Fire fighters from five departments respond to the report of a fire at the Dockside Cafe in Harrisville on Tuesday, July 13 at approximately 7 p.m. According to Harrisville Fire Chief Dan Klukowski, several fire fighters were at the Harrisville Harbor with fire equipment when a passerby reported seeing smoke at the cafe three blocks away. "When we arrived, smoke was coming from the eves in the back of the restaurant," Klukowski said. No one was inside or around the building when fire fighters arrived. Tenants from the two apartments on the second story of the building next to the cafe were not home and fire fighters entered the downstairs area of that building to ensure fire had not spread through the walls. "I requested mutual aid as soon as we started rolling out hoses," Klukowski said. "Greenbush, Mikado, Lincoln and Alcona Township fire departments responded. There was a great amount of crew there and it was awesome. I didn't want to take the chance of not having (crew and equipment) with the former clinic building next door and the bank not far away -- it could have gotten ugly pretty quickly. It is easier to send people home rather than wish they were there," Klukowski said. Fire fighters cleared the scene around 9 p.m. Alcona County Sheriff Deputy and fire investigator Rob Clink said his investigation determined that no foul play is suspected, and the origin of the fire was in the rear restroom of the cafe. Harrisville's finest gardens on annual walk

By Mary Weber Staff Writer

Perseverance, tranquility, history and a bit of whimsey unite the majesty of the Harrisville gardens that will be featured during the 17th annual Garden Walk of the Sunrise Gardening Club.

The walk, which will be held on Saturday, July 24, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. rain or shine, is a journey bursting with color, texture and artful design by gardeners who passionately care for their gardens.

The eight gardens featured demonstrate a unique blend of horticultural skills; finding what will grow well in the soils of northeast Michigan and the gardener's personality and taste, making each a unique treasure.

Walkers will find shade and comfort abounding at a rural acreage property where angels hide alongside lilies and sweeping trees seemingly kiss the tended grounds. Massive flower beds pop with color to encircle the gardener's oasis home, well-hidden at the back of acres of manicured lawn and a moose that welcomes all visitors along the drive up to the garden.

There are gardens every property owner can relate to, gardens that just grow without a plan and gardens with a definite plan that deer and other wildlife desire to change on a daily basis.

Garden walkers are sure to enjoy a historic pond-side home garden which is the residence to multiple varieties of poultry and a family with three young daughters who together play in unison on cocoa mulch under large beds of edible and ornamental flora. Look for the herb garden close by the kitchen for easy access and the berries ripening that will soon be made into wine.

While not all gardens can

Ten-digit dialing will soon be required for all calls in several area codes

Telephone users in four Michigan area codes are required to include an area code in every phone call — known as 10-digit dialing — as part of the rollout of a new way to reach the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline.

Callers in Michigan's 616, 810, 906 and 989 area codes started dialing with 10 digits (area code plus telephone number) on April 24, the start date for what's called a permissive dialing period designed to get customers used to the new requirement of including an area code when dialing, even for local calls. Callers who forget and dial only seven digits will still be connected during the permissive dialing period.

The change is in preparation for the July 16, 2022, activation of a new three-digit dialing code — 988 — to reach the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline. The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) in July 2020 designated 988 as the abbreviated dialing code to reach the suicide prevention hotline that provides 24/7, free and confidential support for people in distress, prevention and crisis resources, and best practices for profession-

The FCC's order requires all telecommunications carriers, interconnected Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP) providers, and one-way VoIP providers (covered providers) to make any network changes necessary to ensure that users can dial 988 to reach the existing National Suicide Prevention Lifeline by July 16, 2022. Until then, customers must continue to dial 1-800-273-8255 (TALK) to reach the Lifeline.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,

I'm writing because I'm very upset with the rules that the DNR came up with.

I hunt and fish and own land in the north. I have been putting in for a bear license for 10 years and still haven't got one because of this point system they have put on bear

I have talked to a lot of hunters and there are a lot who feel like I do. This point system is, to me, an unfair act. It needs to go back to the old way to make it fair for every one of us.

I know some who have gotten a license their first year and some longer... and some, like me, who haven't got one yet. Oh, yes, there are some hunt clubs who get bear licenses every year. So, to me this is what I call an unfair

I'm going to be 70 years old and, because of this point system, will probably never get to shoot a bear in my lifetime.

This unfair act needs to be put out... needs to go back where all you had to do was go in and by a bear license that's the fair way for everyone in Michigan. Time to stand up and say no more unfair rules and regulations to seniors and veterans. Make it fair for everyone.

To the Editor,

State Rep. Sue Allor has been tooting her own horn about her frivolous bill to stop vaccine passports. Meanwhile, she's doing the bidding of downstate big businesses by voting to cut off unemployment benefits to Alcona fami-

Nobody in Michigan wants to impose state vaccine passports. Her bill is a distraction. Shame on you, Sue. We deserve better.

> Judith Riley, Haynes Township

To the Editor,

Alcona County has been fortunate to have several talented writers. Renowned author Judith Guest comes to mind. She called Harrisville her summer home.

The new face on the scene is Eric Paul Roorda. Anyone who has read his Alconabased articles can agree this man has done some extensive research on his topics. Everything from Chief Negwegon, Marine City shipwreck and pro superstar baseball player Hazen Cuyler (Alpena News) is rewarding reading.

So, on behalf of several readers, we're glad you like our county, Eric.

