Volunteers keep county recycling program going

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

For over a quarter of a century, one independent local organization of hearty volunteers devote time every month to better the world for future generations through recycling.

This band of typically less than a dozen volunteers, and nearly all over the age of 60, endure all types of weather conditions to operate Recycle Alcona County, an organization which collects about six tons of recyclable material per month.

Recycle Alcona County holds a monthly open-air, drive through collection of recyclable goods such as cardboard, newspaper, plastic, tin, and glass for Alcona County residents. The collection is held on the second Saturday of each month at the Alcona Recreation Area (ARA) site on Barlow Road in Lincoln between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. (This Saturday is the collection day for June.) A recommended donation cost of $5 per vehicle is collected at the gate.

Since recycling is not funded by tax dollars in Alcona County, the fee is understandable and reasonable. According to Bill Thompson, president of the organization.

"While some special recycling events, such as the tire recycling event, scheduled for this September, which is funded by a grant, or the county-wide clean-up which is held every two years and is given a stipend from the county, monthly recycling stands on its own and is solely operated by what we take in each month during the event," Thompson said.

He explained the organization is holding its own with some months more profitable than others but equaling out at the end of the year. "It costs $650 for Waste Management to truck in four dumpster tubs to the ARA site and then truck them to their plant," Thompson said.

"Most of the time the collection at the gate is somewhere between $600 to $800 depending on the season and weather. Anything over our cost of $650 is held to cover the lean months when only a fraction of that amount is taken at the gate," he said.

Thompson said the advantage of having a company like Waste Management involved is the volunteers do not have to find buyers for the waste, nor do they have to sort and bundle the waste.

"All we do is take it from their car, put it into the tub and it's taken away. We only pay for the trucking transportation. This allows the county to say we have a recycling system in place which is all volunteer. There are no other costs except for trucking," Thompson said. Recycle Alcona County has a two-year agreement with Waste Management.

Thompson explained most of the volunteers are residents who came to northeast Michigan to retire, but occasionally, groups such as the Alcona High School FFA volunteer. Recycle volunteers

Retiring teacher leaves long legacy

An Alcona Community School teacher will be finishing nearly a lifetime of learning and teaching at the same school in which her father taught.

Roxanne Hanner will wrap up the final days of her career on June 14 by taking 10 high school students on a trip to Washington D.C. as part of the "Close Up" program. She will return from the trip in time to give upperclassmen their high school math finals and seventh and eighth grader students their physical education finals on the track.

Roxanne said it wasn't a difficult exit to handle after teaching for 33 and a half years.

Roxanne graduated from Alcona High School in 1975. Her father, Duke Sterling, taught at the school for 10 years before he passed away when she was 12 years old. Her mother, Jean Sterling, was a teacher for Oscoda Area Schools. Even though Jean was a widow with five children, she made sure all five graduated from college.

As in past years, Roxanne spent this year teaching seventh, eighth, ninth, 10th and 12th grade students. She taught eighth grade math, senior business math for personal finance, math for small business, which is part of the school store, algebra one and seventh and eighth grade physical education.

For 10 and a half years prior to coming to Alcona

Community Schools Roxanne taught adult education in the Mt. Pleasant, Mich. area. When she moved back to Alcona County, she taught adult community education and ran a program out of the county jail for inmates to prepare them for their General Equivalency Diploma (GED).

Roxanne is proud to have taught students ages 13 through 80-years-old -- including her mother, who took an adult enrichment course

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,
The Friends of the Alcona County Library would like to thank all of the people who shopped at the April library book sale. We also want to thank the volunteers who worked during the sale.

Shoppers' generous donations make it possible for the Friends group to continue to support many activities and programs offered at our award winning library. Book sales are our primary source of revenue and, once again, our community has made the sale a great success. That makes it possible for our group to continue our financial support for a wide variety of activities at the library.

The Friends group uses the money donated at book sales to assist in funding many activities and events. We pay for materials used during library programs like the Bug and Pet days, Summer Reading Program, Books for Babies Program and many other special programs. Most recently, we paid for benches for the outdoor garden area.

We provide receptions during artist, author and other special events happening at the library. When the library staff identifies needs for the facilities which would not be covered by its budget, we are often able to help them.

