New, full-time music program engages Alcona students

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

"Music gives a soul to the universe, wings to the mind, flight to the imagination and life to everything."

~ Plato

Once again Alcona Community Schools has a full-time and fully invested music teacher who is excited about the possibilities of growing the music program.

Emma Pendergrass said she was intrigued about filling the position of music instructor when she heard the current program was still in its infancy with only a part-time teacher instructing just a few days a week.

Music was something the school district did not offer for several years and just got back after student, Ben Thomas, rallied hard three years ago to get donations of over $10,000 in just a few months to bring the program back. His efforts caught the attention of the school board which decided two years ago to hire part-time retired music teacher, Ray Reynolds, to teach beginning band to sixth grade students.

"When I interviewed for the position, the school wanted to add high school choir, high school band and fifth grade general music. As a new teacher just beginning my career I saw this as a great opportunity for me to produce and develop a program, rather than walk into an already built program. I'm excited to see what I can do for the school and the students here," Pendergrass said.

Pendergrass is instructing fifth grade general music at the elementary school, high school choir, high school band, sixth grade beginning band and seventh and eighth grade combined band classes.

Pendergrass began work in the summer to get started. Even though there were classes taught in the main band room, many of the adjoining practice rooms and supply cupboards were still being used as storage dumping sites. Pendergrass said she probably filled two dumpsters with junk found in those spaces.

"The floors were covered in dirt, dead bugs, rat poop, you name it. I vacuumed and washed out every corner and then got started vacuuming out all the instrument cases. Even though the school year has already started, there is still a lot more to be done," she said.

Pendergrass explained that to ensure school instruments loaned to students remain in good condition, she had to initiate a fee of $25 per semester to students wanting to use school loaned instruments. The fee will help pay for repairs at the end of the year.

She said many instruments cost $100 or more to repair and because of the amount of use, it would take over half of her budget just to get them repaired -- funds which she will need to purchase music and other necessary items for her student's education.

According to Pendergrass mostly sixth graders are using the school loaned instruments. Many of the seventh and eighth grade students either rent their instruments through music stores or own their own instrument. She feels the fee will also remind students to take very good care of their instrument. After she sees what the repair costs will be at the end of this school year, she may tweak the fee accordingly next year.

Pendergrass grew up in Lake Orion, Mich., and obtained a bachelor's degree in music education from Central Michigan University (CMU). She said both of her parents are artistic, her father played piano and was in band, her mother was an artist.

Music program allows student to benefit from his effort

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

It was almost three years ago when an Alcona Middle School student rallied his eighth grade Make a Difference (MAD) project around obtaining enough donations to hire a music instructor for the school. Today he is enrolled in the school district's new full-time band program.

Ben Thomas, a junior, set his sights high in order to collect enough funds to hire a music teacher, something the school district had not had in several years. He fell far short of the $60,000 dollars he would need to fulfill his wish, but did collect over $10,000 in just a few months.

His drive and ambition caught the attention of the Alcona Community Schools Board of Education which realized, through the young man's efforts, how badly a music program was needed.

A newly retired music instructor from Alpena School District offered to help. Ray Reynolds was hired in 2016 to teach beginning band twice a week to sixth grade students. Reynolds said at the time he was hired he would only work part-time and for just a few years until they could hire a full-time instructor.

Thomas explained he knew from the very beginning of his MAD project he would never be able to take advantage of his hard-earned effort. He understood since the music program was gone from the school district for such a long time, it would have to be reintroduced to younger students and its growth would be slow.

He didn't care. He knew how music would touch younger Alcona students' lives, "It didn't bother me that I wouldn't get any instruction from my effort. I knew that was the right thing for the program. I just wanted music to come back to the school. I wanted the kids coming up to have that," Thomas said.

Instead of using the funds Thomas collected to pay a teacher, the school paid for the instructor and Thomas' funds were used to repair and purchase new instruments.

Seeing the impact music had on students and the number of students interested in the program, the school district hired a new, full-time instructor and an opportunity to take a high school band class opened.

Thomas jumped at the chance. "I was going to take a college class in welding and technical math, but when I heard I could take band I dropped the college class. I couldn't fit both in my schedule," Thomas said.