Carl Buchner Harrisville To the Editor,

I'm writing about my experience at Jamieson Nursing Home after falling on May 26 and breaking my hip. I was taken by ambulance to Alpena, then to Jamieson's on May 31 for recovery and physical therapy.

Everything-from the nursing staff and nurses' assistants, physical therapist, the food, cleanliness, activity person, housekeeping, laundry and meals - was great. Everyone was always pleasant. Everyone working there really cared.

It was a wonderful experience. However, I hope I don't have to do it again. Thank you everyone at Jamieson Nursing Home.

On June 17, the last day there, the physical therapist said I did so well "we've got to do the two-step." And we did!

I got out just in time to be the campground host at Harrisville State Park with my husband, Glen. This is my 16th year.

In many area codes across the country, 988 is already used as the prefix, or first three digits after the area code, of customer telephone numbers. In order for 988 to dial directly to the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline, any area code that includes the 988 prefix must transition from 7-digit dialing (dialing without the area code) to 10-digit dialing (area code with the telephone number). In Michigan, that means every customer in the 616, 810, 906, and 989 area codes must make the transition. Customers in other Michigan area codes aren't affected by these changes at this time.

"The schedule laid out by the FCC gives customers in the four affected area codes several months to adjust to the new requirement of dialing 10 digits," said Ryan McAnany, acting director of the MPSC's Telecommunications Division. "A smooth transition will help ensure customers stay connected while getting ready for the ultimate enactment of 988 as an easy number for people struggling or contemplating suicide to connect to resources and help in a crisis."

Beginning October 24 all consumers with numbers in the affected Michigan area yet to come. You could say the wurst is served German sausage. Our waiters haven't yet

codes above must dial 10 digits for all local calls. Beginning that day, local calls dialed with only seven digits may not be completed, and a recording may inform you that your call cannot be completed as dialed. If you get this recording, you must hang up and dial again using the area code with the seven-digit telephone number.

What other changes need to be made?

- Important safety and security equipment, such as medical alert devices, and alarm and security systems must be programmed to use 10-digit dialing. Many systems operate on 10-digit dialing by default, but some older equipment may still use seven digits. Contact medical alert or security providers should be contacted to see if equipment needs to be reprogrammed to accommodate the upcoming change to 10-digit local dialing.
- · Any needed reprogramming of alarm and home security equipment must be done during the permissive dialing period from April 24 to October 24 to avoid interruption of services.

Other examples of services that may need to be re-programmed are: life safety systems or medical monitoring devices: PBXs: fax machines: Internet dial-up numbers; fire or burglar alarm and security systems or gates; speed dialers; mobile or other wireless phone contact lists; call forwarding settings, and voice mail services and other similar functions.

- · Be sure to check websites, personal and business stationery, advertising materials, personal and business checks, contact information, personal or pet ID tags and other such items to ensure the area code is included.
 - What will remain the same?
- An individual's telephone number, including current area code, will not change.
- The price of a call, coverage area, or other rates and services will not change.
- What is a local call now will remain a local call regardless of the number of digits dialed.
- Continue to dial 1 plus the area code and the telephone number for all longdistance calls.
- Continue to dial a prefix such as nine when dialing from a multi-line telephone system (in a hotel or office building, for example) as required.
- Still dial just three digits to reach 711 for relay services and 911 for emergency
- If 211, 311, 411, 511, 611 or 811 are currently available in a community, individuals may still dial these codes with just three digits.

The National Suicide Prevention Lifeline can still be reached by dialing 1-800-273-TALK (8255) even after the 988 code is in effect.

Visit the website of the North American Numbering Plan Administrator or email NANPA at 988@somos.com with questions about the dialing procedure change. Or visit the FCC's website.

Dolores K. (Ellis) Kratochvil February 1, 1938 – June 26, 2021 Oscoda, Michigan

Dolores K. (Ellis) Kratochvil, beloved wife, mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother passed away peacefully on Saturday, June 26, 2021, at the Reed City Nursing Home.

She was born in Mikado on February 1, 1938, to the late Frank M. Ellis and Kathryn E. (Kuenzli) Ellis. Dolores graduated from Oscoda High School in 1956 and kept in close contact with her friends from OHS and the Class of '56, as she considered many of them to be her extended family of brothers and sisters. For many years, Dolores helped organize their OHS Class reunions so they wouldn't lose contact with each other.

On April 25, 1957, Dolores married the love of her life, Raymond L. Kratochvil after he was honorably discharged from the United States Air Force in 1956. Following their wedding, they made their home in Oscoda where they raised their four children, Darla (Jerry) Fleming of Hawks, Mich., Kevin (Jeanene) Kratochvil of San Bernardino Calif., Shari (Michael) Chamberlain of Big Rapids, Mich. and Kent (Becky) Kratochvil of Granger, Ind. Dolores and Ray were married for 56 years.

Being with her family was what Dolores adored most. Her six grandchildren, Andrea, Jared, Jennifer, Kayla, Benjamin, and Andrew; and three great-grandchildren, Tyler, Riley and Dylan were her everything. She was immensely proud of them.

Dolores cherished the holidays that brought everyone together to enjoy each other's company and feast on their favorite foods. Dolores was a wonderful cook and made many great dishes, but some of her family's favorites were Beef Burgundy, Cheap Casserole; Duck and Dumplings; chocolate sheet cake; chocolate chip, peanut butter and Lemon Criss-Cross cookies: and her famous homemade chocolate turtle candies.