Friends of the Alcona County Library eagerly welcomes new members. If you would like more information about the group, the clerks at the library information desk can help you.

To the Editor,
On May 19, 2018 the Alpena News ran an article saying that the Alcona school board had granted Consumers Energy an easement along the south side of the school property. I felt I should share some specifics of this decision I find concerning.

1.) This is an 80-foot easement which will put the overhead wires within the fall-line of the southeast corner of the school building.

2.) For 60 years school boards have maintained the park-like school yard under the large pines Raymond Adair preserved on his farm property. His property was offered to the county to build this school -- chances are a third of these trees will be lost.

3.) This will be a transmission line along the entire south side of the school property. Imagine the approach from Harrisville -- a representative view is south down Barlow Road from the M-72 intersection.

4.) Superintendent O'Connor stated, "a good working relationship with Consumers." I'm not sure what that means. The school is a customer just like everyone else, is he referring to the cut-rate utility bill the school receives or Consumer's near monopoly the voters approved several years ago.

5.) On a proposed right of way, did the school question the options? If this was the only option, was the school board looking out for the taxpayers in the county, demanding a better deal? It's not like they'd be losing property value like everyone else on the right of way.

The quote from O'Connor, "every little bit helps" makes it sound like they were rabbits chasing a carrot on a stick. If Consumer's current plan comes to pass, remember the view of our school as it is now. At least we'll have more posts to staple our garage sale signs on.

are always on the lookout for additional help and are extremely grateful when younger people can lend a hand.

Certain items are not accepted for recycling such as pizza boxes, wax cartons, drinking glasses, light bulbs, mirrors, window glass, ceramics, dishes and cookware. Another item, Styrofoam, which was accepted until last month, is no longer being accepted. Thompson explained Styrofoam was sent to China for recycling and China no longer accepts it.

All items once containing food must be clean of food and debris.

A special tire recycling collection will be held on September 29 thanks to a $5,000 grant from Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ). Thompson explained during the county-wide clean-up in 2017 they took in 400 tires which cost about $4,800 to haul and process. He is hopeful the number of scrap tires in the county is going down and the $5,000 covers the cost.

"Hopefully, when most people get new tires, they leave the old tires with the repair shop. If we end up collecting a lot more and the grant won't cover the cost, then we have to come up with the funds somehow. It hasn't been decided yet, but we will probably take six tires free and the remaining will be $1 per tire per resident. Larger tires, like tractor tires, will be $2," Thompson said.

Since the event is using state grant monies, certain state rules must be followed such as only 10 scrap tires per resident will be accepted and the event is limited to household tires only.

"Commercial businesses are not allowed to bring in tires to the recycle event. A commercial farm or farm operation is considered a commercial business according to the state," Thompson said. He was unsure how they will police this at the event but is hoping people who are recycling will be honest.

Thompson said even though the volunteer Alcona County recycling program began 1992, it was surprising to him how many people who are year-round lifelong residents don't know the organization exists, don't understand the county wide clean-up is for larger items not normally recycled such as mattresses, appliances and televisions and only happens once every two years, or don't understand why there is a requested donation.

The next monthly recycling day will be this Saturday, June 9 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the ARA site on Barlow Road in Lincoln. The tire recycling event is scheduled for September 26, time to be announced. The next county-wide clean-up event will be in May of 2019.

For more information visit alconacountyfair.com and click on either events or Recycle Alcona County at the bottom of the page. To volunteer, call Recycle Alcona County (989) 724-5077.

SENIOR LIFESTYLES

How to make a living will

Dear Savvy Senior,
What's the best way to go about making a living will? I recently retired and would like to start getting my affairs in order, just in case.

Approaching 70

Dear Approaching,
Preparing a living will now is a smart decision that gives you say in how you want to be treated at the end of your life. Here's what you should know, along with some resources to help you create one.

To adequately spell out your wishes regarding your end-of-life medical treatment you need two legal documents: A "living will" which tells your doctor what kind of care you want to receive if you become incapacitated, and a "health care power of attorney" (or health care proxy), which names a person you authorize to make medical decisions on your behalf if you become unable to.

These two documents are known as an "advance directive," and will only be utilized if you are too ill to make medical decisions yourself. You can also change or update it whenever you please.