Music means a lot to Thomas who gets more than just entertainment from it, "When

Highway dedication for the late Peter Pettalia

Sen. Jim Stamas and Rep. Sue Allor joined friends and family of the late Rep. Peter Pettalia at a ceremony dedicating a memorial highway in Pettalia's honor last Friday.

"The dedication of a part of Heritage Route 23 through Pete's home county is a fitting tribute to his life and the tremendous impact he had on so many people," said Stamas, R-Midland. "Pete was a personal friend and a common-sense public servant who did his best to improve our state and serve the people in northern Michigan.

"He loved his family, his friends and the community. While he is missed by everyone who knew him, this memorial highway will ensure that he is never forgotten."

In June, Governor Rick

Snyder signed Senate Bill 622 designating the portion of US-23 in Presque Isle County between Maple Drive and Misiak Highway as the "Peter A. Pettalia Memorial Highway."

Pettalia served three terms in the Michigan House of Representatives from 2011 until his death in September 2016 in an accident on his way down to the Capitol for session.

"As I travel northeastern Michigan and carry out my duties in Lansing, I continue to hear stories about the work that Representative Pettalia did on our behalf during his time in the legislature," said Allor, R-Wolverine. "He paved the way for future public servants from our area to continue on a road of success, fighting for the people of the 106th House District."

Pettalia's wife, Karen, spoke at the dedication, which was attended by many of Pettalia's family, friends and former colleagues.

Prior to serving in the Legislature, Pettalia served as Presque Isle Township supervisor for 16 years and as a volunteer fire fighter for the East Grand Lake Fire Department for 15 years. Pettalia was a member of several Presque Isle and Alpena area organizations and enjoyed spending time with his wife, children and granddaughters.

The memorial will have no fiscal impact on the state or local government. State law requires private contributions cover all the costs of erecting and maintaining the memorial highway signs.

In 2001 the Sandersons moved to Harrisville. Mrs. Sanderson continued her involvement in local government and served as the City of Harrisville's clerk for eight years. She served as an alderman on the Harrisville City Council for approximately 10 years.

She also volunteered for local events like the Sunrise Side Wine and Food Festival in Harrisville. She was on the committee that organized and completed the bike path that goes along the "Sunrise Side" coast in Harrisville. Mrs. Sanderson was also very involved in the "Pure Michigan" tourism campaign.

The Sandersons enjoyed spending several winter weeks in Florida and would frequently visit the east coast to see her brother in Connecticut. She thoroughly enjoyed spending quality time with her sons and her grandchildren.

Free Stroke Screenings

St. Joseph Health System, in conjunction with St. Mary's of Michigan Field Neurosciences Institute, will provide free stroke screenings on Friday, Sept. 14 from 9 a.m. to noon in Classrooms A & B at SJHS.

The stroke screenings include a total cholesterol test, glucose and blood pressure check. The screenings are recommended for those who haven't had their cholesterol tested in at least six months. On Stage

The Shoreline Players Youth Drama Association (SPYDA) will present the interactive, improv mystery, “A Medieval Mystery” on Saturday, Sept. 15 at 7 p.m. “A Medieval Mystery” begins in a kingdom far, far away at the birthday celebration for Princess Elizabeth. Everyone has gathered to pay their respects to the royal family and celebrate. But not everything in the kingdom is as joyous as it may appear.

Anyone interested in attending should not be concerned about the production being interactive. It's like playing the game of Clue. Appetizers and birthday cake provided by local restaurants. Audience members work to determine who, why and how the crime was committed by asking questions, observing and, of course, eavesdropping is encouraged.

Tickets are $7 and will be available at the Shoreline box office. The Shoreline Players Theater is located at 6000 N. Skeel Ave. in Oscoda, next to the Robert Parks Library on the former Wurtsmith Air Force Base. For more information, go to www.shoreline-players.org or call (989) 739-3586.

I get stressed, I come home and I play music. I listen to music a lot. During long car rides or at school when I have free time, music is playing. It gives me a lot of pleasure to play. I enjoy being able to make something that sounds good and I like showing people I can do it," Thomas said.