Family time often meant playing cards or board games, putting together jigsaw puzzles, and rooting for her favorite Michigan sports teams – Detroit Tigers, Red Wings, Lions, and Pistons or MSU and UofM. Her favorite athlete of all time was Al Kaline from the Detroit Tigers.

At a young age, Dolores started working at Roger's Department Store and then, McGill's Department store. She later used her sewing and baking/cake decorating talents to open her own business – The Rainbow Boutique and Bridal Shop. She owned the Boutique until her retirement in 1998.

Dolores is survived by her four children; six grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; one sister, Shirley Owens; one sister-in-law, Irene Regelean of Lincoln, Neb. and many nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband; parents; brother-in-law, Jerry Regelean; and nephew, Ryan Regelean.

Dolores will be remembered for her beautiful smile and warm hugs.

Per her wishes, cremation will take place and a funeral to celebrate her life will occur at a later date.

Memorial donations are suggested to the family to establish a scholarship for Oscoda high students in Dolores' name. Arrangements were made through Gillies Funeral Home in Lincoln

Picking where to retire, smart phones for tech shy seniors

Dear Savvy Senior,

My husband and I will both be retiring in a few years and are interested in relocating to a warmer climate but could use some help. What resources can you recommend for locating and researching good places to retire in the

Retiring at 65

Dear Retiring,

If you're interested in relocating when you retire, like millions of other baby boomers, there are a wide variety of books and online resources that can help you find and research a new location that meet your wants, needs and budget. Here are several to help you get started.

Where to Retire?

If you're at the beginning of your search, a good starting point is to take the "Find Your Best Place" retirement quiz at Sperling's Best Places (Best-Places.net/fybp). This free quiz asks 10 questions on your preferences such as climate, recreation, community size and more, and suggests possible destinations that match your answers. MarketWatch also has a new matchmaking tool called, "Where's the best place for me to retire?" at Market-Watch.com/graphics/bestplace-to-retire/.

Media resources like U.S. News & World Report, Kiplinger's, Forbes and Money Magazine also publish "best places to retire" lists on their websites each year. And be sure you check out Milken's "Best Cities for Successful Aging" (Successful Aging.-MilkenInstitute.org), which ranks 381 U.S. metropolitan areas based on factors that are important to older adults.

You should also consider getting a copy of "America's 100 Best Places to Retire" (the sixth edition book; $25 at Amazon.com) that looks at a range of destinations, and groups some in categories like best college towns, mountain towns, undiscovered towns and main street towns.

Once you find a few areas that interest you, your next step is research them. Here are some important areas you need to investigate.

- Cost of living: Can you afford to live comfortably in the location where you want to retire? Numbeo.com and BestPlaces.net offers tools to compare the cost of living from your current location to where you would like to move. They compare housing costs, food, utilities, transportation and more.
- Taxes: Some states are more tax friendly than others. If you're planning to move to another state, Kiplinger's has a tax guide for retirees at Kiplinger.com/links/ retireetaxmap that lets you find and compare taxes stateby-state. It covers income taxes, sales tax, taxes on retirement income, Social Security benefits taxes, property taxes, and inheritance and estate taxes.
- Crime rate: To evaluate how safe a community or area is, websites like AreaVibes-.com provide crime data for certain localities.

- Climate: To research the climate in the areas you're interested in moving, Sperling's Best Places is again a great resource that offers a climate/weather compare tool BestPlaces.net/climate.
- Healthcare: Does the area you want to relocate have easy access to good healthcare? To locate and research doctors and hospitals in a new area, use Medicare's compare tool at Medicare.gov/carecompare. Also see Healthgrades.com, which provides detailed information on U.S. hospitals and doctors.
- Transportation: If you plan to travel much, or expect frequent visits from your kids or grandkids, convenient access to an airport or train station is a nice advantage. You should also investigate alternative transportation options, since most retirees give up driving in their eighties. To do this visit RidesInSight-.org, a free website that provides information about senior transportation options in local communities throughout the U.S.

Dear Savvy Senior,

Can you recommend some good smartphones for older seniors? I would like to get my 78-year-old mother to upgrade to a smartphone but want something that's easy for her to see and use.

Shopping Around

Dear Shopping,

There are actually several smartphones I can recommend that will provide your mother a simpler, less intimidating smartphone experience. Here are my top three options.

• Apple iPhones: Because

of the quality and functionality of Apple products, an iPhone is a great choice for seniors who are inexperienced with technology. But, to make it easier for you mom to use, you'll need to set it up and customize it to meet her needs and preferences.

To set-up your mom's iPhone and make it seniorfriendly, start by cleaningup/decluttering the home screen, which you can do by deleting the apps your mom won't use and hiding the apps she'll rarely use in labeled folders or the App Library. The fewer options the better!

You'll also want to set up a small number of contacts (with photos) to family and friends that your mom frequently communicates with and install some apps she would enjoy using.

And finally, iPhones have a wide variety of built-in accessibility features you can turn on depending on your mom's needs. These features, which you access through the phone's settings, can help users that have diminished vision, hearing impairment, hand dexterity problems or cognitive loss.

Some popular accessibility features among older iPhone users include larger text and icon display, zoom (screen magnification), magnifier (turns iPhone into a magnifying glass), increased volume and alerts, voice control, find my iPhone, and emergency SOS and medical

ID set up. But there are dozens of other tweaks you can make to enhance your mom's experience with her iPhone.

For a rundown of the different accessibility features and instructions on how to set them up, see Apple.com/accessibility.