It isn't necessary to hire a lawyer to complete an advance directive. There are free or low-cost resources available today to help you write your advance directive, and it takes only a few minutes from start to finish.

One that's completely free to use is Caring Connections, a resource created by the National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization. They provide state-specific advance directive forms with instructions on their website (CaringInfo.org) that you can download and print for free. Or you can call (800) 658-8898 and they will mail them to you and answer any questions you may have.

Or, for only $5, an even better tool is the Five Wishes living will. Created by Aging with Dignity, a nonprofit advocacy organization, Five Wishes is a simple do-it-yourself document that covers all facets of an advance directive that will help you create a more detailed customized document. It is legally valid in 42 states and the District of Columbia. To learn more or to receive a copy, visit AgingWithDignity.org or call (888) 594-7437.

If you would rather use a lawyer, look for one who specializes in estate planning and health care related matters. The National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys (NAELA.org) and the National Association of Estate Planners and Councils (NAEPC.org) websites have directories to help you find someone. Costs will vary depending on the state you reside in, but you can expect to pay somewhere between $200 and $500 to get one made.

You should also consider including a do-not-resuscitate order (DNR) as part of your advance directive, since advanced directives do little to protect you from unwanted emergency care like CPR. Doctors and hospitals in all states accept them. To create a DNR, ask your doctor to fill out a state appropriate form and sign it.

Another tool you should know about that will complement your advance directive is the Physician Orders for Life-Sustaining Treatment (POLST). Currently endorsed in 22 states with 24 more in some phase of development, a POLST translates your end-of-life wishes into medical orders to be honored by your doctors. To learn more or set one up, see POLST.org.

To insure your final wishes are followed, be sure you tell your family members, health care proxy and doctor so they all know what you want. You should also provide copies of your advanced directive to everyone involved to help prevent stress and arguments later.

For convenience, there are even resources like DocuBank.com and MyDirectives.com that will let you and your family members store your advanced directive online, so you can have immediate access to them when you need them.

(Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org.)

East Tawas Art Stroll

On Saturday, June 9 at 4 p.m. the 8th Annual Art Stroll will take place on Newman Street in East Tawas. This event will involve businesses that are open from 4 to 8 p.m. where artists will be located in each business and refreshments will be provided by local restaurants and caterers.

Art lovers can stroll the streets, listen to music provided by local musicians, talk to the artists and merchants and dine in local restaurants. They can view and purchase art by artists from up and down the Sunrise coast.

There will be a silent auction of artwork donated by the artists and services by the merchants. The highest bid will win the item.

This is a joint event by Tawas Bay Art Gallery and the East Tawas Businesses Association. Proceeds from this event will aid art programs in the area and at Tawas Area High School.

The Art Stroll will begin at Tawas Bay Art Gallery or the Village Chocolatier. Participants should pick up their passport and a list of the artists and businesses involved at one of those two locations. Completed passports will be in a drawing for a winning painting by award-winning artist Betty Fahselt-Senter.

Flag Day Ceremony

The Tawas Area Elks Lodge No. 2525 is holding its annual Flag Day Ceremony on Thursday, June 14, at 6 p.m. at the Iosco County Veterans Recognition Plaza located between the Tawas City Post Office and the Tawas City Hall.

Patriotism has characterized the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the United States of America since the early days of the organization and allegiance to the flag of the United States of America is a requirement of every member. In 1907, the Elks Grand Lodge designated June 14 as Flag Day and adopted mandatory observance of the occasion by every Lodge in 1911.

That requirement continues today. The Elks prompted

President Woodrow Wilson to recognize the Elk's observance of Flag Day for its patriotic expression. But, it was not until 1949 when President Harry Truman, himself a member of the Elks, made the proclamation that thereafter June 14 would be a day of national observance for the symbol of our country.

Following the 30-minute Flag Day ceremony, the Tawas Elks will be awarding $13,500 in college scholarships to eight area students, including Cody Schram from

Alcona baseball bows in district final

By Ben Murphy
Sports Writer

The Alcona varsity baseball team came up a game short last Friday in its bid to repeat as district champions. The Tigers, who had topped host Hale earlier in the day, came up short to Mio 10-6 in the championship.

