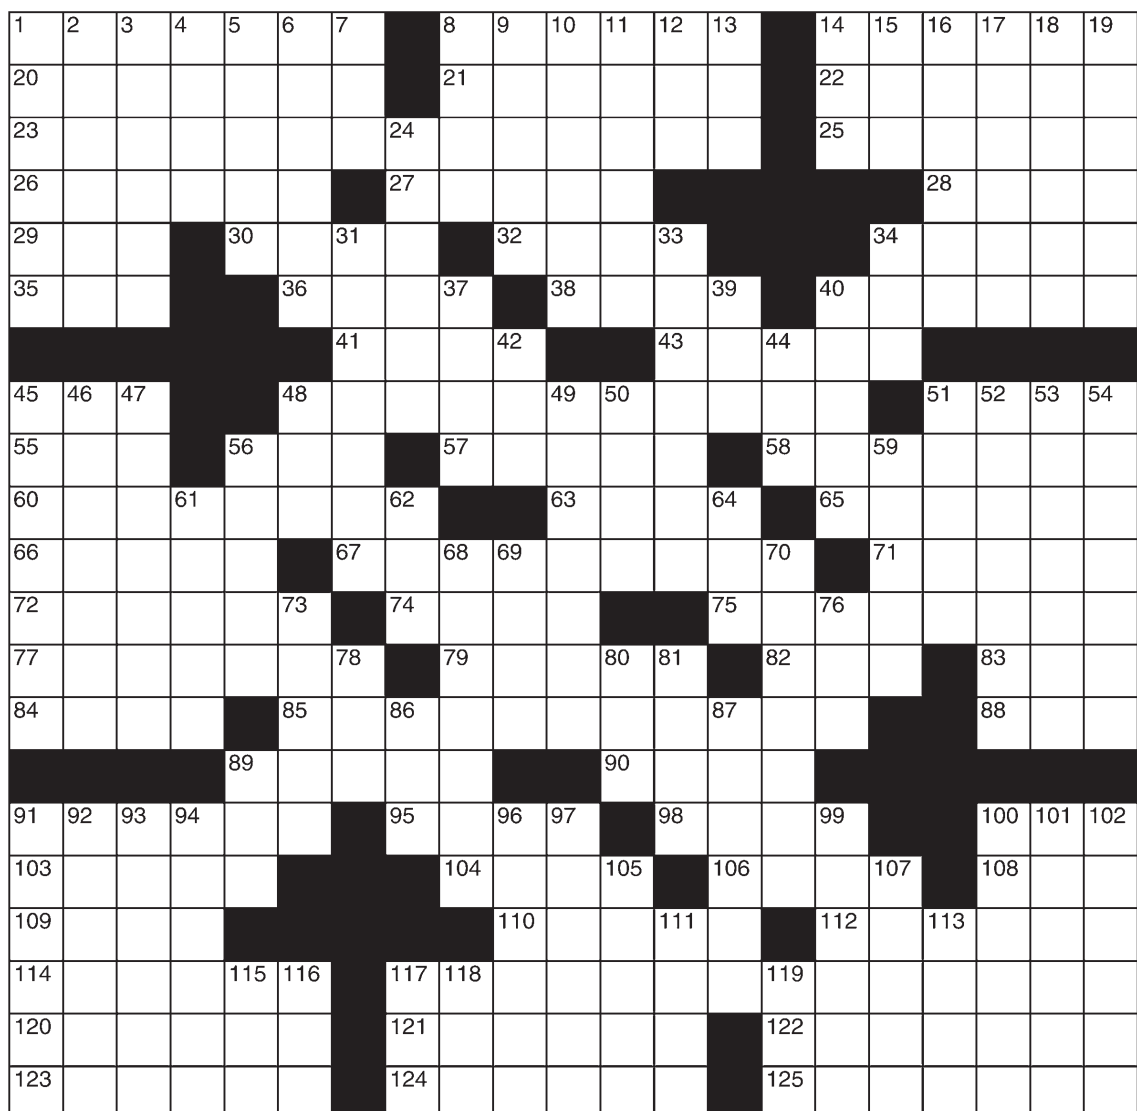

- On Oct. 6, 1847, "Jane Eyre" is published by Charlotte Bronte under the pseudonym Currer Bell. At age 5, Bronte was sent to a boarding school. The harsh conditions -- bad food, cold rooms and strict discipline -- all were reflected in the boarding school portrayed in the novel.
- On Oct. 4, 1927, sculpting begins on the face of Mount Rushmore in South Dakota. It would take 12 years for the impressive granite images of four of America's most beloved presidents -- George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt -- to be completed.
- On Oct. 7, 1960, the one-hour television drama "Route 66" debuts on CBS. The program followed two young men, Tod and Buz, as they drove across the country in a Corvette convertible looking for adventure.
- On Oct. 8, 1956, New York Yankees pitcher Don Larsen throws the first no-hitter in World Series history. Even better, it was a perfect game -- that is, there were no runs, no hits and no errors, and no batter reached first base.
- On Oct. 5, 1974, American David Kunst completes the first round-the-world journey on foot, taking four years and 21 pairs of shoes to complete the 14,500-mile journey across four continents. He left Minnesota in 1970 accompanied by a pack mule named Willie Makeit.
- On Oct. 2, 1985, actor Rock Hudson, 59, becomes the first major U.S. celebrity to die of complications from AIDS. His death raised public awareness of the epidemic.
- On Oct. 3, 1995, former football star O.J. Simpson is acquitted of the brutal 1994 double murder of his estranged wife, Nicole Brown Simpson, and her friend, Ronald Goldman. Evidence presented at the trial included blood DNA from the crime scene found on Simpson's glove and his blood DNA found at the crime scene.

Strange But True

By Samantha Weaver

- It was 20th-century American philosopher, writer and educator Susanne Katherina Langer who made the following sage observation: "If we would have new knowledge, we must get us a whole world of new questions."
- In Western cultures, the owl is associated with wisdom, but in some Asian countries, it's traditionally a symbol of stupidity.
- In the 9th century, a Norseman named Sigurd Eysteinnsson earned the name Sigurd the Mighty while helping to lead the Viking conquest of what is now northern Scotland. As part of a continuing effort to expand his Scottish conquest, Sigurd challenged a native ruler, Mael Brigte the Bucktoothed, to a battle. Each leader was supposed to bring 40 men to the battle, but Sigurd broke his own rule and brought 80 warriors. Unsurprisingly, Brigte lost. After beheading his defeated foe, Sigurd displayed Brigte's head on his saddle as a trophy of war. He got his just desserts in the end, though; as he rode, Sigurd's leg was scratched by Brigte's buck teeth. The seemingly insignificant wound festered, and Sigurd the Mighty was killed by the infection.
- You may already know that seahorses mate for life. You may not be aware, though, that as they swim, they keep their tails linked together.
- Those who study such things say that Napoleon Bonaparte was partial to cashmere underwear.
- Beards may be trendy these days, but if you prefer the clean-shaven look, you belong to a group that goes back further than you think. Cave art dating back to 10,000 B.C.E. depicts grown men with no beards.
- The ostrich is the world's only two-toed bird.