If you're interested in this option, the iPhone 12 (5G, 6.1-inch display screen, $800) or iPhone 12 mini (5G, 5.4-inch screen, $700) are excellent choices. Or, for a more budget-friendly phone consider the iPhone SE (4.7-inch screen, $400) that came out in 2020.

• Samsung Galaxy: If you're an android phone user and would like to get your mom a phone that you're familiar with, you should consider a Samsung.

All Samsung phones offer an "Easy Mode" feature in their settings that boosts the text and icon size, and simplifies the home-screen layout and contacts, which makes these phones a nice option for seniors or tech-

These phones also have a variety of accessibility features – see Samsung.com/us/accessibility/galaxy-mobile for instructions – that can accommodate your mom's needs.

The Samsung Galaxy S21 5G (6.2-inch screen, $800) or more moderately priced Galaxy A71 5G (6.7-inch screen, $600) are good choices to consider here.

• Lively Smart: Another less expensive option to consider is to purchase your mom a smartphone that's specifically designed for seniors. The best one available is the new Lively Smart offered by Best Buy.

This phone has a 6.2-inch screen, large text and a simple list-based menu that provides one-touch access to frequently used features like video chat, camera, email and more. It also offers a nice variety of optional health and safety features you can add on like:

Urgent Response, which is a mobile medical alert service that would connect your mom to a Lively agent in emergency situations, 24/7, who would confirm her location and get her the help she needs.

Urgent Care, which would let your mom to speak to a registered nurse or board-certified doctor anytime.

Lively Link, which is an app that sends alerts to family and friends if your mom calls urgent response.

Personal Operator Service can assist your mom with tasks like helping find addresses, setting up appointments booking Lively Rides through a partnership with Lyft and much more.

The Lively Smart is available online at Lively.com or at Best Buy stores for $150.

Female conservation officers continue tradition of protecting and serving

Wife, mother, daughter, sister, aunt, niece, caregiver and friend.

The women who serve in the Michigan Department of Natural Resources Law Enforcement Division are recognized by more than one of these terms, in addition to "officer."

In 1897, Huldah Neal became the first state game warden, paving the career path forward for women. Neal, from Grand Traverse County, was the first female conservation officer in the United States, according to media reports.

Today, there are 21 women who serve at all ranks of the DNR Law Enforcement Division. Like their male counterparts, they have sworn under oath to protect the state's natural resources, environment and the health and safety of the public through effective law enforcement and education.

"It's an honor to our division and the department to work with these qualified and determined women who make a difference every day in their communities and serve as role models to future generations," said Gary Hagler, chief of the DNR Law Enforcement Division.

Andrea Erratt, a 24-year veteran conservation officer, has followed in Neal's footsteps, as the first Michigan DNR female to independently earn the prestigious Shikar Safari Officer of the Year Award in 2019.

Shikar-Safari Club International is a conservation-based organization that presents awards to wildlife law enforcement officers in all states, provinces and territories in the U.S. and Canada. The annual award honors a state officer whose efforts show outstanding performance and achievement among sworn conservation law enforcement personnel.

Beyond national and regional awards given by the club, the DNR Law Enforcement Division selects an officer each year to be presented with the honor on behalf of the organization, as was the case with Erratt.

"It's almost like everything in my life led and prepared me to be a conservation officer," said Erratt, who patrols Antrim County. "I grew up in a family that loved recreating outside and with parents and grandparents who taught me the importance of conservation.

"My parents raised me to believe that I could do anything I put my mind to, as long as I worked hard. I know it's a unique job for a woman, but I love it and work extra hard, so nobody has any reason to question my ability."

Also serving Antrim County is Erratt's law enforcement partner Andrea Albert, who joined the DNR as a conservation officer in 1997. Antrim County is one of two counties in the state patrolled entirely by female conservation officers.

"Before I became a conservation officer, I taught and coached at a community college," Albert said. "After that, I earned my master's degree at Eastern Kentucky University, where I interned with the DNR Parks Division for my master's program.

"I was interested in law enforcement and later became a volunteer conservation officer in Bay City – the physical aspect of the job and the ability to help people in Michigan was a natural fit."

Sgt. Bobbi Lively joined the DNR conservation officer ranks with a passion to deescalate problems and to hold wrongdoers accountable.

"After graduate school, I focused my career on wildlife biology and wetland ecology," said Lively, who supervises officers in four northern Michigan counties. "I didn't like that I couldn't hold people accountable for their wrongdoings, and I saw the positive, direct impact that conservation officers have."

As the only female to graduate from Michigan's 2003 Conservation Officer Recruit School Academy, Conservation Officer Angela Greenway, who patrols Mecosta County, was expected to do everything – mentally and physically – that her male classmates had to accomplish.

"The other female in my class dropped out of the academy around halfway," Greenway said. "At this point, you're in the thick of the academy. I didn't have a roommate to talk to. I was on the women's floor alone, but I got to know my classmates better.

"There were a couple of physical challenges that I had to overcome, like running and the rope climb. To work on the running, I would run at night with a couple of my classmates to get some extra miles in. As for the rope climb, I just worked on strength and technique and by the end I was able to climb the rope as well as my male classmates. It was about finding your limits and pushing past them, and to never give up."

Conservation Officer Shannon Kritz, who patrols Menominee County, was one of two women hired in 2015.

"In the 90s, my mom was bird hunting when two men approached her and told her hunting wasn't for females and to go home," Kritz said. "This stereotype isn't the case anymore. Women are breaking barriers in all types of ways.