"We mentally beat ourselves in this one, we had a good lead and gave it up," said head coach Nate Walker.

The Tigers led the game 4-0, but a Mio rally in the middle inning put it ahead 5-4 and they extended things form there.

Alex Stephenson took the loss, while Matt Krisan had a triple, double, two singles and four RBI. Jon Surgener had three hits and one RBI and Devon Mills had a double and an RBI.

The Tigers opened the day with an 8-1 win over Hale. Josh Kilbourn tossed all seven innings to get the win, giving up three hits and striking out six.

"This was Josh's best outing of the year, he came up big at the right time against a good Hale team," Walker said.

Tim Hutchinson had three hits and four RBI. Mills had a triple, single and two RBI. Matt Krisan had two hits and two RBI, and Surgener had two hits and an RBI.

"With our goals and expectations on the year, it was disappointing to not reach them," Walker said. "It was a weird year because of weather. Only getting in 20 or so games is tough."

"We have a good core of juniors moving forward to next season with a couple freshmen that played with us all season. With some dedication and work in the off-season, we will be hungry next year. We have a good freshmen class coming in next year so our future looks bright."

Officers were elected as follows: Kathy Vichunas, president; Frances Ziesman, senior vice president; Arlene Lay, junior vice president; Sandra Light, treasurer; Donna Bushey, chaplain; Carol Hansen, conductress and Mary Ann Seymour, guard.

Carol Hansen, a past auxiliary president, signed the 2018-2019 warrant and installation report for the auxiliary. Chairmen present agreed to keep their chairmanships. All required reports will be sent to the District 11 president and the Michigan department secretary. The future of the post is under discussion with no decision made as yet.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, June 5, at 7 p.m.

'Three Free' weekend includes fishing, ORV riding and state park entry

Grab a fishing rod, ride Michigan's off-road trails and/or pay a visit to a favorite Michigan state park for free - all in the same weekend.

On two back-to-back days, June 9-10, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources invites residents and out-of-state visitors to enjoy Free Fishing Weekend, Free ORV Weekend and free entry into state parks.

All fishing license, ORV license, trail permit and Recreation Passport fees are waived those two days, though all other regulations still apply.

"Depending on where you choose to go in Michigan during the 'Three Free' weekend, you could enjoy all three outdoor recreation experiences," said Bill O'Neill, DNR natural resources deputy director. "That weekend is the perfect opportunity to give a new sport or hobby a try, or introduce friends to an outdoor activity you love."

Take advantage of Free Fishing Weekend. Twice a year, residents and nonresidents can enjoy a weekend of fishing without a license. For more information, visit michigan.gov/freefishing.

To encourage visitors to enjoy free fishing at a state park, the DNR waives the regular Recreation Passport entry fee that grants vehicle access to Michigan's 103 state parks during both winter and summer Free Fishing Weekends. Learn more at michigan.gov/recreationpassport.

During two Free ORV Weekends each year, Michigan residents and nonresidents legally can ride DNR-designated routes and trails without purchasing an ORV license or trail permit. The second Free ORV Weekend is August 18-19. For more information, visit michigan.gov/orvinfo.

to 80 feet. The lake trout are hitting on flashers with flies or spin-glos and dodgers with spin-glos.

The salmon and steelhead were hitting on spoons up high in the top 40 feet. Hot colors were green, orange, blue, chartreuse and other bright colors. Try straight out of the harbor or around Thunder Bay Island and the Nine Mile Can.

Walleye anglers are trolling straight out from the city beach and marina to Grass Island inside 30 feet with body baits in the early morning or at night.

Thunder Bay River: The steelhead run is over but a few were still in the river. Anglers are casting body baits or drifting flies and beads. Atlantic salmon were feeding on eggs and minnows. Rock bass, along with large and smallmouth bass, were caught on both live and artificial baits. There is still a few walleye in the river. Boat anglers were trolling body baits in the lower river from the turn basin to the mouth or jigging with leeches and minnows. Early morning was best.

Harrisville: Those trolling between Harrisville and Sturgeon Point picked up good numbers of lake trout along with a couple of steelhead, pink salmon and Chinook salmon. Fish were feeding on smelt and gobies and were caught anywhere from five feet off the bottom in 60 to 80 feet with spoons and flies with dodgers.