Thomas began playing the guitar when he was about 13 years old, explaining that was when guitar lessons started as an after-school enrichment class taught by volunteers.

He immediately took to playing and eventually bought himself a piano to practice on.

"Now I'm in the school band. I'm playing tenor saxophone, snare drum and other percussion instruments. I'd like to learn to play the trumpet too or something in the brass family," Thomas said.

Thomas has eclectic taste in music. He said there are so many different genres of music which appeal to him it is hard to just choose one type of music. Like many musicians, Thomas is disciplined about practicing and tries to practice three to four hours every day.

He would very much like to see a pep band at the school and hopes the new teacher, Emma Pendergrass, can make that happen in time for him to enjoy being in it during his senior year.

Before music came back, Thomas was thinking technical training such as welding would be in his career path, now he has visions of some day becoming a music producer or sound specialist. "That's really a passion I have and one I think I'd like to follow," Thomas said.

In addition to his music passion, Thomas has been heavily involved for a few years in the robotics club, he is playing soccer this year and is on the Northeastern Youth Advisory Council. He said when the after-school guitar lessons start back up, he would like to take part in that again explaining the class is popular with students but they are always looking for more who would like to join.

Someday he would like to attend Michigan State University, but only if they have a good music program at the school. Luckily, he does not have to make that decision this year.

Thomas is thrilled with the new band program, "The new teacher is great. We only have a few kids in high school band and some of them are brand new to the instrument and new to reading music. Mrs. Pendergrass is really helping them out. When I first started playing music, I didn't know how to read it.

"It's like learning another language but reading music has helped me with my other school studies. It helped me to learn how to learn."

GOT OLD TIRES?
Recycle Alcona has teamed up with the DEQ for a residential scrape tire drop off day. On Sept. 29, 2018 from 9AM – 2PM at the ARA Site (Alcona Fair Ground). Five tires are free, additional car/truck tires $1.00, tractor tires $5.00. You must have a special haul permit, if there are more than 10 tires at one time. The DEQ has explained that this is for residential, not businesses so they are not allowed to drop off tires. If your farm is under the "Right to Farm Act" you are considered to be a business and therefore can't be part of the drop off. For further information call Bill Thompson at 724-5077.

Tigers drop battle of F-41 to Oscoda

By Ben Murphy
Sports Writer

The Alcona varsity football team wasn't able to slow down a high-powered Oscoda football team last Thursday night. The Tigers, playing host to the Owls, put themselves in a big hole early and ultimately dropped the North Star League game 55-8.

"They were able to take advantage of their athleticism on the edge and through the air," said head coach Jason Somers. "I saw our team get better again this week. We did some really good things and were able to take advantage of some opportunities that helped our kids grow."

The Owls scored on a pair of pass plays and a running play to lead 21-0 after the first quarter and took a 28-0 edge on a two-yard scoring run.

The Tigers got on the board after a long drive, capped by a 15-yard touchdown run by Mason Clark. Zach Stephenson hit Jacob Sytek on the two-point conversion.

The Tigers' momentum was short lived however, as the Owls returned the ensuing kick-off 87-yards for a touchdown and 34-8 halftime lead.

Oscoda added a touchdown pass in the third quarter and a pair of rushing touchdowns in the fourth to round out the scoring.

Clark finished with 48 yards and a touchdown on eight carries. Ethan Long ran 12 times for 46 yards and Dominic Howe ran 16 times for 42 yards.

Stephenson finished four-of-eight passing for 41 yards, with Sytek getting one catch for 25 yards. Sytek also had an interception on defense. Clark led the defense with 11 tackles and Stewart took down eight.

Alcona (0-3 overall, 0-1 NSL) hosts Sault Ste. Marie (1-2) on Friday, Sept 14. The Blue Devils are coming off a 42-20 loss to Marquette last week. The two teams have one prior meeting, a 2004 win for the Sault.

"They are a big and powerful team," Somers said. "We will prepare for their physicality and be ready to give it our all. As always, we will have to play our best and continue to get better."

SENIOR LIFESTYLES

Which flu shot is right for you?

Dear Savvy Senior,
I've been reading that there are a bunch of different flu vaccines for seniors this flu season. Which flu shot is right for me?