Alcona Elementary School is seeking AmeriCorps Reading and Math Interventionists

Alcona Elementary School is looking for AmeriCorps reading and math interventionists for the upcoming school year. In Michigan, 1 in 2 third graders struggle to read at grade level and 40% of 7th graders are proficient in math. You can make a difference by giving your time and talent to help students become successful readers and learners.

Interventionists work one-on-one with kindergarten – 3rd grade students (reading) or with pairs of 4th-5th graders (math). No matter if you're a recent grad, career changer, stay-athome parent or retiree, you can make a great tutor. No experience? No problem. Interventionists receive great training, so they are well equipped to help students grow.

Part-time and full-time positions are available. Reading Corps positions begin September 7th, 2021, and MEC Math Corps positions begin September 13th, 2021.

The flower beds in bloom, the multitude of butterflies and gentle waves lapping the shoreline all seem to whisper "It's all good," something the past owner/gardener would often say with a smile, even while fighting cancer.

The walk is a feast for all senses as walkers feel the softness underfoot on a walkway covered with creeping thyme. Aromas of mint, oregano, basil, sweet woodruff and lemon balm gently float on breezes delighting the nose while the sounds of wind chimes and happy chirping, by the owner/gardener as "beach music" because it looks like a cello and many painted rocks including an owl rock when turned upside down becomes a man with a tall hat.

The savvy horticulturists of this year's walk know how to take the good with the bad when it comes to growing things—even when a flower is spent and no longer brings them joy, they just buy a can of spray paint and color it beautiful again.

To keep the community healthy and COVID-19 free, no refreshments will be available during the walk. Instead. the Sunrise Gardening Club encourages all to pack a picnic lunch and bring refreshments with them while enjoying the hospitality of Harrisville on one of the many benches that line Main Street or Mill Pond Park off US-23. Picnic tables are available at the Harrisville Harbor Park pavilion on Lake Street and at the Harrisville State Park day-use pavilion off US-23. A Michigan recreation passport is required for entry into the state park.

The best part about the walk is talking with the gardening club crew on hand at each garden. They can explain how the garden started, what the gardener envisioned, obstacles they had to overcome to keep it growing and what they hope for their garden in the future.

Tickets, which are $10, free for children under 12, have written details about each garden. Tickets can be purchased in advance at Craftmakers' Cabin, on US-23 just south of M-72, or at the Alcona County Review, 111 Lake Street in Harrisville. Tickets can be purchased on the day of the walk at the Craftmakers Cabin only from 9 a.m. to noon.

The Sunrise Gardening Club is a not-for-profit organization. All profits received will be used for community benefit. In the past, funds have been used to purchase gardening books and magazine subscriptions for the Alcona County Library, assisted the Friends of Negwegon State Park for park improvements, assisted the Harrisville branch of the Alcona County Library garden with plantings and maintenance, helped to landscape the Alcona County Michigan State University Extension office, and assisted with the Harrisville Harbor trailhead garden and the Harrisville Beautification Project.

The Sunrise Gardening Club meets on the fourth Tuesday of each month at 1 p.m. at the Harrisville branch of the Alcona County Library. For more information about the club or to obtain tickets, contact Ann Pringle (910) 691-7735, or email ann pringle 54-@gmail.com.

Michigan has top-notch training for its conservation officers. I wanted to be a part of a department that valued its officers and made sure they were successful in the field."

Amanda McCurdy was one of six women to graduate from Conservation Officer Recruit School No. 8 in 2017. She recently led a successful multi-agency search and rescue operation for a missing North Carolina hunter near Sleeping Bear Dunes.

"We joined this profession to protect society, enforce the law and hopefully leave this world a little better than we found it," McCurdy said. "That is accomplished regardless of your demographic."

Conservation Officer Jenni Hanson, who works in Gogebic County, graduated from recruit school with McCurdy.

"Females can offer different perspectives and approaches, and I believe this benefits the department and communities we work for," Hanson said.

Assigned to Montmorency County, Conservation Officer Sidney Collins also graduated in 2017 and shares a similar perspective about the unique approach females bring to law enforcement.

"Being a woman in law enforcement can be a very useful tool, for example, sometimes women are able to deescalate situations easier," Collins said. "I use my position to engage and improve community-police relationships through communication and education."

Conservation Officer Jessica Curtis, Alpena County, also from the 2017 recruit school, attributes the communication skills she now uses as an officer to her experience managing her family's business.

"I managed my family's pawn shop," Curtis said. "It was interesting, and I gained many life skills that I use in my career now, such as communicating and de-escalating situations with emotional customers."

In 2018, six women graduated as a part of Recruit School No. 9, including Conservation Officer Anna Cullen of Muskegon County.

"Being a woman in law enforcement can be challenging," Cullen said. "I only say this because society is more accustomed to seeing men in uniform. It's gratifying when a woman in uniform demonstrates that she is just as successful as a man and earns a good reputation from her peers and the public."

Muskegon County is the other county in Michigan patrolled entirely by female conservation officers.

"There are times where we are challenged about our knowledge of the activity an individual is participating in," said Conservation Officer Jackie Miskovich, a 2018 recruit school graduate who patrols Muskegon County. "When working with male officers, often the person we're speaking to looks at the male officer to answer a question that was asked, instead of to the female officer. We're challenged, and we make it through each time as a better person and officer, demonstrating that we are knowledgeable and capable."