Oscoda: Anglers trolling between Oscoda and Greenbush have found lake trout, pink salmon and even a couple of Chinook when trolling spoons in 60 to 85 feet. Some lake trout were as shallow as 30 feet. Most fish were found throughout the water column and were full of smelt so if you find the

she taught in basket weaving.

Roxanne's favorite aspect of teaching was the energy she received from students. "Seeing the light come on when the kids got the lesson... In truth, I probably learned a lot more from my students than they ever did from me. I can say though, I've had some input into a neurosurgeon's career and a lawyer's career. I've touched a lot of different lives and career paths. I'm proud of our students who have gone on to be successful, my own daughters included," Roxanne said.

Roxanne explained it was an honor to teach and watch all three of her daughters and eight nieces and nephews graduate from Alcona Community Schools. All of which are successfully employed and thriving.

She enjoys interacting with seniors the most and even though they are excited about their future they are afraid of becoming adults. Roxanne warns them the next seven years of their life will be their toughest and to not burn their bridges.

She worries for some who do not have strong parental support at home and must venture out at the age of 18 to make it on their own.

What Roxanne finds extremely challenging about teaching today is the public perception and negativity toward her profession, which, she feels has grown, making teaching a complex and stressful career she no longer recommends to others.

"Teaching was once a well-respected profession. That respect is no longer given by many. Society has changed and its costing us good people. People don't want to go into teaching and I can't blame them," Roxanne said.

She explained a grocer gets to throw out the bad blueberries, but teachers are expected to educate them. Whether or not the student is in the right environment for his needs doesn't matter, teachers are held to high expectations to teach them regardless.

"Over the years, more and more is put on our plate. We aren't just teaching these kids, we are raising them, we are parenting them. Some of our products are just trying to survive. We have to prioritize for them because a math (equation) isn't as important as their safety and survival. It's taxing teachers emotionally. I sometimes joke with my students that I don't sleep well because of their issues. This doesn't mean I don't love teaching. If every day I teach and reach a kid and make their day, then I've done my job," Roxanne said.

She has seen a lot of changes in students over the years and explained that technology is changing them and it's costing them their creativity. "These kids today are wired differently because of technology. They are not auditory learners or visual learners. They are hands on manipulative learners. This may persevere on a video game, but it won't on a challenging test in math or social studies," Roxanne said.

After graduation from Alcona High School, Hanner went to Alpena Community College, was on the student senate and won the Anna Besser award in 1977 before attending Central Michigan University (CMU) to get a bachelor's degree.

She married, started raising a family and went back to CMU to receive a master's degree in 1983. That year Captain Kangaroo, Bob Keeshan, a beloved children's series star, handed Hanner her degree which she said was a memory to keep.

Coming back home to Alcona County was important to both her and her husband because they were both from this area and wanted their three daughters to grow up here. "It's a great place to raise kids and a safe place to raise kids. We do a darn good job of educating students here," she said.

Roxanne's hope for the teachers and staff she leaves behind is that they continue to weather the storm, stick together and continue the good work by staying true to their passion.

"Don't let the mud throwing dim your light. Technology isn't going to be the best way to teach. Education is here for the socialization of society. Kids doing home school and individual online learning is not going to help our society. We need public schools to do that. Present the diversity there is and raise thinkers to handle it," Roxanne said.

Her advice for her successor is to put themselves first by making their health and personal well-being their top priority. She warned without doing that, they will struggle and burn out. "You've got good people here that will welcome you with open arms. Don't let them compare you to me. Be your own person and make it yours," she said.

Roxanne hopes to spend more time with her daughters by traveling between Baltimore, Md., Chicago, Ill. and Ossineke to visit them after retirement. She is also looking forward to having a lot more time and fun with her four grandsons, two of which are three-years-old and the other two are about six-months-old.

Roxanne plans to travel and see more of western United States and will be remodeling a home she purchased in Harrisville. She enjoys wood working as her dad, in addition to teaching, was a finish carpenter, as was her grandfather who owned Sterling Construction.

Northland Super Savers

Earlier this month in honor of Money Smart Week, Northland Area Federal Credit Union staff visited the Chosen Ranch Community Center in Lincoln and displayed their super saving powers to youth and adults.