Flu-Conscious Carol

Dear Flu-Conscious,
It wasn't that long ago that if you wanted to get protected from the flu, you simply got a flu shot. But now days, there are so many flu vaccine options you might feel like you are ordering off a menu. To help you decide which flu shot is right for you, you need to consider your health, age and personal preferences.

Just as they do every year, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommends a seasonal flu shot to everyone six months of age and older, but it's especially important for seniors who are at higher risk of developing serious flu-related complications. The flu puts more than 200,000 people in the hospital each year and kills an average of 24,000 – 80 to 90 percent of whom are seniors.

Here's the rundown of the different vaccine options (you only need to get one of these):

- Standard flu vaccines: If you want to keep things basic, you can't go wrong with a "standard (trivalent) flu shot," which has been around for more than 40 years and protects against three different strains of flu viruses.

This year's version protects against two A strains (H1N1 and H3N2), and one influenza B virus.

- Or, for additional protection, you should consider the "quadrivalent flu vaccine" that protects against four types of influenza – the same three strains as the standard trivalent flu shot, plus an additional B-strain virus.

- Senior specific vaccines: If you're age 65 or older and want some extra protection, you should consider the "Fluzone High-Dose" or "FLUAD."

The Fluzone High-Dose has four times the amount of antigen as a regular flu shot does, while the FLUAD contains an added ingredient called adjuvant MF59. Both vaccines provide a stronger immune response for better protection.

- Egg allergy vaccines: If you're allergic to eggs, your flu shot options are "Flucelvax" or "FluBlok." Neither of these vaccines uses chicken eggs in their manufacturing process.

- Fear of needle vaccines: If you don't like needles, and you're between the ages of 18 and 64, your options are the "Fluzone Intradermal" or "AFLURIA" vaccine.

The Fluzone intradermal flu shot uses a 1/16-inch long micro-needle to inject the vaccine just under the skin, rather than deeper in the muscle like standard flu shot. While the AFLURIA vaccine is administered by a jet injector, which is a medical device that uses a high-pressure, narrow stream of fluid to penetrate the skin instead of a needle.

Savvy Senior

You should also know that if you're a Medicare beneficiary, Part B covers all flu vaccinations, but if you have private health insurance, you'll need to check with your plan to see which vaccines they do or don't cover.

Two other important vaccinations the CDC recommends to seniors, especially this time of year, are the pneumococcal vaccines for pneumonia. Around one million Americans are hospitalized with pneumonia each year, and about 50,000 people die from it.

The CDC recommends that all seniors, 65 or older, get two vaccinations – Prevnar 13 and Pneumovax 23. Both vaccines, which are administered just once at different times, work in different ways to provide maximum protection.

If you haven't yet received any pneumococcal vaccine you should get the Prevnar 13 first, followed by Pneumovax 23 six to 12 months later. Medicare Part B covers both shots, if they are taken at least one year apart. To locate a vaccination site that offers both flu and pneumonia shots, visit Vaccines.gov and type in your ZIP code.

Tigers blank W-P in league opener

By Ben Murphy
Sports Writer

A little rain didn't slow down the Alcona varsity soccer team last Wednesday night. Lightning, for the record didn't either, as the Tigers blew by host Whittemore-Prescott 8-0 in its North Star League opener.

The Tigers led 3-0 just a few minutes into the game when lightning struck and caused the game's first delay. The teams returned to the field after the delay, but moments after a whistle started play, the action was called off again due to another lightning strike.

After play resumed the next time, the Tigers wasted no time in finding the back of the net, eventually ending the night early with the 8-0 mercy victory.

Joel Steiner and Elliot Dubuque had two goals each to lead the offense. Brett Nelson, Travis Buurma, Matt Warner and Justin Smigelski had one goal each.

Aidan Wrobel made two saves in goal to preserve the shutout.

Alcona (5-1 overall, 1-0 NSL) was at home with Oscoda on Monday, was in Fairview on Wednesday and hosts Grayling on Tuesday, Sept. 18.

She followed in her father's footsteps with a love for music and her sister took after their mother and is currently in art school.