Conservation Officer Danielle Zubek has been with the DNR since 2017 and patrols Oakland County. Many people do not consider the vast waterfowl, fishing and recreational opportunities southeast Michigan offers.

"Most people will stop me and ask what I do, not knowing the job of a conservation officer," Zubek said. "Others will ask, 'Why are you down here? The woods are up north!'

"Being a part of the metro-Detroit area gives us as conservation officers the ability to connect with the public, educating them about the opportunities, laws and regulations, particularly at Belle Isle State Park."

In May 2020, more than 40 Michigan DNR conservation officers patrolled the Belle Isle Freedom March, which had more than 1,000 attendees. The mission of the officers was to ensure the public's safety, control traffic and protect the island's cultural treasures.

"Our department was fortunate to be able to connect and walk with members of the Detroit community during the Belle Isle Peace March last summer," Zubek said. "It was a great way to show the community that as a department, we are there for them and that we are here to protect and serve the people of Michigan." All the women serving as Michigan conservation officers agree that DNR law enforcement is a rewarding, equal opportunity for females.

"I quickly recognized a level of camaraderie within the DNR Law Enforcement Division that I didn't see in other agencies," McCurdy said.

Conservation Officer Breanna Reed, who has worked in the job since 2018 and patrols in Missaukee County, offered some advice to females new to the job.

"Be an asset to your agency by continuously striving to be the best officer you can be, and surpassing goals set by yourself and those around you," Reed said. "This will help you build your own confidence and prepare you to be able to handle anything the job throws at you."

Conservation Officer Anna Viau, who graduated as the Recruit School No. 9 class orator and patrols Iron County, also offered supportive suggestions.

"My best advice for women interested in a career in law enforcement would be to have faith in yourself and always work hard toward your goals," Viau said. "I recommend finding a female officer who can mentor you and help you work through challenges and offer encouragement as you work toward your goals. There will always be challenges, but believe me, the results of your effort are more than worth it."

The natural

Kathryn Fritz Kniep and J.M. Ristow

Thomas (Tom) O'Callaghan is entering, as near as anyone can place it, his twentythird year coaching baseball in Alcona County. It says something about the coach, and the man, that his nomination for this column was made by several of the 13 to 16 year old players on his current team, the Harrisville Hurricanes. It takes a great deal to bring respect to the voice of a 14-year old, but it's clearly present as one player explains why the nomination was made. 'He's just a good coach," he says, "He's a good coach." And after a lengthy pause in which he obviously struggles to convey his meaning, "He understands the elements of baseball."

That's not surprising. Atall, rangy, soft-spoken man, O'Callaghan is not much inclined to talk about himself. But those who know him, whether they remember him on the pitcher's mound or in the role of coach, all agree on one thing-here is a man who truly loves baseball. And the game has been a major presence throughout most of his O'Callaghan moved to Harrisville at the age of nine, when his father, Tom Senior, took a job at the local drugstore. Eventually, the elder O'Callaghan built his own store, now Richard's Pharmacy on Main Street. O'Callaghan attended Harrisville High School, graduating in 1946, and became something of a local legend on the pitcher's mound. One local player from those early days remembers him as "a natural." Watching O'Callaghan move among his young players at a recent game, it's easy to see the grace and ability he found on the diamond.

One spectator puts it this way "I've never seen anvone who looked as at home in a baseball uniform as Tom."

His early skills caught the attention of Harrisville's best known ball player, Ki Ki Cuyler, and the future Hall of Famer, then with the Boston Braves organization, felt he had a future beyond the local field of dreams. With Cuyler's support, O'Callaghan tried out for the Detroit Baseball Company on September 20,1946. In the next four years, he played with two minor league teams, the Gainsville (Florida) G-Men and the Waycross (Georgia)

In 1950, he was drafted into the United States Army*. O'Callaghan married his high school sweetheart, Sharon Shannahan, and the couple eventually raised five children.

While his 20-year military career meant extensive travel, the O'Callaghan's made Harrisville home base and wherever they were, O'Callaghan played and coached baseball.

July 24, 1996 ~ By In that time, he coached teams which included both his eldest son, Tim and his voungest, Shawn.

In 1973, O'Callaghan retired from the military with the rank of First Sergeant, he began coaching local teams in June of that year, and played baseball and softball on men's leagues.

Sharon says he has particularly enjoyed working with his current team "teaching them the proper pitching methods and the right way to play ball."

His years as a Sergeant come through in his style of dealing with an age group many would find trying at best. "When he first met with (the Hurricanes)," Sharon says, "he told them if you guys are here to throw rocks at one another and fool around in the dugout, you can leave now." They stayed.

It's that respect-and genuine love-for the game of baseball that makes O'Callaghan "a good coach." His contribution is recognized by his players, their parents, and the community.

As the mother of one player puts it, "Tom is teaching them baseball, and so much more." Then she adds, with a smile, "And when he says sit...They sit down."

State park to open Friday with a picnic bills are out announcing the opening of the Harrisville state park on Friday of this week.

Invitation to the general public is extended, the program to start at 12:30 standard with a picnic dinner.

Members of the State Conservation Commission, which

July 21, 1921 ~ Hand- under the new law has charge of all state parks, are expected to attend.

> 'Come prepared to enjoy yourself", the bill reads, "to do this thoroughly you will need your baskets (filled), your bathing suit, your best smile, and a disposition to boost.