Mike McParlan, Wendy Lee, Jenn Agtergael, Kelly Evans and Matt Duthler spoke on the power of saving early and investing as well. Frank Dimercurio, founder and director of The Chosen Ranch, spoke on his own experiences with money and the importance of saving and investing early. Attendees left with money saving knowledge and handouts to start them on their own paths to becoming Super Savers as well as a surplus of tools for their own superhero utility belts.

W.S.C.S. installs new officers

June 6, 1968 ~ The June meeting of the W.S.C.S. of the Harrisville United Methodist Church was held Monday night in the dining room of the Christian Education Building.

Installation of officers, who do not take office until September under the new United organization, were installed in impressive services. Twenty members were present.

The installation ceremony opened with a message from Mrs. D. Bates regarding the work of the officers and the society and she was assisted in the ceremony by Mrs. W. Fogelsinger. Each officer received a small towel on her arm, as a reminder of Christ's words, "I am among you as one who serves," and two candles as a symbol of His Call, "Arise, let us be going." In the darkened room, following roll call, the candles were lighted from the altar candle and each officer presented a candle to all members present.

StarWatch By Gary Becker - How the Crow Got His Claw

One of my favorite springtime star patterns is Corvus the Crow, and the instructive mythology associated with it. To find Corvus, start with the Big Dipper about an hour after sundown. The bowl will be high in the north and upside-down. Observe how the handle arcs, and follow this curve across the sky to orangey Arcturus. Continuing southward, the arc swoops lower, reaching blue supergiant Spica which is the alpha star of Virgo the Virgin. You are almost there. Lower and to Spica's right is the quadrilateral of four faint stars which outlines the crow's body. There is an additional luminary directly below the lower right hand star and one above the upper left star of the main grouping which completes the pattern. "A crow you say. No way," but the curvature of the stars mimics the hunched back of a crow. Sipping a glass of wine may help, but using binoculars will be a little more persuasive in revealing all six stars. In the past, crows were light feathered and sang melodiously, but that all changed with Corvus, who was Apollo's most trusted messenger. One hot, summer's day, Corvus was dispatched to bring his master a cup of cool water from Apollo's favorite spring. At once Corvus flew off to complete his appointed task, but upon arriving by the water, he noticed some ripening figs, his favorite food. Dallying by the spring for several days, he gorged himself on the figs, and then flew back to Apollo with the water. Troubled by the delay, Apollo demanded an excuse, and Corvus insisted that a water snake had prevented him from retrieving his drink in a timely manner. Apollo quickly realized that the crow was lying, for as Corvus spoke, pieces of regurgitated fig leaves fell from his beak. Enraged by the crow's deceit, Apollo darkened his feathers and changed Corvus' voice to a caw, then banished him to the sky to be placed on a slithering water snake (Hydra) with his back to a cup (Crater) of clear, cool water just beyond his reach. And that's no crow! www.astronomy.org

Moments In Time

By The History Channel

- On June 17, 1885, the dismantled Statue of Liberty, a gift from the people of France, arrives in New York Harbor packed in more than 200 cases. The copper and iron statue was reassembled and dedicated the following year.
 - On June 13, 1895, Emile Levassor drives a Panhard et Levassor car with a two-cylinder, 750-rpm, four-horsepower engine to victory in the world's first real automobile race. He completed the 732-mile course in just under 49 hours, at a then-impressive speed of about 15 mph.
 - On June 15, 1917, two months after America entered World War I against Germany, Congress passes the Espionage Act. The act made it a crime to convey information intended to interfere with the U.S. armed forces prosecution of the war or to promote the success of the country's enemies.
 - On June 12, 1940, Edsel Ford agrees to manufacture 9,000 Rolls-Royce-designed engines to be used in British and U.S. airplanes in World War II. A biography about Edsel's father, Henry, later revealed that Henry had already accepted a contract to work with the German government. He eventually reversed his position.
 - On June 14, 1951, the U.S. Census Bureau dedicates UNIVAC, the world's first commercially produced electronic digital computer. Weighing 16,000 pounds, UNIVAC used 5,000 vacuum tubes, and could perform about 1,000 calculations per second.
 - On June 16, 1963, aboard Vostok 6, Soviet cosmonaut Valentina Tereshkova becomes the first woman to travel into space. She returned to Earth after 48 orbits, having spent more time in space than all U.S. astronauts combined to that date.
 - On June 11, 1979, actor John Wayne, born Marion Morrison in Iowa, dies at age 72. In his early acting jobs Wayne was credited as Duke Morrison, a childhood nickname derived from the name of his beloved pet dog.