Pendergrass began piano lessons when she was seven years old and played the piano competitively from age 10 throughout her high school years. Lake Orion offered band classes to elementary students and she began playing the saxophone when she was 10.

She developed an interest in singing in college with vocal jazz. "I was a classical saxophone player but was always interested in jazz. After that I joined the CMU concert choir, a few summers ago, I went with the concert choir to New York and we sang at Carnegie Hall. It was pretty amazing," Pendergrass said.

She is thinking about several future possibilities with her students and involvement in the community. "I'd like to get an after-school pep band going this year and possibly start a marching band next year. I like to compete. I came from a competitive high school group with 160 students in the band. I'm hoping to see if we can get the seventh and eighth grade combined band to festival this year," Pendergrass said.

She explained festival is where several schools in a district attend an event to play for judges, hear their critique and get rated. Since the Alcona Community School bands are still considerably new, they will probably not get rated this year but Pendergrass would like them to attend just for the experience of playing somewhere else and to listen to the judges' comments. She is currently planning a Christmas concert for the combined band to perform for the community.

Pendergrass is excited about moving to northeast Michigan and has purchased a home in Oscoda. "I would like to be involved in the community here. It would be fun to invite alumni who play an instrument to come to a homecoming game or similar event to play with the students. In the future I would consider assisting with a community band, based on interest," Pendergrass said.

She said her biggest obstacle so far was having 40 students sign up for a class only to lose nearly half of them when their physical education class was only offered at the same time as band. Pendergrass said, "That's okay though because I now have students who really want to be here. That's exciting to me. Music brings a lot of satisfaction and creativity. I'm hoping to bring that to the students here."

Alcona Community School Superintendent Dan O'Connor said the school district was thrilled to have Pendergrass teaching music. "As we try to prepare students for the future by utilizing technology, we also want to have a balance by ensuring access to the arts. Music is a crucial component in that equation. To offer elementary music that prepares students for sixth through twelfth grade choir and band is a tremendous step for our school and community," O'Connor said.

The Officers and Members of Alcona Lodge, wish to express our Gratitude to all of the following individuals and business. All of those listed were instrumental in making the 31st Annual Golf Outing another wonderful Success. Thank you One and All for your Support.

Horace Jack tells of his trip to France and England

September 12, 1918 ~ Somewhere in France, Aug. 9.

Friend Editor:—

I will write you now as we were told tonight of what we could write.

No doubt you will or would like to something of our trip overseas—which isn't finished yet but has been very pleasant so far. We left Custer some time ago, took a route via N. Y. to England and the trip on water was sure great. Some of the boys had as many as six meals in a day—three down and three up—but that is all in one's lifetime when in the army. After we left the boat, we went to a rest camp at (deleted) England. That town is one of the oldest there and was once the capital. It sure looked odd to me as all buildings are built of brick or stone, and the streets are so narrow we had to march in a column of twos. About all one sees there in the line of autos is two-wheeled carts; but nevertheless, the sights one sees are great; very pretty scenery, such as gardens and flower beds, etc. Well, we stayed at that camp about 48 hrs., so you see there wasn't much "rest" to it. From there we went to another camp of "rest" at (deleted)—another picturesque spot of "the old country" as some people call it. That is a very pleasant place too and I must say I would like to have stayed there for a little while to look things over, but I am in the army and that prevents me from doing so. Well, we only stayed there a short time when we crossed the channel and landed in France. You will note I've told you the places where I have been, but I can't tell you where I now am or any dates such as when we sailed or when we landed, or in fact anything about military matters. Well, the sights here in France, what I've seen of it, is better still. Everything interests the eye. Since we came here we have been in another place of "rest", but we don't stay long enough to get very much of that stuff, so I've begun to think that there is no such thing as rest for one while in the army.. However, everything is fine and dandy and if everyone is like me they are sure enjoying it.

I've often heard the girls of the U.S. say that when a soldier gets over here they forget the home girls and think more of those here in France and England; but I fail to see any that suits my eye. I just heard one of the other boys say: "None of those girls for me; I say American girls first, now and forever. Amen." The girls in the U. S. don't need to be afraid of us sticking here after the war is over.