Alcona County officers after moonshiners

July 21, 1921 ~ By "following her nose," so to speak, a cow with a keen scent and an appetite for mash, made explorations in a swamp near McKinnin's corners in Caledonia which resulted in the discovery of a still. The animal wandered off its usual feeding ground and when the boy finally found her, she was neck deep in a mess of corn and wheat mash which she was devouring with evident relish. Report says that the cow staggered on the the way home and that there was a big demand for that evening's mess of milk—but this is only

Word of the discovery came to Prosecuting Attorney Dehnke Friday and he investigated. The plant was found snugly hidden in a large box. Thinking to catch the moonshiners at work, Fred Alstrom and two other men were set to watch the place throughout Friday, the prosecutor and Sheriff Freer stood watch that night and deputies Joe Sovey and Will Elmer took a hand Saturday morning. By noon it was decided that the operators were "wise" and the stuff was seized and brought to the county seat. There were two barrels partly filled with mash, a half dozen kegs, lard cans, etc. The still itself was a contraption rigged up from a cream can and the bowl from a cream separator; it was complete except the coil or worm, which had been removed.

Tuesday the prosecutor, sheriff and a numebr of deputies went to Spruce where an examination was conducted before Justice John Olson. About twenty witnesses were examined and evidence was secured upon which it is expected warrants will issue.

Pizer/Spector

July 18, 1946 ~ A very pretty wedding took place in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Sunday afternoon, July 14 at four o'clock when Miss Molly Spector, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Spector, became the bride of Charles A. Pizer, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Pizer, of Harrisville. A double ring service was read.

The bride and the groom were each given in marriage by their parents. Their attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence R. Pizer, brother and sister-in-law of the Miss G. Spector, sister of the bride, an accomplished singer, sang "O'Promise Me," with beautiful accordion music accompaniment.

For her wedding the bride chose a powder blue streetlength dress, with matching hat. Her bridal bouquet was of orchids. The bridesmaid wore a yellow street-length dress and wore orchids.

Mrs. Spector, mother of the bride, chose powder blue for her daughter's wedding, and Mrs. Pizer, mother of the groom, wore navy sheer.

Following the ceremony, a dinner was served to about eighty guests. A reception and dance were held in the

Mr. and Mr. Pizer left on a week-long honeymoon trip through the east, prior to returning to Harrisville where the groom is employed as manager of the Pizer Department Store.

Moments In Time By The History Channel

- On July 21, 365 A.D., a powerful earthquake off the coast of Greece causes a tsunami that devastates the city of Alexandria, Egypt. It was not until 1995 that archaeologists discovered the ruins of the old city off the coast of present-day Alexandria.
- On July 22, 1598, William Shakespeare's play "The Merchant of Venice" is entered on the Stationers' Register. By decree of Queen Elizabeth, the register licensed printed works, giving the Crown tight control over all published material.
- On July 19, 1799, the Rosetta Stone is found in Egypt by a French soldier. The irregularly shaped black basalt slab contained fragments of passages written Greek, Egyptian hieroglyphics and Egyptian demotic. It held the key to solving the riddle of hieroglyphics, a written language that had been "dead" for nearly 2,000 years.
- On July 24, 1901, William Sydney Porter, otherwise known as O. Henry, is released from prison after serving three years for embezzlement from a bank in Austin, Texas. He began writing stories to support his young daughter while he was in prison.
- On July 25, 1917, in Paris, the exotic dancer Mata Hari is sentenced to death by a French court for spying on Germany's behalf during World War I. Since 1903, she had performed in Paris as a dancer, claiming she was an Indian priestess.
- On July 20, 1948, President Harry Truman institutes a military draft with a proclamation calling for nearly 10 million men to register for within the next two months. Truman's action came during increasing Cold War tensions with the Soviet Union
- On July 23, 1976, members of the American Legion who were gathered in Philadelphia begin suffering from a mysterious form of pneumonia. Within 10 days, 22 people were dead and hundreds were experiencing pneumonia-like symptoms. Their ailment would come to be known as Legionnaires disease.

Strange But True By Lucie Winborne

- "Bonobo," the common name for apes, was a typo. Researchers are said to have first found the animals in the town of Bolobo, Zaire, but misspelled the town's name as "Bonobo" on the crate in which one was shipped, and the error stuck.
- Are you a fan of coffee breaks? Then you'll want to head to Stoughton, Wisconsin, for their annual Coffee Break Festival, featuring coffee tastings, "brew-offs" and -- seriously -- bean-spitting contests. Next one's in August.
- The world's largest padlock measures an impressive 56.8 inches tall, 41.3 inches wide, and 10.2 inches deep, and weighs in at 916 pounds. Sorry, we don't know what it was built to protect ...
- One of the earliest known vacuum cleaners was so large that it had to be hauled via a horse-drawn carriage. Giant hoses were inserted into customers' windows while a gaspowered motor sucked dirt into a glass container for the shock and awe of onlookers.
- · You can thank the American armed forces for the first McDonald's Drive Thru, which made its debut in Sierra Vista, Arizona, near the Fort Huachuca military installation. Rules prohibited soldiers from wearing their uniforms in public, and no one wanted to switch to civvies just to grab a burger, so restaurant manager David Rich cut a hole in the wall, allowing them to pick up their orders without leaving their vehicles. Unsurprisingly, the idea quickly caught on with the general public.
- The next time someone tells you they're sweating like a pig, they're actually lying (though, we're sure, unintentionally!): Pigs are born without sweat glands, hence the need for a nice mud puddle to cool off in.