Strange But True

- It was computer guru Jef Raskin who made the following sage observation: "Imagine if every Thursday your shoes exploded if you tied them the usual way. This happens to us all the time with computers, and nobody thinks of complaining."
- The Secret Service is well-known today as the protector of the U.S. president, so you might be surprised to learn that it was originally established to fight counterfeit currency.
- The world record for the most published works by a single author is held by L. Ron Hubbard (who also, incidentally, founded the Church of Scientology). His first work was published in February 1934, and his final work -- number 1,084 -- was published in March 2006.
- Doubtless you've heard of the Taj Mahal in India, but did you know that there is a tourist attraction in America that is so grand it is popularly known as the Taj Mahal of the West? In 1968, a group of Hare Krishnas founded the New Vrindaban Community near Wheeling, West Virginia. Though they began on 100 acres with no electricity or running water, the community now covers more than 1,200 acres and features Prabhupada's Palace of Gold, an ornate edifice of gold, marble and hand-carved teakwood. The award-winning rose garden alone is said to be worth a trip.
- Those who study such things claim that in the wild, animals don't die of old age.
- The town of Key Largo, Florida, did not exist before the 1948 film of that name starring Humphrey Bogart made it famous.
- Due to a series of earthquakes in 1811 and 1812, the Mississippi River ran backward for a time.

smelt, you have a good chance of catching fish. Orange, chartreuse, blue and chrome spoons were effective.

Pier anglers found walleye when casting jigs and body baits or floating crawlers. A few Atlantics were caught around the piers when casting a small twister tail jig or still-fishing with inflated crawlers. Channel cats and carp were caught when still-fishing with leeches and crawlers after dark. Freshwater drum and a couple smallmouth bass were caught on jigs, body baits and crawlers.

• AuSable River: Water temperatures were in the mid to upper 60s. Steelhead catches are winding down but anglers are still getting a few when drifting flies, mostly between Foote Dam and the High Banks Overlook. Walleye caught when drifting crawlers and leeches or when floating them from shore. Most walleye were caught in the deeper holes down near the mouth. Carp, suckers, rock bass, and freshwater drum were caught when floating crawlers.

• Higgins Lake: Lake trout have been caught in 80 to 100 feet when trolling or when jigging cast masters or Swedish pimples just off the bottom in the early morning. The smallmouth bass action was good in 10 to 20 feet and rock bass are being caught everywhere. Perch anglers are trying but catch rates were spotty.

• Houghton Lake: Walleye were still being caught early morning and late evening. Try crawlers or leeches on a harness or spinners. The bluegill bite picked up with the warmer weather. Some nice sunfish have also been caught. Crappie slowed so anglers will have to fish deep as they do not like the hot weather.

We Need Your Help!

It's been a dream of many in the community to see a park on the small lot next to the Richard's Pharmacy building.

We need $6,000 to secure the property and will be writing grants to landscape the future park. The plan for the park will be a mix of hardscape and easy maintenance shrubs and trees. A large patio area would allow for multiple uses for the community. Art displays and places to sit would be the focus. The location for this park is perfectly located as it can be seen from US-23 and is near local business. Any questions please call Becky Bean at (989)724-6569

Yes, I want to help make this dream come true!

"Dry stone" building

The Garden Bug

Stone is the oldest construction material known to man and has been used for thousands of years. In colonial times, native stone without mortaring was used for houses, barns, courthouses, offices, banks, shops, inns, churches, mills, dams, bridges, iron furnaces, lime kilns, distilleries, retaining walls, embankments and bridges. Many are still standing today. The Dry Stone Conservancy's mission is to preserve such historic structures, to advance the dry stone masonry craft, and to create a center for training and expertise nationwide. - Brenda Weaver