We are getting good eats and lots of it so I guess Uncle Sam will care for us alright He has so far anyway.

Tobacco is cheaper here than in the States, so we can smoke yet awhile at cost.

Well, maybe I'd better close for now as it is getting dark and I guess I've written about enough—and will say good night.

Don't let anyone worry as we Yanks will sure help finish this war and we will come marching home. Ill try and write again soon. Remaining as ever your friend and well-wisher, (Sgt.) Horace Jack.

StarWatch By Gary Becker - Record Misery for Late Summer

Relative humidity, expressed as a percentage, is the ratio of the amount of moisture in the air compared to the maximum amount of moisture that can be present in the atmosphere at that temperature. The dew point is the temperature at which a given parcel of air will achieve a relative humidity of 100 percent. Expressed in another way, the dew point is the temperature to which the air needs to be cooled in order to become completely saturated with moisture. If the air were cooled even more, water vapor would condense out of the atmosphere, generally as fog or precipitation. The highest dew point recorded was 95 degrees F. at Dhahran in eastern Saudi Arabia on July 8, 2003. With an air temperature of 108 degrees F., it felt like the temperature (heat index) was 178 degrees F. (World Meteorological Organization). Last month when I was at the Mars Desert Research Station near Hanksville, UT where Moravian has its timeshare in the MDRS Robotic Observatory, the temperature climbed to nearly 105 degrees F., on one day but with a relative humidity of only 15 percent. The dew point was a mere 45 degrees F. If consideration is given to the heat index which factors humidity into the equation to gain a better approximation of how the air temperature feels, it was still 105 degrees F. at MDRS; however, the heat index on the near 95-degree days back East was also about 105 degrees F. A low humidity environment is also much more conducive for making good astronomical observations. Weather conditions are generally clearer and the sky more transparent because it is more difficult to attain the dew point to form clouds. It is even more difficult to reach the dew point near the surface where the ground has been warmed greatly by the sun during the daytime. Thus worrying about moisture collecting on the optics of a telescope and other equipment exposed to the nighttime air becomes a nonissue. That is not the case in the eastern half of the country where dew shields and heaters on telescopes have to be employed to prevent condensation from occurring on the instrumentation. www.astronomy.org

Strange But True

By Samantha Weaver

- It was beloved American humorist Will Rogers who made the following sage observation: "Everything is funny as long as it's happening to somebody else."
 - If you have spent a great deal of time in the Scottish highlands, you might be familiar with the term "sgiomlaireachd." Evidently, the habit of dropping in at mealtimes is common enough there to require a word to describe it.
 - The world's most popular fruit is the banana. In the United States, people consume more bananas than apples and oranges put together.
 - How would you like to brush your teeth with salt, chalk or ground brick? The first tooth powders used with toothbrushes were made of just such materials.
 - Ever wonder why magazine publisher Hugh Hefner chose a rabbit as the symbol of his Playboy magazine? Evidently, when the mogul was a small boy, one of his treasured possessions was a blanket with bunnies all over it.
 - Those who study such things say that Italians drink, on average, 26 gallons of wine every year.
 - The English word "vegetable" comes from the Latin word "vegetare," which means "to invigorate."

- Thought for the Day: "I divide my officers into four groups. There are clever, diligent, stupid and lazy officers. Usually two characteristics are combined. Some are clever and diligent -- their place is the General Staff. The next lot are stupid and lazy -- they make up 90 percent of every army and are suited to routine duties." Anyone who is both clever and lazy is qualified for the highest leadership duties, because he possesses the intellectual clarity and the composure necessary for difficult decisions." One must beware of anyone who is stupid and diligent -- he must not be entrusted with any responsibility because he will always cause only mischief." -- Kurt Freiherr von Hammerstein-Equord

This is a nice 10 acre parcel on a paved road. It's a few hundred yards from Springport Hills Golf course, 5 minutes from town and the boat ramp. Property is a little wider than most 10s at 439', but is still almost 1000' deep. This give you a little more room width wise. Parcel is wooded but has some open areas that would be great for a home site. This is rare acreage on a paved road this close to town. 18-0074 $28,900