New presumptives for Agent Orange

The Department of Veterans Affairs has added three presumptives to its list of illnesses caused by Agent Orange: bladder cancer, hypothyroidism and Parkinsonism.

The new ones are added to: AL amyloidosis, chronic B-cell leukemias, chloracne, diabetes mellitus Type 2, Hodgkin's disease, ischemic heart disease, multiple myeloma, non-Hodgkin's lymphoma, Parkinson's disease, peripheral neuropathy early-onset, porphyria cutanea tarda, prostate cancer, respiratory cancers and soft tissue sar-

We have Nehmer vs. U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs to thank for that, the 1986 class-action lawsuit that continues to give and give. If you previously filed for benefits for the three new illnesses, your case will now automatically be reviewed. No need to refile. Each time a new illness is added, Nehmer means that any previous claims for illnesses will be reviewed and disability pay will be retroactive to the date of the initial

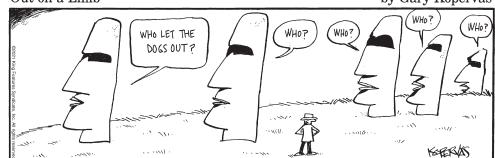

But that's not all. The VA will now consider making a list of respiratory illnesses into presumptives. They're calling it "particulate matter pollution," coming from the burn pits, as well as sandstorm dust, pollution, fuels, vehicle exhaust and dirt from farming or construction. Illnesses they're looking at include asthma, rhinitis and sinusitis for those who served in the Persian Gulf War after Sept. 19, 2001, or in Afghanistan and Uzbekistan during the Persian Gulf War.

When it comes to air-quality presumptives, one wonders about the incinerator outside Naval Air Facility Atsugi in Japan that ran from 1985 to 2001, spewing 90 tons of medical and industrial waste daily. The VA website says there is no scientific evidence that the incinerator caused risk of disease and therefore no presumptive illnesses ... yet the med.navy.mil site has many medical links, including one from 1994 that says air monitoring indicated there was a "significantly elevated risk to human health" from those incinerator emissions. In 2001, it followed up with a 574-page Human Health Risk Assessment. The VA needs to read it. (c) 2021 King Features Synd.,

State park hosts BB gun safety shoot

Teaching gun safety to promote future hunters was the key objective last weekend by bringing the National Wild Turkey Federation (NWTF) of Michigan BB gun challenge shoot to the Harrisville State Park.

The free event was held in conjunction with the Alcona Turkey Trotters, a local chapter operating under NWTF, and the Harrisville State Park.

Colleen Higgins, Harrisville State Park secretary said bringing the event to Harrisville had been a challenge in itself. "This is something we've been working on for about five years. I'm so glad to see it finally here and hope it can become an annual event.

"It's good for the kids and families, we have gun safety courses held here, but nothing for bb guns and this is a draw for families with age seven and up kids," she said.

Steve Sharp, the NWTF Michigan R3 coordinator, said it was his first time in Harrisville. He anticipated over 50 kids to enjoy the challenge during the three hours he was there last Friday and said if it goes well and the interest is high, it may become an annual event at the park. The R3 designation stands for recruitment, retention and reactivation.

Sharp explained the NWTF mission statement -- the conservation of wild turkey and the preservation of hunting heritage. "We are teaching safe firearm handling and to shoot properly in a safe and fun environment," he said.

The environment is an air-filled shooting station that can accommodate two shooters safely and has a pully string attachment for pinning targets and sending them to the back of the apparatus for safe target practice.

Before any youth or adult enters the station with a bb gun, Sharp gives a detailed lesson on the firearm they will be handling by pointing out various items such as where the trigger and safety are located, how to properly hold the gun, how to take aim and fire in the safest possible way and that, like any manmade machine, it can malfunction and misfire.

"The park has done an excellent job telling people about this and we expect around 50 youth to take on the challenge today. It's a lot of fun and more so when the whole family is involved and they have their own competitions, sometimes to see who buys the family ice cream. Everyone seems to enjoy it.

"Youth who shoot over 40 out of 50 points receive a certificate in the mail from the NWTF," Sharp said. An adult must accompany the youth to participate in the challenge.

He spoke about the heritage of hunting, how hunting numbers have been steadily declining and that hunting pays for conservation efforts. Through the 1937 Federal Aid in Wildlife Restoration Act, known as the Pittman-Robertson Act, an 11 percent tax was placed on hunting equipment and ammunition. Those dollars, upwards of a billion, are then allocated by the federal government to fish and wildlife services and the state to help in the management and restoration of wild-

Because of the decline in hunting, something like this challenge helps kids get interested in shooting sports," Sharp said.

According to the NWTF, participation in hunting has been declining since the 1980s, a concern since hunters help regulate wildlife populations, provide conservation funding, create economic growth and job opportunities all helping to sustain a way of life for future conservationists.

Scott Kroon, president of the Alcona Turkey Trotters chapter since 2004, said the cost of bringing the shooting station event to Harrisville is paid by the NWTF and no cost is passed on to their chapter, the state park or participants.

The Alcona Turkey Trotters, a non-profit organization, has been an operating chapter of the Michigan NWTF since 1994 and has about 180 members. The group meet monthly for about six months out of the year. It is a community-minded club focused on hunting and shooting sports and, typically, hold an annual fundraising banquet each spring.

The Alcona Turkey Trotters has been actively involved in supporting the Hot Shot 4-H Shooters and the 4-H archery program by donating ammunition, bows and scholarships for youth to participate in competitions.
